Dearest Minnie,

I got your little note this evening, & I'll tell you that you are coming, and then waited anxiously in your telephone wh. and came while we were at lunch — I am so sorry that Maunie is not well — I ~~cannot~~ have these one or two days of discomfort, in she could not have helped enjoying it — His Genjine "last night was simply idyllic — & his leuli in "Les Surprises au Divorce" wh.
I loved just as perfect, I could not resistibly funny play that it is —

Dear Sir,
 I got your letter of the 11th inst. and was glad to hear from you. I am well and hope these few lines will find you the same. I have not much news to write at present. I am still in the city and hope to be home in a few days.
 I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
 J. W. [Name]

I am afraid you will be utterly worn out by the time you get here and if you are so tired, you will surely have to give up going to see him tomorrow night. Be sure to telegraph me your name.
I do hope it will be the 4.

I enclose some things for you to read in the train. Now I hope that all will go well at the meeting.
The enclosed is all that I have seen so far about Mr. Childs' will.
I suppose he has left at least memoranda of things he wishes you to carry out. — Surely it must mean $2,000,000 —

Write to me soon —

Yours truly,
May 2d.

 and if you are in luck you will simply have to give up tonight to him tomorrow night. Be sure to telegraph me your name so that I will be able to locate your things properly when I see them - I will take care of them for you.

The enclosed is all that I have been so far about Mr. Child's will.
 I suppose he has left at least a memorandum of his intentions for his own use - I am not sure if I am - I will be in contact with him in connection with his will.
 I am, my dear friend,
 yours,

Miss Mary Garrett;

My dear Miss Garrett

Permit me to submit for your perusal the enclosed letter from the Editor of the Forum in regard to an article on the preparation of girls for College. Should the suggestion made by Mr.
Page meet with your approval, I shall be glad to (6) conform the proposed article to the lines indicated. In that case may I hope that you will favor me with the facts in regard to the origin and development of the Bryn Mawr idea. Through the courtesy of my friend Dr. Howe I have already visited the school in which I find an almost perfect realization of my ideal of secondary education for girls. I shall be in Baltimore for ten days or two weeks longer. If you can grant me an interview, I shall deem it a great privilege to talk with you on this subject and will be happy to call at any time that may be most convenient for you to receive me.

Being an entire stranger in Baltimore I enclose copy of a letter from Mr. Curry by way of introduction and a criticism from Mr. Matic of the "Outlook" as an earnest of my small literary attainments as yet unknown to you.

Very Cordially Yours,

Dora Duty Jones.

My dear Miss Jones,

I wish I had more time to write you more fully, but I must close for this time. I have had the pleasure of talking with you the other day when I was at the office of the Board of Education, and we would have had many interesting conversations.

I think your idea is a good one, and I hope to see it carried out. I should like to see you again a day or two.

At a meeting of the Board, held at your office, you explained the subject of the proposed school, and I was very much interested in what you said. I have since had some conversations with the Board, and I have no doubt that they will be very much interested in the subject. I have also had some conversations with the Board of Education, and I have no doubt that they will be very much interested in the subject. I have also had some conversations with the Board of Education, and I have no doubt that they will be very much interested in the subject.

Mrs. Dora D. Jones.

My dear Miss Jones.

I have read with interest - the sonnet handed me by Dr. Deems, with your request for an "adverse criticism"; and I really can make no such criticism! It seems to me entirely correct in form & admirable in expression. If in result so commensurate with accepted forms, I should ask permission to keep it for publication. I am saying this to you in all frankness. I have read the sonnet carefully & critically several times and I think it exceptionally good from every point of view. Your friends have not wished you in praising your work if it comes up to this standard. Wishing you all success I am

Sincerely Yours,

My dear Miss Jones:

I wish I had known that you were in Baltimore, for then I should have had the pleasure of talking with you the other day, when there, about the subject of your letter; for we could talk much more satisfactorily than I can write.

I think your idea is a good one; but the obvious danger is of your going off into somewhat too general a discussion. I should say at a hazard, that if you write an article specifically about the school that Miss Garrett has established, explaining why this is the only <sup>entirely</sup> ~~essentially~~ satisfactory preparatory school for girls that exists, I believe that keeping at the subject along this concrete line would be very fruitful; because <sup>it would be</sup> more definite than anything like a general discussion of the subject. The truth is, general discussions have had their day and there is hardly a subject under the sun that has not been handled in this fashion; but a brand new institution, an institution that represents and exemplifies a definite new idea, is much more nearly a proper Forum topic. Of course I don't mean to exclude any helpful <sup>general</sup> information that might be crowded around such a specific discussion.

I beg to say, therefore, that if you will undertake this task, while I cannot give you positive assurance that I will use your article, I can most heartily assure you that everything so far as I can now see looks favorable to its use.

I sincerely hope you success in your academic undertaking and I very much admire your courage in the matter.
