

Haverford Mock Trial

Mock Trial is a competitive activity that combines speech and debate with acting. Every year the team receives a fictitious case from the American Mock Trial Association (AMTA) and works together to build original arguments for both the prosecution and defense side. At trial, our attorneys and witnesses compete against other teams before a panel of judges. The judges (all current judges, attorneys or law students) score the teams based on the strengths of their arguments, presentation, and general performance.
