8 P.M. Saturday ①

My dear,

Your letter was waiting for me indeed Father brought it in his carriage to meet me at 10<sup>45</sup>
And from 11 to 4 literally I helped to fix the house - Grace & Margt Helen & I & Father - It really looked charming Your roses were really charming, beautiful - better than ever I have seen them my dear Nell

②

Anything happened to your green lines of a favorable nature.
Father says please
to thank you ever so much for them - I put your dresses in the back parlor & your white & yellow in three trunks in the front parlor - The rooms were all pink &
the table pink & the shades pink & pink Carnations etc. I poured but there were 80 people here - One Willie Buckley 1228, Madison Avenue.

But One Daniel

Walter Remsen, Osley
Hall, Hund, Griffin
I Mrs, ~~But~~ Park

White Park White

Alice <sup>Dr</sup> Culham & Mrs. <sup>Pratt</sup>

<sup>Homan</sup> The Chancellor of Vandubuel

Univ. - Hole Hole of Univ. men whom I met

① for the first time - many more men than women Hays, Mrs. Kelly, Mr. Kelly and Mrs. Kelly - Every one stand all the time
by all Randal was the hold me he left
you talking to Mrs Bourne I was rather disconcerted when I showed my goal

Surprise I assured him
it was quite impossible

Mr. Ch. Lam is glad

it is over - I wonder

if we really saw more

of each other - whether people wd not be a ft of difference between us - They tire me so

even now when I know

⑥ better how to talk to them I wore my green furs of course
of my necklace

I am blue blue blue For two days I have been very melancholy
& yr letter my darling
made me more
so - somehow or other — 3 — I wonder

 why. I have wanted esp<sup>l</sup> to see you lately — but I find it is so unsatisfactory — I want to satisfy myself once
 just once — but it looks impossible — &
 yet when I am
 away from Mamie
 I am unhappy. So

⑧ There ~~is~~ it is a
name has been so
sweet lately & always Now goodbye
my dear one, they are all talking
around me Goodbye
