HOWARD S. TURNER 1945 FUND CHAIRMAN

HOWARD S. TURNER '33 came to Swarthmore from George School in the Fall of 1929. As an undergraduate he took an active part in dramatics and in Junior Varsity soccer and lacrosse. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi. In 1933 he entered Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he majored in organic chemistry and minored in chemical engineering. Simultaneously, he courted Katharine Swett and studied for his doctorate with the result that he received both his Ph.D. and marriage license in June 1936. For the past eight and one half years he has been in the employ of the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company as research chemist. Since 1942 he has been connected with the technical division of the Rayon Department of that Company and now carries the responsibility for development work on new films.

HOWARD S. TURNER, '33

Since graduation Mr. Turner has taken an active interest in the Alumni affairs of the College and is currently a member of the Alumni Council from Zone 1. He served as Chairman of the Economics Discussion Group, 1943-44, and is a member of the Swarthmore Borough Council.

OPERATING Swarthmore College is a pretty complicated proposition. As if it were not a large order to turn out the educated product, there is also the formidable problem of running a million dollar annual business. In this issue of the GARNET LETTER, President Nason has written the plain facts about this problem. He has told us how well the College has weathered a storm, which, in the past two years, has treated Swarthmore far more gently than most comparable institutions. Alumni contributions have helped the College through this period, but with the probable elimination of the Navy V-12 training program in June, the College will, for the first time, be faced with a seriously reduced income. Whereas in the past, gifts from alumni have helped to raise Swarthmore's standards, now they are needed to preserve them.

Preserving standards is more than digging academic foxholes and holding a line; it involves having the strength to advance. Thus, the ultimate value of Swarthmore College consists in its ability to move forward, not only in the lives and achievements of its growing alumni, but in its own continuing program of development. We want Swarthmore to be the magnet which draws the best all-around students. To do this among institutions, it cannot stand still.

This campaign cannot succeed without your support. We are counting on your generosity just as you, perhaps unknowingly, relied on the generosity of those whose gifts helped to create the Swarthmore of your undergraduate days. It is up to you!

Enclosed is a card and a return envelope which needs no postage. Please send your contribution at once.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

WITH this issue of THE GARNET LETTER the fifth annual Alumni Fund gets under way. It will be an important campaign. Let me state the facts as bluntly and as honestly as I know how.

Two comments are occasionally made in response to an appeal to alumni for funds. The first runs: "Why should I give to Swarthmore? After all it is a wealthy college." The second goes: "The college doesn't need my money; it balances its budget with a comfortable margin." Both comments are half true and half false, and they deserve analysis. I shall begin with the second.

It is true that the college has balanced its budget for many years. Under normal circumstances this is the only sensible way of operating any enterprise. This year there is a prospective deficit of $45,000, and next year it may be greater. Three factors outside the college's control have produced the present situation. (1) The enrolment of civilian men has dropped from last year's 150 to 100 at the present time. Last year we had 300 Navy V-12 seamen and 50 Chinese naval officers. This winter our Navy quota has been decreased to 250; in the spring it will be reduced to 187. (2) The rate of return on the endowment is running around 4.0% net. Two years ago it was 4.4% net. Relatively the rate is still high, and the Trust Committee of the Board deserves the grateful congratulations of everyone. Absolutely, however, a decrease in four-tenths of one per cent means a loss of $32,000—a sum equivalent to half the cost of operating the library, to the salaries of five full professors, or to the scholarship grants of 150 men. (3) The size of the faculty does not automatically adjust itself to the number of students. Departments must have appropriations and buildings must be heated even if the number of students drops. Furthermore, the cost of operating the college plant—heating and maintaining the buildings, running the dormitories, feeding the students—has gone up. It is not easy to give comparative figures because of the presence of the Navy and operation on a three-term basis. Roughly, however, the increase amounts to 20%.

Next year the situation will be more difficult. While not definite, it looks as if our V-12 unit will be eliminated in June. The national program is being reduced. The small units will probably be the first to go. The number of civilian men is anyone's guess. Even with returning veterans it is not likely to exceed 150 unless we can offer more scholarships to the able civilian boys who are sought after so eagerly by every college in the country. We can enroll 50 to 75 women more than the normal 350. To go much beyond this is to create one or two years later a major problem to alleviate a present pain. A total enrolment of 550 to 575 will begin to bring home some of the dislocations which other institutions have been suffering and from which we have been so far happily spared. While retrenchment can and will be made, there is a limit to what is sensible and right if the college is to be ready for the opportunity of the post-war years. The college has received considerable recognition for its maintenance of a full program of undergraduate education at a time when many institutions have had to cut their academic coat to suit a very much shrunken cloth. Unless our policy is to be reversed, however, we must face the possibility of another deficit in 1945-46. Every dollar contributed to the college not only helps to close the gap between income and expense, but strengthens the college for the big job ahead.

Now for the first comment: Swarthmore is a wealthy college. In comparison with middle western, western, and southern institutions of the same size, Swarthmore is wealthy. As coeducational colleges go we have one of the highest endowments per student. When we compare Swarthmore, however, with some of the eastern institutions with which we compete, it is a different story. We have $8,000,000 of endowment. Amherst has $12,000,000, Williams $11,000,000, Bowdoin with slightly fewer students $8,500,000, Haverford with half our student body $4,425,000.

It would be just as true to say that Swarthmore is poor as to say it is wealthy. The college is poor in that it leaves undone many things that it ought to do. It gives no instruction in anthropology, sociology, or geography. Other departments are understaffed. Its laboratory facilities should be better. The library compares unfavorably with those of comparable institutions. The development of engineering research is hampered for lack of funds. More adequate provisions for scholarships will determine both the number and quality of men students after the war. The college program is constantly pressing against the financial resources.

The plans for the future development at Swarthmore will be put down on paper during the course of the present year. A joint board-faculty-alumni committee will explore the needs for new buildings and for new endowment or its equivalent. An additional women's dormitory must obviously come high on the list. A new library would be of immense value to the college. The chemistry department deserves a new building. These are not theoretical but real needs. The wealth of a college should not be measured in absolute terms, but in the relation of its resources to its purposes. On that basis Swarthmore is not wealthy.

Swarthmore is, I believe, at the beginning of a new chapter in her history. The war has been a severe jolt to higher education—an almost disastrous jolt to some institutions, a useful stimulus to others. We are exploring ways in which we can adapt and improve the program so that the college will serve better a world which after the war will make more severe demands on its performance and set more difficult standards for success.

Nothing succeeds like success. The very successes for

HOWARD COOPER JOHNSON '96 NEW

CHARLES F. JENKINS AND HENRY C. TURNER '93 RETIRE

AT its regular December Meeting Howard Cooper Johnson '96 was elected Chairman of the Board of Managers of Swarthmore College. His election followed the resignation of Charles F. Jenkins, who had been a member of the Board since 1904, and its Chairman since 1933. Another valued member Henry C. Turner '93 resigned ending a term of service which began in 1912. At the same time two new members were added, Frank Aydelotte, who for nineteen years was President of the College and Edmund G. Robinson '05, who was chosen by the Alumni Association.

and Comptroller Pittenger and Chairman of the Committees which selected President Aydelotte and President Nason.

After graduating from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1899, he was in actual practice as head of the firm of Johnson, Gilkyson & Freeman, being Associate Counsel for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company for twenty-five years. In 1927 he was elected Vice-President and General Counsel of Strawbridge & Clothier, a position which he now holds. He has been Chairman of the Philadelphia Committee of the Pennsylvania Economy League, President (four terms) of Philadelphia Merchants Association, Vice-President of WFIL Broadcasting Company, President of College Realty Company, a member of the Mayor's Financial Advisory Committee and the Committee on Philadelphia Debt Structure; a member of the American, Pennsylvania and Philadelphia Bar Associations, the American Judicature Society, the Law Academy of Philadelphia, the American Philatelic Society and the Zoological Society. He is a director of Benjamin Franklin Hotel Company, Roane County Oil Company, Philadelphia Credit Bureau, Family Society of Western Delaware County and Associate, Wallingford Chapter American Red Cross.

In his service to the Society of Friends he has been a member of the Representative Committee of the Yearly Meeting, Treasurer of Race Street Monthly Meeting, Trustee of Green Street Monthly Meeting, of Friends Central School, President of Jeanes Hospital and is now President of the Trustees of Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of Friends.

In 1903 he married Edith Lamb, of the Class of '98 and has three sons—Lt. Com. Robert E. L. Johnson, U. S. N. R., '27, Lt. Howard Cooper Johnson, Jr., U. S. N. R., '30, and George K. Johnson, 3rd, who has just received an honorable discharge from the Army.

His clubs are Union League, Corinthian Yacht, Rose Tree Hunt, Northeast Harbor Fleet, Southwest Harbor Country, Kiwanis (Pres. 1923), Keystone Automobile Players Club of Swarthmore, and New Jersey Society (Pres. 1932-4). He was Treasurer of the University Club for nine years and Vice-President from 1926-30.

As a lawyer he has had four extra curricular interests—Swarthmore College, yachting, horses and stamp collecting. His yawl "Dreamer" and for several years before Pearl Harbor his cutter "Valkyrie," were known in almost every harbor from the James River to Newfoundland and in the races at Mt. Desert he has frequently been at the helm of the "Valkyrie."

Mr. Johnson's election marks the first time in the history of the College that an Alumnus has served as Chairman of the Board of Managers; an honor which is merited by reason of his forty-three years of service as a Board member. In simple terms Mr. Johnson is a devout Swarthmorean. His College interests vary from matters pertaining to academic life to those which make him a familiar figure at virtually every home football game—he dislikes basketball, however, because the "whistle blows too often."

Mr. Johnson entered Swarthmore from Eastburn Academy. While an undergraduate he was President of his Class, Associate Editor of the '96 Halcyon, Assistant Business Manager and then Editor-in-Chief of the Phoenix; Ivy Orator, President of Delta Upsilon, member of Book & Key and Theta Nu Epsilon. With C. G. Hodge he held the Doubles Championships in tennis for four years and was twice Captain of "Scrub Varsity" football.

As an Alumnus he served on the Alumni Athletic Committee; is a past President of the Philadelphia Club and of the College Alumni Association and for many years was Chairman of the annual Swarthmore Club dinners. For four years he was Lecturer in Law on the Faculty.

In 1901 he was elected to the Board of Managers and since has served as Counsel for the College and has been Secretary and Vice-President of the Corporation, Chairman of the Executive Committee and a member of the Trust Committee. During this time the endowment has risen from $360,000 to over $8,200,000. He was a member of the Board Committee which chose President Swain

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS

EDMUND G. ROBINSON '05 AND FRANK AYDELOTTE APPOINTED

THE resignation of Charles Francis Jenkins was accepted with regret and deep appreciation of his years of service. He has carried his responsibilities for Swarthmore College in addition to a busy life as publisher, landed proprietor, and historical scholar. He is Chairman and Publisher of the Farm Journal, President of the Buck Hill Falls Company, President of the Pennsylvania Historical Society, and member of the American Philosophical Society. Keenly interested in Pennsylvania History and in the signers of the Declaration of Independence, he has written articles and books of note, including the definitive biography, Button Guinett, Signer of the Declaration. His home in Germantown, "Far Country," is the centre of a famous arboretum of hemlocks, the officially chosen tree of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Henry C. Turner graduated from Swarthmore in 1893. In May 1902 he founded the Turner Construction Company which is now one of the largest organizations of its kind in the world. He served as President of the company until 1941 at which time he became Chairman of the Board. Mr. Turner is a Director of the Buck Hill Falls Company, trustee of the Brooklyn Savings Institution, member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, member of the American Society for Testing Materials, member of the American Concrete Institute, and member of the New York State Chamber of Commerce. He is a trustee of the Long Island College of Medicine and a regent of the Long Island College Hospital. His clubs include, the Engineers of New York, Bankers of America, Uptown (New York), St. Andrews Golf, and Highland Park (Florida).

Frank Aydelotte's appointment reestablishes his connection with Swarthmore College which began when he became President in 1921, and was interrupted when he resigned in 1940 to become Director of the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton. Dr. Aydelotte has an international reputation in higher education. A Rhodes Scholar himself, he has been American Secretary of the Rhodes Trustees since 1918. As Chairman of the advisory board of the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation since 1925, he has helped to select many promising scholars and artists for Fellowships in Europe. Dr. Aydelotte's contributions to the College are well known to all generations of Swarthmoreans. During the years he served as President of the College "Honors Work" was introduced, developed, and well established as a vital part of the academic life on the Campus. During this same period the endowment was raised from three million dollars to eight million dollars.

As a result of the Alumni balloting in November Edmund G. Robinson '05 was elected as an Alumni Representative on the Board of Managers. Of real significance is the fact that seventeen hundred alumni cast ballots—the most active voting in the history of the Alumni Association. Mr. Robinson came to Swarthmore after graduating from Wilmington Friends School. As an undergraduate was a member of Phi Sigma Kappa, Vice-President of the Athletic Association, President of Joseph Leidy Scientific Society, winner of Deborah Fisher Wharton Scholarship and Ivy Orator. Since 1905 he has been in the employ of the E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company. He is a member of the Board of Directors of that organization and General Manager of the Organic Chemicals Department. He is a member of the Wilmington Rotary Club; the Delmarva Council of Boy Scouts of America; Director of the Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross. In 1929 he served as Delaware State Chairman of the Swarthmore College Endowment Campaign and currently is a member of the Alumni Council from Zone I.

ALUMNI COMMITTEES NOW AT

Last fall a memorandum was sent to the Alumni Office in which President Nason outlined several projects on which he invited the assistance of the Alumni Association. The memorandum was reprinted and mailed to the members of the Joint Alumni Councils in advance of their meeting on October 20, 1944. That memorandum is reproduced herewith—

September 15, 1944.

Memorandum to Carl Dellmuth:

I have been giving a good deal of thought to the concern expressed by Frank Griffin and others at the June meeting of the Alumni Council. As I said at that time, I had been proceeding slowly in asking the Alumni Council to set up alumni committees on the assumption that most alumni are now so busy that they would resent rather than welcome participation in such activities. I am more than glad to be proved wrong.

Perhaps I should use this opportunity to restate my own philosophy on alumni-college relations. I see a very difficult two or three decades ahead. Many social, political and economic institutions are undergoing a rapid process of change, and education is no exception. What changes should the college make? How far should it go? How should it attempt to combine its traditional function with new services? These are questions which no one person and indeed no one group of people such as the faculty can be certain of answering wisely. They need the cooperative thought and enterprise of everyone who is directly interested in the college and in liberal education. That is why I want the alumni to know more about the college and to take a more active part in discussing its program and its future. I thought the alumni committee on engineering was a good example of a start in this direction, and perhaps the time has now come when we can go farther.

Here is a list of some of the areas which need exploration, study, and resolution. If the Alumni Council care to set up committees to work with the faculty or the administration or whatever group is most concerned with the matter in hand, we could proceed at once toward deciding on some of our future policy.

1. A committee to help returning veterans get placed in industry or in professional work. The college of course has a direct responsibility for helping its own former students who wish to return to the college and other men who wish to come to the college to complete their undergraduate work. What about our alumni who have already graduated and who may not wish to return to the positions they had before entering the Armed Forces? Several colleges are setting up committees to help this group. It does not seem to me that this is the primary responsibility of the college, but it is an area where the alumni could provide a very useful service to fellow alumni, perhaps using your office as the clearing house.
2. A committee on the academic program of the college. After two years of work a faculty committee has brought in a report on the work of the first two years, which has been adopted by the faculty. It will not go into effect for another year and then almost certainly with some modifications. I should like to see a group of alumni who are interested in curricular problems study this report and meet with members of the faculty on other areas which the faculty committee must still explore.
3. A committee on the responsibility of the college toward adult education. In my annual report last year I suggested that in the future colleges will need to pay more attention to people who do not normally come as resident students. This might be done through summer institutes, through evening sessions, or through the use of the radio. My ideas are highly vague, and perhaps they should be thrown out the window entirely. A general alumni-faculty committee on this subject would be immensely helpful to me.
4. A committee on chemistry. Three years ago when Ray Denworth was President of the Alumni Association, he appointed an alumni committee to study the place of engineering at Swarthmore and to make recommendations regarding its future. The sky was the limit. We examined the relative advantages and disadvantages of engineering at Swarthmore as compared with engineering at other institutions. We explored the curriculum. We developed the proposal for engineering research, which I think has great possibilities for the future. I should like to see a similar committee make a study of chemistry. Some alumni are concerned that there are not more majors in chemistry. Some think that the course is too professional; others that it is not professional enough. How good are our facilities? What should be the natural course of future development?
5. A committee on the future athletic policy of the college. What type of opponents should we play in the various sports? Furthermore, what should be our ultimate extent and arrangement of athletic facilities? When the playing fields by the field house are completed, to what use should the old fields be put, and will this mean any serious change in the use of the men's and women's gymnasiums and the use of the present women's athletic field?
6. A working committee, presumably of people who live in the Philadelphia area, to help with our program.

WORK ON COLLEGE PROBLEMS

for the development of engineering research at Swarthmore. The appointment of such a committee should wait upon the decisions of the present alumni engineering committee respecting its timeliness and usefulness. I have asked Ed Palmer, chairman of that committee, to call this committee together to discuss this and related subjects. It does seem to me, however, that we may be at a time when we should proceed actively to realize plans which have been already formulated and only partially implemented.

7. A committee on the student health and medical set-up of the college. Such a committee was appointed two years ago, but as various members either entered the Armed Forces or became so extremely busy, it was impossible to carry through any careful study. I do not believe such a committee can usefully be appointed at the present time when doctors are so overworked. I hope, however, that at the earliest opportunity either the original committee can be reappointed or a new one set up, as I am concerned about our policy and provisions in this matter.

This is a large order, and I shall be interested in learning how much action the Alumni Council cares to take. The success of any of the committees will depend largely on their composition. It is easy to outline areas of need and to propose committees; and it is hard to pick the right men who will do the best job. We shall all need to put our heads together when the time comes for that.

JOHN W. NASON.

Each project in the above memorandum was the subject of full discussion at the last Council Meeting. The following reply has been sent to the President by the Alumni Secretary:

October 25, 1944

Memorandum to President Nason:

At the meeting of the Joint Alumni Council held October 20, 1944, President Frank Griffin was authorized to appoint Alumni committees to work with your office on the following projects which were outlined in your memorandum dated September 15, 1944:

1. A committee to help in the placement of returning veterans. (Will be appointed to work with the Alumni Secretary.)
2. A committee to work with the Faculty Committee now studying the Academic program of the College.
3. A committee to study Chemistry at Swarthmore. (Duties to be similar to those of the Alumni Engineering Committee which is now at work.)
4. A committee to study the broad problem of Adult Education.
5. A committee to study post-war problems in Physical Education and Athletics at Swarthmore.

On two of your proposals the Council recommended deferred action. It was felt that the formation of a committee to help with the program of engineering research should wait until subsequent reports have been received from the present Alumni Engineering Committee. The Council further suggested that the Committee on Student Health should be made up principally of Faculty members. If a Faculty committee is formed, however, Frank Griffin was authorized to appoint members to represent the Alumni Association.

May I take this opportunity of expressing my personal gratitude for this further attempt on your part to bring Swarthmore Alumni into a closer working partnership with the College administration. I am sure nothing but beneficial results will accrue from the efforts of these committees.

CARL K. DELLMUTH,
Alumni Executive Secretary

Since the exchange of these memoranda Frank Griffin has appointed the following Alumni Committees which are now at work on the projects authorized by the Alumni Councils:

1. CURRICULUM COMMITTEE

HILDA LANG DENWORTH '17, ROBERT J. CADIGAN '34
Chairman WILLIAM POOLE '30

2. CHEMISTRY COMMITTEE

JAMES R. FRORER '15, FRANK H. GRIFFIN '10
Chairman CHARLES C. PRICE '34
ELLIOT R. ALEXANDER '41 EDMUND G. ROBINSON '05

Chairman J. ROLAND PENNOCK '27
ETHEL H. BREWSTER '07 JACK THOMPSON '27

4. PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND ATHLETICS FOR MEN

At no time in the history of the College have so many Alumni groups been working cooperatively with the College Administration. More joint projects will be announced later. President Nason and Mr. Griffin have invited all Alumni to express themselves on any of the projects now being studied. Send your suggestions to the Alumni Office and they will be forwarded promptly to the proper Committee Chairmen.

PREVIOUSLY announced missing, we have recently learned that Pvt. George DeLaney '43 was killed in action on October 20, 1944. In the fall of 1942, while a senior at the College, George enlisted in the A. E. R. program. Upon completion of his undergraduate work in February he was called to active duty, and began his training in Camp Pickett, Va., where he was assigned to the Medical Corps. When the Army Specialized Training Program was cancelled he qualified as an Aviation Cadet and reported to Freeman Field in December 1943.

GEORGE DeLANEY, '43

ONE of the first WACS to reach liberated Paris was Captain Margaret Clarke '37. Shortly after American troops entered the French Capital Margaret was one of a company of WACS who were brought in to serve as telephone operators, jeep drivers, statisticians, draftsmen and interpreters. In a letter to her family she pointed out that her Paris Hotel was "marvelous" and quite different from previous experiences which found her living in tents and working in a steel helmet.

MARGARET CLARKE, '37

Following the Battle of Cassino, he was assigned to the infantry along with 30,000 other air cadets. He became an expert rifle man shortly thereafter and was sent overseas with the 79th Division, in the Nancy-Metz area. He served under Lt. General George Patton in the 3rd Army and was probably on a scouting mission around Metz at the time of his death.

George was active in undergraduate affairs at Swarthmore. He took a leading part in dramatics, was a member of Phi Delta Theta, President of his Class, Manager of soccer, and member of Kwink. Two brothers, William '29, Edward '33, and a sister Margaret DeLaney Johnson '28 are Swarthmore graduates.

In keeping with the repeated requests from the Office of Defense Transportation there will be no Somerville Day program this year. We will, however, continue the extended program which annually brings to the campus eight or ten alumnae who "observe college in session." Anyone especially interested in becoming a member of this group this year on May 10th, 11th, and 12th should write to Ruth McCauley Clyde '27, Vice-President of the Alumni Association. Mrs. Clyde's address is Beatty Mill Road, Media, Pa.

which Swarthmore is internationally famous provide a certain momentum, but it takes courage and strength to maintain the pace. All colleges have been weakened by the war. Those which have been least affected will be in the favored position in the competition ahead. If we are to maintain our position as a leading educational institution we must be prepared to stretch our resources and to maintain an effective educational institution. In this way we shall be ready at the earliest opportunity to advance along the lines of natural development. That is why the college needs alumni help now. We have talked in the past of "token giving." Swarthmore will not keep its reputation on tokens. It will not maintain its leadership in higher education through half-hearted measures. Real help is necessary if the new chapter is to be what we all want and intend it to be.

"SWARTHMORE CLUB OF SICILY"

WM. C. MACPHAIL, '41 LEWIS M. ROBBINS, '40 GEORGE C. BOND, '41

SHORTLY before the invasion of Southern France Lt. (j. g.) MacPhail, Robbins and Bond met each other in a Sicilian harbor. In those days there was little time for "visiting," but they did manage to have a brief reunion at which time the above picture was taken.

The American Red Cross has appealed to the Alumni Office for assistance in recruiting personnel for overseas and domestic service. A number of positions are outlined for both men and women including some opportunities in administration, recreation, social work, secretarial work, nursing and accounting. Those interested in more complete details should write to the Alumni Office immediately. Please enclose complete biographical data.

SWARTHMORE ALUMNI IN SERVICE

Since December 7, 1941 the Alumni Office has collaborated with all Class Secretaries in compiling a list of Swarthmore men and women in the Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guards and Civilian Public Service Camps. Our list is neither complete nor totally accurate. Many Swarthmoreans whose names are not included are in the service of their country. Some who are recorded have had a change of rank. Please scrutinize the list carefully and notify the Alumni Office of any names we have omitted, or any ranks which are not up to date. The list contains 998 names, and represents 14.2% of all our Alumni.
