C. A. SECURES POPULAR SPEAKERS TO CELEBRATE 6TH ANNIVERSARY

Week-end Conference Promises Well

In connection with its annual week-end Conference, the Christian Association will celebrate the sixth anniversary of its founding out of the Christian Union and the Christian League next week. President Thomas, Dr. Coffin of New York, Dr. Howland of Buffalo, Dr. Barton, Miss Applebee and several of the Alumnæ who have been most influential in the work of the C. A. are to be among the speakers at various meetings, to which all alumnæ members have been invited.

On Wednesday, March 6th, the exact anniversary of the beginning of the Christian Association, the usual nine-thirty meeting will be held in Rockefeller Hall, and will be intended as an opening of the conference and celebration. N. Mc-Faden, '17, will address all committee ones between 1917 and 1918, lacking their members and all Freshmen.

byterian Church of New York, one of the most noted speakers at summer conferences, will conduct a special service on Friday evening in Taylor. Dr. Coffin is co-operating with Dr. Howland of Buffalo, who will lead the Sunday evening service, in conducting the conference.

On Saturday afternoon Miss Appplebee will give a tea in the Gymnasium at which the members of the C. A. will meet the speakers. That evening a mass meeting will be held in Taylor. President Thomas, Dr. Barton, Elsie Deems, '10, Hilda Smith, '10, Leila Houghteling, '11, and Miss Applebee are to tell of the C. A. as they have seen it.

On Sunday Leila Houghteling, '11, will lead special vespers service. The speaker for that evening will be Dr. Howland.

R. CHENEY'S RESIGNATION BRINGS UP QUESTION OF SELF-GOV POLICY

The question of accepting the resignation of R. Cheney, '18, from the office of Treasurer of the Students' Association for Self-Government was still undecided at the end of the long meeting on Monday night. After hearing Miss Cheney's reasons for resignation and the five possible grounds for refusing or accepting this resignation as outlined by the President, M. Russell, '16, the Association voted to consider, for better understanding of the main question, the attitude on honorreporting.

News Fails to Distinguish Academic Honors

To the Editor of "The College News":

In the issue of "The College News" for February 17th, I find, for the third time since mid-April, an announcement of the award to me of a Fellowship. Fire Drill Follows '18's Victory

Routed from the lethargy which followed the excitement of the water polo, Thursday night, by the sound of the fire bell, Pembroke West assembled wearily in the front hall. E. Holcombe, '17, in the double capacity of fire captain and head proctor, merely remarking on towels which were not wet, passed over the firedrill and took up the cudgels of Self-Government against Pembroke West.

She said that the Self-Government Board had recently summoned her and complained not only of the noisiness of Pembroke West, but also of its failure to report the breaking of rules. Miss Holcombe said she thought these faults were due to general carelessness rather than to particular individuals. The proctors have

JUNIORS AND SENIORS DROP OUT IN PRELIMINARIES

'16 and '19 Slow Until Second Half

1916 and 1919 came off on Thursday night, to the light and shade, the unfailing ending in a victory for 1919, with a score comic or pathetic "relief" of American of 3-5. During the first half F. In the very last minute of the game P. Turle threw the last goal for '18, bringing the score to 4-3.

The game was a splendid one, fast, determined, aggressive. The teams fought their hardest individually and together. T. Howell was the special star for 1918 together with M. Strauss, whose work at guard was beyond criticism. 1917 fought desperately without much head-work, while 1918 managed to be unguarded at the right moments, and made long, clean passes.

Only in the character of the goddess Artemis did Mrs. Wheeler makes one feel a really individual personality. There, her medium of slow and musical impressiveness and her tall, majestic figure were entirely appropriate.

But Mrs. Wheeler's partial failure to accomplish an almost impossible task is of relatively small importance. ### CHALLENGE ATTACKS ACADEMIC TRADITIONS

Radicalism

Several of the undergraduates of Columbia University have published the first issue of a new monthly magazine, "The Challenge", which because of its radicalism and, in particular, of its bitter attack on the present system of education has attracted considerable notice. "The Challenge" is intended, in time, to be thoroughly intercollegiate in scope. It offers, its prospectus says, to the students of America "an opportunity to redeem themselves in the eyes of the public and to demonstrate that they are indeed a thinking part of the community in which they live, that they are not leading the cloistered life of protected innocence and that they are striving with all the sympathy of youth to bring scholarship into an organic relation with the social life of their fellow men".

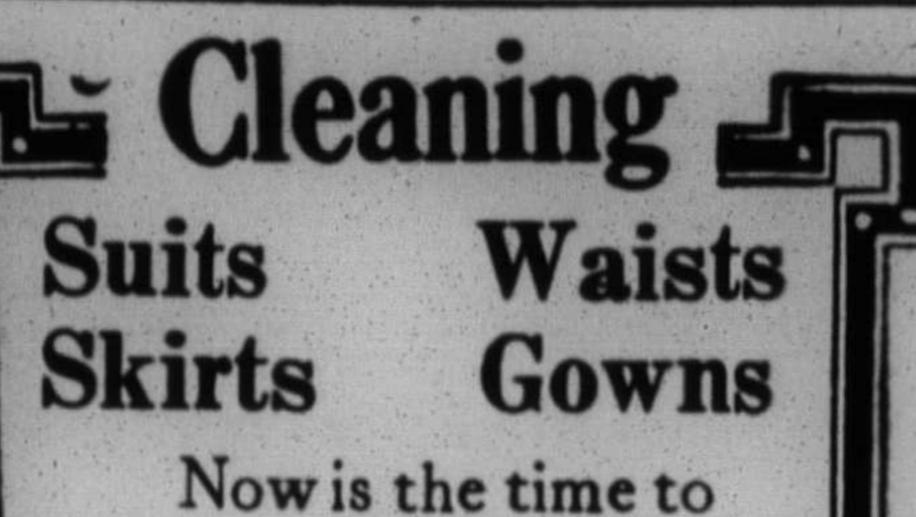

The present issue of "The Challenge" contains "An Open Letter to College Girls," which urges that there be included in the curriculum of every woman's college a course calculated to prepare the students for comprehending motherhood; an article on "Academic Freedom," which among others makes the charge that "the attitude of the average professor toward the student is very insulting". Several of the articles treat of the question of war from various standpoints. Such are "Prepar-E. HEAD OF GLEN MILLS FABM SCHOOL TO DISCUSS SOCIAL GUARDIANSHIP

Mrs. Falconer Pioneer in Work

The old House of Refuge for Girls in Philadelphia, with its barred windows and its uniformed inmates, to which delinquent girls were committed, has been changed into the Glen Mills Farm School, at Darlington, Pennsylvania, with its system of self-government and its small cottages, by the work of Mrs. Falconer, who as officers, so Miss Cheney's status in this is to speak to Miss Kingsbury's class on Social Problems on March 8th and 15th. Her subjects will be "The Scope of Social Guardianship" and "Reform Schools for Girls in Relation to Social Guardianship".

The Glen Mills School is composed of sign. 500 girls, sent up from the courts, ranging in age from six to twenty-one years. They live in ten large cottages. No uni- criminating evidence she possesses, but forms are worn in the school. Except in that, as an individual, it would be morally the two receiving houses there is selfgovernment, and the girls are given the freedom of the grounds. In spite of this freedom there are few attempts to escape and those who show themselves untrustworthy in this respect are deprived of their privileges of self-government.

One hundred and sixty-three dollars were taken at the doors at Mrs. Pankhurst's lecture for the benefit of the Servian Fund. In addition to this the regular lecture fee paid by the College CHESTNUT STREET OPERA HOUSE-War Films. was turned over to the fund by Mrs. Pankhurst.

R. Cheney's Resignation

Grounds for Refusing Resignation

The points on which the discussion turned were the grounds given by Miss Russell for refusing to accept Miss Cheney's resignation: 1. An officer cannot resign and take information as to incriminating evidence with her. 2. Individuals have to give information as well respect would not be changed by becoming an individual. 3. Miss Cheney has the right to discriminate, whether as an officer, or as an individual. She is therefore within her rights and need not re-

Miss Cheney's attitude, however, was that, as an officer, she must give the inwrong for her to betray a confidence.
