Dearest Mary

This is only a note to say that as Father told me today that Dr. Allen had been sent for to Deer Park I cannot let the mail go without telling you that I hope no temporary drawback in your father's health will give you fresh anxiety. I know you are so far from well yourself that even a very little thing may pull you down. Father was attending a patient with Dr. Smith, so it was unavoidable his knowing of his ^{possible} absence. You do not know because it is stupid to tell you so as often as I feel like telling you how many times I wish that there were some little thing I cd. do to make your this time of taking care of your father and of your-self easier for you.

If there ever should be any thing I cd.

do - no matter what - you must, & I believe you would, let me know. Of course Julia relieves you in every possible way - & indeed I can think of nothing except by occultism transforming myself into a valet as efficient as Rawlinston and more agreeable - but if ever ~~she is distressed~~ any occasion arise you will remember, will you not? ~~Anything.~~

It is very warm here again; thermometer 86 at 7 P. M. and the Univ. men from whom I have to extract information, which costs me a evening for each department.

are very tiresome en masse. Marshall Eliot was here from 8 till a quarter to 11 last night and Bloomfield comes tomorrow. ~~My~~. Then I shall interview Gildersleeve & Rensen and shall find them more moderate in the time they give me, Besie is to all appearance well. The mail is due. I will write you no more notes but you think a scrawl from me as inevitable as breakfast or a bath.

~~My~~

Very lovingly yours
