up every morning at half past six so I did not matter

One thing very nice I have discovered - My graduate altogether repent a total of 147 years

(40+40+35 + 32) & I know

a great deal more than they do. It might just as well have been the other way I am convinced, I think so

Mrs Clemes will prob. not be appointed here. I concluded not to assume the theological responsibility and we are about to put in a ^{candidate} another whom I had held in reserve - and I don't know what to say now that it comes to the point - whether to pay her passage and say $300 as trial this year - giving her the secretary work and promising nothing beyond the possibility or whether to let her go

② still I th'd I w'd write to you at once so that you might at least make no permanent secretary arrangements until we had th'd further about it. I have asked Aunt Hannah to ask Lord Mount-Temple for the plans - of course requesting her to say nothing about it. It was chivalrous, worthy of a paladin of old, to avoid saying the name of Annapolis in your note - I wonder why I always mis-give to you - no sooner did the postman of Champey start down the mountain with my letter to you on his back than I remembered that I had made Mr. Hoffman feminine — perhaps it is because I am

③ thinking of your golden room. I am sorry you could not go to Annapolis but perhaps I should be truthful enough to tell you that it looks now as if I could not have got off possibly - but instead I will write to you a nice long letter on the type writer - if I feel tired enough to lie down so long - I think of over what you said about Beesie McCall; it never had occurred to me that ~~there~~ could be she would notice whether I went ~~at once~~ or not. I decided that I could not go - you see because I can defer lectures it does not seem right to do what I should be displeased at any one's else doing - and our lectures here are never deferred, except for illness; then too it is not undergraduates but

10/11 they receive them every 6 or 7 or 8 graduates, & cross them, who do nothing all day & night but study Anglo Saxon & what will happen if their daily meal of me were deferred - I do not know - but I send her instead a very cordial letter & ~~and~~ have packed with my dozen spoons, alas. This was intended to be a line but it is empty of you, & not to be paid as my acc. sec. has been talked to that it is through it - Will you tell me whether Jennie Delane is to meet you this month or if so whether she will be in Balto next week or the week after. That is all the 22nd or 23rd or 24th because that is your good date either on one or the other & I have seen you -
