Ullman to Present Irish Comedy March 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 at Players' Club

It was a source of regret to Lennox Robinson, author-director of the Abbey Players of Dublin, Ireland, that he could not prolong his recent visit to America a week or two in order to see his play, "The Far-Off Hills," presented, under the direction of Roland G. E. Ullman, next week before the Players Club of Swarth-

Among the other well known plays of this brilliant author-director are the comedy, "The White Headed Boy," and the tragedy, "Give a Dog."

In the original cast of "The Far-Off Hills" was a young actress who had been a member of the troupe for several years. Successively she played the roles of "Ducky" and "Pet" and understudied "Marian."

When the Abbey Players came to America the next season, she was rated by New York theatrical critics as the outstanding dent of the Society of American Etchers, nutrition, animal life being dependent upon ingenue of the year.

Next week you will see that same charming actress back of the footlights after an interval during which she has played four overlapping roles—that of wife, mother, American citizen and, now, member of the Players Club. To do this, she added the name of Wall to that of Kate Curling.

Mr. Taber lives in Springfield, has been a member of the Club for several years, is an architect and artist and drew the original sketch which is reproduced on the cover of the Club program.

The division of old and new players is a fifty-fifty matter this time in one of the smallest casts that Mr. Ullman has directed for the Club.

The five old members who complete the well chosen cast are Eliza Katharine Ullman, as "Susie Tynan"; Connie Nickerson, as "Pet"; Ned Pyle, as "Dick Delany"; Henry A. Peirsol, Jr., as "Pierce Hegarty," and Roland G. E. Ullman, as "Patrick Clancy."

To Observe World Day of Prayer

Next week, Friday, at two o'clock, the women of the Swarthmore churches will unite in a service for the World Day of Prayer, to be held in the order of rotation, at the chapel of the Methodist Church at two o'clock. The distressing and alarming condition of affairs throughout the world makes this day one of unusual importance and significance. All women of Swarthmore are urged to remember the day and this service.

To Present Operetta Soon

An interesting operetta, "Joan of the Nancy Lee," which is a humorous tale of the buccaneer days of 1800, will be prez sented soon in the Swarthmore High School auditorium by the student body.

The scenery is under construction by the boys in manual training, and is going to be up to the present. Mr. J. Paul Brown, one of the best the High School has seen for a long time. It will represent the deck of a pirate ship with a dark, grim hold, a idea, said that it had grown beyond his tall mainmast, and an upper deck on which expectations. The whole project is being stands a fierce-looking cannon. Of course, there will be the necessary treasure chest to create a mystery.

The costumes, which are being made especially for the operetta, are very picturesque. The pirates will wear bloody sashes, and the bridesmaids will present pictures of innocence and coyness in long organdie dresses.

Under the direction of Miss Allen, the dances of the pirates, sea nymphs, and mermaids are progressing repidly, and the chorus is working hard on the music.

The operetta this year will be a project co-operation, promises to be better than $200 was cleared for the Legion and the ested friends are cordially invited to be morning Sermons in Lent will be: "Afever before.

SCHOOL COMPLETE

Enrollment Continues for Classes to Open Next Week at College

A faculty headed by Major Lynn G. Adams, of the Pennsylvania State Police, of Harrisburg; Mr. W. A. Smith, of the Federal Department of Investigation; Captain Thomas F. Martin, Principal of the State Trooper School at Hershey, Pennsylvania; Lieutenant Henry, of the State Highway Patrol; the Honorable William B. McClenachan, Jr., First Assistant District Attorney, of Delaware County, and others met with the Executive Committee in Swarthmore Borough Hall, Thursday, February 21st, and completed the final arrangements for courses, lectures and practice work in the Delaware County Police School. This co-operative project for the mutual benefit of boroughs and townships in Delaware County has aroused much enthusiasm even beyond the State of Pennsylvania. The school will open next Tuesday, March 5th, at Swarthmore College.

Dr. J. A. Detlefsen, acting as Registrar of the School, states that over sixty-five selected officers have applied for attendance Swarthmore Borough Councilman, who originally conceived and developed the closely followed by State and Federal Authorities as a practical program for keeping the police and constabulary of smaller communities at its highest level and thoroughly informed on the more recent advances in Police Science and Practice.

On Wednesday seven more enrollments, from Yeadon, were received.

On the contrary, many bacteria perform services of great value to man. Regarding the size of these "smallest living things," the speaker said that some were hardly large enough to contain the molecule of protoplasm which the chemist would assign to them. Some of them measure only one-tenth of a micron, or one twohundred-fifty thousandth of an inch. We can never see anything smaller than that

The still small, but increasing "Peace Society of Painters-Etchers and Engravers Bloc" in the House received much attention in the press last week by their opposition to the passage of the $379,000,000 army appropriation. They asked many pertinent and apparently unanswerable questions as to the real purpose of the measure. The still larger appropriation for the navy is also receiving the attention of this group of Congressmen. Miss Vernon urged all individuals as well as organizations to voice their opposition to the measures by writing to the President.

Swarthmore Youngsters Achieve Nearly Half of $500 Goal During Last Six Weeks

Joy bells rang for the children of the Philadelphia slums last Wednesday when Mrs. Carlos F. Noyes and Mrs. Charles D. Mitchell brought from the College Avenue and Rutgers Schools, the first collection from the "Tot Lot" Banks.

An overwhelming pile of pennies, nickels, and dimes accompanied by some quarters, fifty cent pieces and bills, awaited the five hour task of counting and wrapping.

At the conclusion of this busy session, $157.06 proclaimed the result of the Swarthmore Children's six weeks of industry and sacrifice.

Transients Figure in Earlier Two and Thatcher Robinson in Third

A few minutes before midnight on Wednesday, February 20, a car being driven north on South Chester Road by Benjamin J. Lewis, of Broomall, failed to return to the right side of the road after having been forced to the left in order to pass a barricade enclosing repair work being done by the State to a section of the street between Harvard Avenue and the Underpass. Consequently, when Herman Weber, of Chester, southbound, reached the spot, the two cars collided and that of Lewis struck a tree in front of the Ulverston School, with great force.

Although no one was injured, Mr. Weber's automobile was badly damaged and Mr. Lewis was slightly cut about the head. Upon appearing before Magistrate Rumsey, Lewis was pronounced intoxicated by Dr. William A. Raiman.

About 10 o'clock Friday evening, February 22, a car being driven south on-Chester Road by Anthony Dleseo, of Chester, skidded and crashed into a northbound car driven by Lawrence Ford, of Philadelphia. Mr. Dleseo agreed to pay the damages to the car owned by Mr. Ford, who preferred not to press any charges at the time.

Mrs. Ford, who was in the car at the time of the accident, was shaken up, but otherwise no injuries were caused.

At 3.30 Monday afternoon, Thatcher Robinson, 6-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Louis N. Robinson, of College Avenue, received injuries of the head when he was knocked to the street as an automobile collided with his scooter bike. The collision occurred on College Avenue about 150 feet from North Chester Road. The car was owned by Mr. Edward B. Temple, of Maple Avenue, and driven by Mr. Temple's chauffeur.

Why Rain Falls

When vapor, from one cause or another becomes colder, minute particles of water begin to form. These float around in the air. We see them as clouds or mist. If the temperature continues to fall, these small particles of moisture will increase in size and number until they begin to descend by their own weight. The largest of these fall the fastest and, uniting with the smaller ones they encounter, form drops of rain.

There are many causes of the temperature changes that result in rain, but it is generally a case of the vaporized air being forced upward by air currents or transported into

The reason there is usually plenty of rainfall in mountainous regions is because winds traveling horizontally across the earth, strike the mountains and are forced upwards. The sudden cooling of the air as it rises condenses the vapor and brings about rain.

This is the fifth of a series of instructive narratives dealing with the wonders of nature and human accomplishments which make it possible for you to have a plentiful supply of water at all times. Look for the next story in this paper two weeks from today.

DISTRIBUTION OF RAINFALL

The amount of rainfall is very unequally distributed over the world. Many places have as much as one hundred inches of rain in a year and in parts of India five hundred inches have been recorded. There are few places, if any, where some rain at least, does not fall. Even Death Valley has about two inches of rainfall per annum.

Mobile, Alabama, has an average annual rainfall of 61.6, while Phoenix, Arizona, goes to the other extreme with only 7.8 inches. In the Philadelphia area, the average annual fall is around 40.4 inches, but like practically every other locality, it has cycles of wet and dry years also.

The Philadelphia Suburban Water Company, however, is prepared for these variations with large storage reservoirs, in order that you may have all the water you need during dry seasons.

This is the sixth of a series of instructive narratives dealing with the wonders of nature and the human accomplishments which make it possible for you to have a plentiful supply of water at all times. Look for the next narrative in this paper two weeks from today.

SCHOOL RECEIVES APPROPRIATION

Spring Payment of $8,705.34 Just Received From State Treasurer At Harrisburg

The spring payment to the Swarthmore School District has just been received from the State Treasurer at Harrisburg, which check amounts to $8,705.34. It was due on the first of February, but, because of shortage of funds in the State Treasury, it was not received until this week. According to the requirements of the

Edmonds' Salary Law, which specifies definitely the amount of money which the State shall reimburse each district for teachers' salaries, this payment should have amounted to $12,378.10. The money is less than the required amount because the legislature, two years ago, appropriated only $53,000,000 for the public schools for the biennium instead of the $58,000,000 required. This reduction for the vear amounts to about $4,000.00, or very close to the equivalent of one mill of local tax. It is noted that the new budget introduced into the present legislature again called for only $53,000,000, which means that the appropriations to the School District for the next two years will be lower than required by the terms of the law. On many sides there is agitation for the reduction of the proportion of tax cost horne by real estate and the increase in the proportion to be borne by other forms of wealth. DISTRIBUTION OF RAINFALL

The amount of rainfall is very unequally distributed over the world. Many places have as much as one hundred inches of rain in a year and in parts of India five hundred inches have been recorded. There are few places, if any, where some rain at least, does not fall. Even Death Valley has about two inches of rainfall per annum.

Mobile, Alabama, has an average annual rainfall of 61.6, while Phoenix, Arizona, goes to the other extreme with only 7.8 inches. In the Philadelphia area, the average annual fall is around 40.4 inches, but like practically every other locality, it has cycles of wet and dry years also.

The Philadelphia Suburban Water Company, however, is prepared for these variations with large storage reservoirs, in order that you may have all the water you need during dry seasons.

This is the sixth of a series of instructive narratives dealing with the wonders of nature and the human accomplishments which make it possible for you to have a plentiful supply of water at all times. Look for the next narrative in this paper two weeks from today.

SCHOOL RECEIVES APPROPRIATION

The spring payment to the Swarthmore school District has just been received from the State Treasurer at Harrisburg, which check amounts to $8,705,34. It was due on the first of February, but, because of shortage of funds in the State Treasury, it was not received until this week. According to the requirements of the Edmonds' Salary Law, which specifies definitely the amount of money which the state shall reimburse each district for teachers' salaries, this payment should have amounted to $12,378.10. The money is less than the required amount because the egislature, two years ago, appropriated only $53,000,000 for the public schools for the biennium instead of the $58,000,000 reaggred. This reduction for the year mounts to about $4,000.00, or very close to the equivalent of one mill of local tax. It is noted that the new budget introduced into the present legislature again called for only $53,000,000, which means that the appropriations to the School District for the next two years will be lower than required by the terms of the law. FINALS INSTALLE On many sides there is agitation for the reduction of the proportion of tax cost horne by real estate and the increase in the proportion to be borne by other forms that the State, instead of paying 15% of the cost of public schools, bear at least 30%, which is nearly the proportion that

Due to the annual difficulties encountered by various committees who have managed our local tennis courts, the question of the proper set-up for management of such projects was discussed with Mr. Krell The State Code provides for a Borough Recreation Board in communities like Swarthmore. This is a legal unit, which can accept bequests, etc. Its membership must be composed of representatives appointed from the local Borough Council and from the School Board with a member at large. Both the School District and the Borough Council can appropriate money but it is dispersed by the Recreation Board Such a Board is needed to approve or disapprove projects. There are eight or nine such Boards in Delaware County.

You are asked to look over our village with an eye to recreation improvement The following suggestions have been made Outdoor Equipment: Look at the ap paratus near our school buildings. Is adequate? Would our kindergarten children be benefited by climbing apparatus like jungle gyms and horizontal ladders and swinging ropes, while their big body muscles are in their most critical formative period? Do our older children need more outdoor climbing apparatus? All our homes cannot supply the helpful smoothplank ridge-poles recommended for little growing feet, and apparatus for posture development. Do we care to have it near our school buildings?

Mushball: Mr. Krell suggested that probably the greatest joy for the least expense in Swarthmore could be derived from vacant neighborhood lots turned into summer mushball fields. Girls and boys love it. It is simpler than base-ball and has a place for everyone in it. It was mentioned that if a group of volunteer in structors desire training, the National Re creation Association will furnish an expert to do it, free of charge to the community Ice-Skating: Several Swarthmorean have wished that tennis courts could be flooded, to allow our little folks safe and convenient skating, with accompanying band music, when the weather permits. Motion-Pictures: Does Swarthmore need motion pictures for young people? We have a free hand and no competition in a local theater. Films could be chosen with care, and no undesirable pre-views given, if we wished to invest in equipment

A Grave Threat Against Employment in Pennsylvania

Should two Bills now before the Legislature of Pennsylvania pass the Senate as they have the House, they will strike a body blow at employment in the State.

The first, the so-called Full Crew Bill. should more properly be called the Excess Crew Bill. It would add to train crews, forcing the railroads to put on trains men for whom there is no work.

The second, called the Train Limit Bill, would arbitrarily limit the length of trains, destroying present-day economical units.

NEITHER WILL ADD TO THE SAFETY OR EFFICIENCY OF OPERATION.

Rather, they will cost the railroads of the State millions of dollars annually, money wastefully spent, a bill which the industries, the farmers, and the people will have to pay.

Obviously, the temporary effect of the proposed legislation will be to increase the number of engine and train service employees.

However, its inevitable result will be to advance the cost of railroad transportation, driving business away from the rail lines, and decreasing the number of railroad employees in every department of the service.

The enactment of such laws would be at variance with the Administration's policies for recovery and employment.

They Would Create a Vicious Circle Adversely Affecting Every Individual and Industry

The consequent shrinkage of railroad traffic and payrolls will mean less buying from local merchants, farmers and businessmen. It will mean less purchasing by the railroads and decreased employment in allied industries. Higher rail transport costs will force the industries and farms of Pennsylvania to compete on an unequal basis with those of other communities not hampered by such restrictive legislation.

These Bills are unwise and unfair. They are absolutely discriminatory against one form of transportation. They are against the best interests of the State of Pennsylvania.

The present law of Pennsylvania imposes upon the Public Service Commission the duty of providing safe and efficient operation of railroad trains. The responsibility for such matters properly belongs in their hands and should remain there.

Presbyterian Notes

The church has been greatly bereaved by the death, in the last nine months, of three of the ruling elders, among the most useful men in the church, Frederick M. Simons, a charter member; Dr. George W. Warren, and Walter Irving Clarke.

The coming Sunday morning service will be one of unusual character and importance, a worship service of pledging when, in connection with the celebration of the Holy Communion, the congregation will have the opportunity of making and presenting their pledges for the support of the church and its missionary and benevolent work for the new church year beginning April 1. The central thought of this service is that in the spirit of Christ as xpressed in the sacrament all His followers should express their faith and devotion by the offering of their material possessions for His use. A similar service last year had gratifying results. In keeping with the thought of the day in the various services of the church, the young people will have as the topic of their meeting Sunday evening, "Stewardship. Marjorie Turner (Mrs. Peter E.) the services and work of this church. During these many years, he held every office of importance in the gift of the church. although he was one of the most modest and unselfish of men. The ground on which the present church stands was his gift. A few years ago, the church recognized his long service and expressed its affection for him by conferring upon him Mrs. the highest honor a Presbyterian church can bestow upon one of its members, the appointment as a ruling elder for life, an office which he adorned by his beautiful character and filled with highest wisdom.

The funeral service, held last Wednesda long, was conducted by his Pastor, Rev. Dr. Tuttle. The pall bearers were three sons in-law of the deceased. Donald Follett Chauncey G. Paxson, Edward M. "I always enjoy reading your breez paper, for when one has lived in Swarthmore for over thirty-five years, although many names are not now familiar, one never loses interest in one's old friend and the town's activities. "While the eastern winter brought snow and ice, out here in southern California we were enjoying sunshine, blue skies and singing birds; but we must confess that this month was ushered in with heavy rains and cooler days-much to the delight of the natives.

"All this means that the lovely Sierra Madre mountains, frequently so brown, are now greener; in many places their foothills are skirted by myriads of golden wild mustard. The recent rains have brought out the wild flowers in great profusion; a botanist says 'over one hundred and fifty varieties.' This bill is scheduled for hearing by the Public Utilities Committee of the State House of Rep-"For economical buying shop at our store where high quality and resentatives on Wednesday, March 27th. It is significant that, during the pioneering stage, when the utilities, through painslow prices meet. We are as near taking efforts, enterprise and financial resourcefulness, were developing consumer acceptance and a wide market for these Everything for the Table Under One Roof appliances, no one complained about the utilities being in the appliance merchandising business. There is no question but that, without utility merchandising, the advantages of home use of gas and electricity would have been but a fraction of what they are today. Appliances have always needed more promotion than dealers, who obtain only a merchant's profit from their sales, could possibly afford to give.

Such promotion is still needed. Only three appliances have reasonably complete customer acceptance today—the gas range. the electric iron, and the radio. Every other appliance—particularly gas and electric refrigerators, gas house heaters, electric ranges, electric water heaters, and air conditioning equipment-must have the promotional merchandising effort that only the utility can afford to give. The inevitable conclusion is that to prohibit utilities from merchandising appliances will be contrary to public interest. Such a policy will inevitably slow down the pace of development, depreciate the quality and safety of appliances, retard the building up of residential and rural consumption of electricity and gas service, increase the prices of appliances, decrease employment, decrease promotional effort for dealers,

THE ANSWER ANSWER

Today, when so many questions are being asked about everything, the answer to a query about the cost of electricity in the home may be pertinent.

The average price paid by the domestic customer in the United States in 1934 was 27.4 per cent less than the average rate 10 years ago.

The average price paid by the domestic customer of the Philadelphia Electric Company in 1934 was 31.8 per cent less than the average rate 10 years ago.

Since 1913 the cost of electricity in the homes of the country has declined 39 per cent although the general cost of living remains 37 per cent above the 1913 level.

THE SWARTHMORE BUILDING ASSOCIATION SAVING versus SPECULATION

Temporary disturbances do not affect General laws. Thrift and Saving are still the financial security of the average person. Neither the individual nor the Government can borrow and spend itself into prosperity.

In June of this year we expect to pay to fifty-three of our Shareholders $101,800.00. Of this amount, $71,769.00 will be saved by the individuals, $30,031.00 profit.

During the last five years, depression years, we have paid to Stockholders $1,155,582.00, which they have saved, and $386,318.00 profit. These figures show what Thrift and Saving will accomplish.

I think that Swarthmore needs the Building Association. It has helped to finance many homes, and has served as a Savings Fund Society for many individuals.

There is a demand for mortgage money. We need more Share holders to furnish this money. Our new series opens April 9th. Won't you join us?

INTENSITY OF RAINFALL

The quantities of rain which have fallen at one time are truly enormous. In France there was once recorded a fall of over thirty-one inches in twenty-two hours. Even more amazing was a rainfall in India of thirty inches on each of five successive days.

California boasts of the greatest and most intense rainfall ever recorded. A little over one inch-which is equivalent to 115 tons of water per acre-fell in one minute.

Although such intense downpours are not probable in the Philadelphia area, nevertheless heavy rains are often experienced, resulting in high water and floods on the streams and rivers. Your Water Company must then turn loose this extra water, which otherwise might over-fill its storage reservoirs. This is done by means of spillways in the reservoir dams.

This is the seventh of a series of instructive narratives, dealing with the wonders of nature and the human accomplishments which make it possible for you to have a plentiful supply of water. Look for . the next story in this paper two weeks from today.

Simon's efficient secretary, who spurns the attentions of Weinberg, and suppresses her feeling for her employer to such an extent that he is never conscious of it, will be remembered for her delightful work in Twelfth Night, produced in February of this year.

Helen Inglis Cramp again takes a character part, that of Simon's Jewish "Mama," which brings back fond recollections of her portrayal of "Barmie," the cockney maid in Interference.

Raymond P. Gott gives us another example of his ability to burst forth in dramatic tirade for which he has been noted since his first appearance as the murderer in Thirteenth Chair.

Sydney S. Parry who has appeared in Outward Bound, Irresistible Marmaduke of the Junior Club productions, appears during the past week. On Tuesday the in the inimitable comedy role of Charlie local department answered five such calls. Roland K. Harrison who recently appeared as a soldier in Twelfth Night discloses real ability as a character actor in the part of George Simon's worthless brother, and Robert B. Greer, who appeared as a German Soldier in Three Faces East, and a reporter in Interference, makes a step forward in a larger part.

The Director is indebted to Helen M. Hall of the Swarthmore Public Schools for locating the three Juveniles to take the parts of Richard Dwight, Jr., Dorothy Dwight and Henry Susskind. David Ullman, son of Director Roland G. E. Ullman, will be remembered for the part he took three or four years ago in "Death Calls for Margin."
