

Miss Mary Worthington
1228 Madison Avenue
Baltimore
Maryland

Nov 5 1911

The Deanery,
Bryn Mawr,
Pennsylvania.

Dear Mary

Uncle Harry dined here last night and told us that like a brave little soldier, as you are, you affure of trying what help Uncle Simon and the Rockefeller Institute can give in the problem before us all — how to get you well and strong again. That is the only thing that matters now. Uncle Henry & Aunt Zoe hate to let you go but they too think that it is best. There will be one compensation to me (and we hope to you) Aunt Mary and I can see you often as I have to go to New York constantly on business.

You will have lots of Bryn Maur visitors also and your Mother and Aunt Helen.

and Uncle Frank, as well as Uncle Simon. We shall try to make up in quantity for what we lack in quality as an exchange for Uncle Harry and Aunt Zoe and Aunt Margaret.

You will, I am sure, put all the energy that was to go into that stupid anatomy this winter into getting well.
After all even if you cannot go on with your medical work it is not so bad (is it?) to have a little time this winter for general reading and we must all get keep you supplied with books. I want to tell you all about Louisville and the triumph of a righteous cause. I hope to see you on Friday if you get off to New York as I have to speak there on Saturday

Aunt Mary joins me in dearest love to the dearest of neeces
Yours lovingly
Aunt Carey