BORO FOURTH IS DUAL HOLIDAY

Neighborly Picnic Supper, 50th Anniversary Program to Climax Full Day Entertainment

Swarthmore neighbors will combine Monday July 5 the 167th celebration of this nation's independence and the 50th birthday of their home town. Directed this year by Burgess John H. Pitman and his 50th anniversary committee, the all-day program offers fun for all, a chance to visit and play with old friends, opportunity to get acquainted with new Swarthmoreans, and a day of enjoying in a real old time Fourth the privileges of freedom which Americans have never lacked.

Every single resident of this community is invited to participate in the neighborly highlight of the year. Started originally for the borough's stay-at-home children, the annual community Fourth of July has become an event to which entire families look forward.

The encroachments of war make themselves felt on holidays as well as other days. Last year the fire company's water fight had to be dropped for the duration to save water. This year prizes for the day's events will be eliminated, but flags will still be awarded to every child participating in the parade and popsicles will be furnished by the Business Association to every child after the fun of the game hour is over. This year also the golf driving contest falls by the wayside.

So take your Swarthmorean in hand and start out early enough to walk to the children's parade on time and don't miss anything all day long. We guarantee you will find after the day is over that you're genuinely glad that Swarthmore was founded 50 years ago and that you call it home. Here is your complete program:

9:30 a.m.—Children's Parade will take up its time-honored stand on Park avenue in front of Borough Hall, and once every firecracker, every patriot, every decorated tricycle, bicycle, and ingenious vehicle takes its proper place, will move off down Park avenue to Harvard and back past the reviewing stand where Swarthmore's old-timers will scan the town's young hopefuls. Parents are urged to consider with unprejudiced eye the potentialities of their youngest as Miss Liberty, Barbara Fritchie, Molly Pitcher, or today's WAAC and WAVES and line up costume details efficiently enough that their young fry will appear promptly to parade.

Older children will spend the weekend decorating their bikes, working out the original floats which will show the old-timers that the younger generation has definite promise, or create humorous take-offs of this mixed-up world. The parade is always a high spot in the day for youngsters and oldsters alike and well worth the early holiday arising.

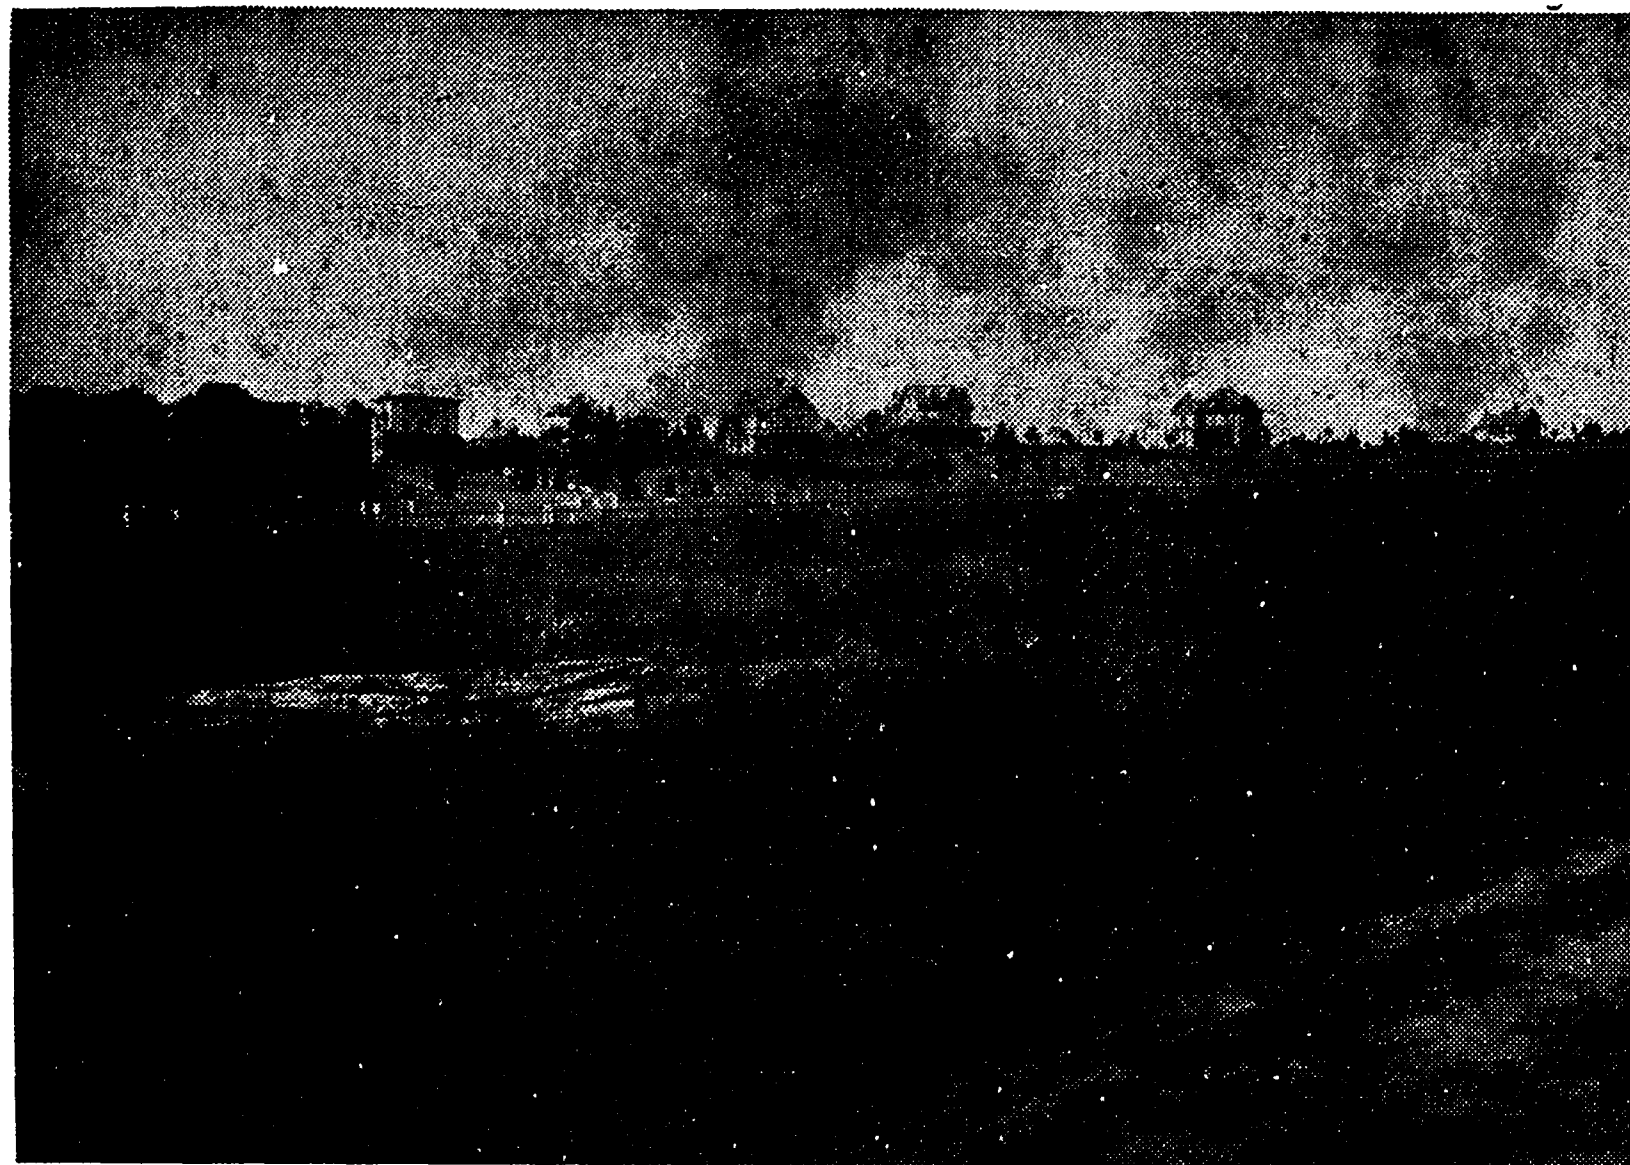

Classes include decorated kiddie cars, velocipedes, bicycles, and floats; fancy dress and original costumes; a display of pets (this class has produced many an exciting moment in former years); and the neatest Boy Scout, Cub, Girl Scout, or Brownie. There is a place for every child in town so why not see what a family conference can contrive? Each child in the parade will receive an American Flag from the American Legion Post. Parade marshals will be Roy W. Delaplaine, president of the school board and Editor Peter E. Told. Even if the weather chooses to be unpatriotic the parade will not be rained out but will proceed in the High School gymnasium as on other years.

10:30 a.m.—Games for pop, mom, and the borough young will get under way at the College avenue school grounds. Under a competent and representative committee of citizens who even in these rush days remain game experts and enthusiasts a game hour for everyone in Swarthmore but the infants who can rest on the sidelines in their carriages has been planned. If you will consult the names of leaders of age groups listed below, finding your own group on the school playgrounds Monday morning will be a quick and simple matter.

Pre-school group — Mrs. William A. DeCandry, Mrs. Donald P. Jones, and Barbara Brown will be in charge of children up to 6 years old, handling them so that every child will have his chance on the steeds which annually

SOUVENIR BOOKLET ORDER

A Fiftieth Anniversary Souvenir History of Swarthmore Borough is being edited by the Fiftieth Anniversary Committee for publication in the fall. In order to avoid an over-order in this time of paper shortage the committee requests that each resident desiring one or more souvenir booklets at fifty cents each clip and sign this statement and mail it to D. W. R. Morgan, Borough Hall. Please reserve.....copies of the 50th Anniversary History of Swarthmore.

Philip Price left Monday for Harvard University where he will attend the Navy Chaplain School as part of the V-12 program. He has been the guest of Mrs. Howard Kirk on South Chester road for the last two weeks.

Arnold Chiquoine of Rutgers avenue left July 1 for Penn State College where he will be in the Naval program. Henry Saulnier of Princeton avenue has also been sent to Penn State in the Marine program.

Storm in Freakish Damage

The electrical storm which brought temporary relief to thoroughly overheated Swarthmoreans Sunday afternoon also inflicted considerable damage and threatened more to cause general consternation. Repairmen of the Philadelphia Electric Company kept busy Sunday night and Monday answering emergency calls declared it to be the "worst storm here in years."

Borough Hall was struck with sufficient force to blow the fuses in the main switch and silence the Police Radio temporarily. Many residences were put in darkness and telephones were put out of commission. In one home a lamp was exploded, in another an oven was damaged. Many families unaware they had been hit kept discovering damaged circuits and appliances throughout the evening.

The residence of Donald P. Jones at Dickinson Circle received the greatest damage reported. Struck at 4:55 p. m. an explosion ripped open one end of the third floor by the chimney. Following the metal lathes to the second floor the current splintered baseboards and burned covers on cribs in the nursery from which two of the Jones children had risen only 15 minutes earlier. A fireplace damper in the first floor living room where metal objects flamed brightly burst open and in the basement playroom splintered the porcelain telephone box and broke the underground phone cable.

Mrs. Katherine Peirce reference librarian of the college returned Tuesday from Stockbridge, Mass., where she has spent the past three weeks.

Milton H. Fussell, III, of Vassar avenue has received his call in the Marine Reserves and has been sent to Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa.

Summer School in Earnest Fourth

Regular sessions will be held for the Elementary Summer School and the Summer High School on Monday, July 5, 1943. The Summer Recreation Association classes will not meet.

Air Raid Instructions

Major General Milton A. Reckord has announced that future blackouts and air raid drills will be ordered over the 'black boxes' of the Civil Air Raid Warning system, instead of by telephone calls from the State Council of Defense. All Auxiliary Defense Units are to remain on duty until dismissed by orders from the Control Center.

Swarthmore College, phone 0200, has been designated as an auxiliary control center to serve when the control center in Borough Hall is unable to function. Occupants of vehicles stopped during the Red Signal of Air Raid Drills are to be allowed to stay in their vehicles. In case of an actual Air Raid, all persons are to leave their vehicles and seek shelter, excepting those having valuable property to protect. Do not stop cars to see if they have on high or low beams, both are permitted. Do not allow cars to drive with parking lights.

Oil Trucks are to be stopped at least 100 feet distant from buildings. Those trucks traveling towards the underpass should be parked at the north end of the underpass. Those at the south end and moving south should be parked on Fairview Road between the Gas station and the Players Club, or beyond houses at lower end of Chester road. Those north of the underpass and traveling north should be parked on Sproul Road beyond the Baltimore Pike.

Share Fourth With Overseas Service Men

Bring old records to the collection boxes at Borough Hall and the High School, and drop money in the American Legion Auxiliary banks for the Cigarette Fund for men in overseas service during the celebration Monday July 5.

Selling your old records for your own gain deprives our boys overseas of music they need and want. Share with them by giving your old records to help make new ones for them.

Consumer Rhubarb Information

COLLEGE BEGINS NAVAL TRAINING

Civilians and Navy Cadets to Attend Same Classes Where Courses Coincide

The Naval College Training Program began at Swarthmore with the arrival of naval and civilian students on Thursday, July 1. Classes will begin Monday, July 5.

Three hundred men have been assigned to Swarthmore for the Naval Training Program. For the first two semesters the majority of these will be men who have been in the Naval Reserves in neighboring colleges. Men from Freshman to Senior year are coming in from Drexel, Johns Hopkins, Haverford, Juniata, Grove City, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Lehigh, Lafayette, Western Maryland, and Rutgers. The largest groups are from Lafayette, Lehigh and Haverford. A group of 30, however, will come directly from the fleet. They will be high school graduates, or will have had one or two years in college.

These men will first of all complete the Navy requirements in English, Mathematics, Physics, and Engineering Drawing. Many of them have largely completed those requirements before coming to Swarthmore and they may devote their time here to the completion of their major subjects. They will have from one to seven semesters at Swarthmore, depending upon their class in college and their branch of service.

The V-12 boys from the high schools will be in a small minority for the first two semesters but as the V-1 and V-7 reservists complete their courses the V-12 boys will take their places.

The courses offered will be taught by the College Faculty and will carry college credit in engineering, pre-medical and liberal arts subjects. Civilians and naval cadets will in many cases carry the same courses and will be in the same classes. Naval students are eligible to participate in all college activities as far as their time will permit.

The civilian men this summer will consist of scientific students who have been deferred to complete their specialized courses, of boys classified 4-F, and about 60 Freshmen not yet of military age. About 150 civilian men are expected.

The women are not under the same pressure to accelerate, but about 225 are expected here this summer.

The naval officers have been on the campus for most of June planning the program. Lieutenant Glenn G. Bartle is Commanding Officer, Lieutenant C. H. Purdom is Executive Officer, Lieutenant W. D. Menold is Physical Fitness Officer, and Lieutenant P. M. James is Medical Officer. All the Navy men are housed in Wharton Hall and the naval offices are also there.

High School '43 Graduates Begin Training to Serve Country

Nine members of the Class of '43 who have been anxiously awaiting call in the Navy V-12 and Marine Reserve programs received their orders and left July 1 for college training.

Duncan Chiquoine was sent to Swarthmore College, Ned Rutherford to the University of Pennsylvania, Bill Sickle to Swarthmore, Dave Thayer to Bucknell, Jim Cleaves to Ursinus, and Dick Hoot to the University of Pennsylvania. Others sent to college with the Marines were Jay Daugherty and Jerry Corse who were sent to Muhlenberg College, and Bill Mitchell who received his orders to go to Penn State.

Dick Bell expects to be called soon and Dave Weiland, Duane Taylor, and Morris Trimmer will probably receive their orders with the next V-12 and V-5 groups in early November.

Phil Shenkle, George Armitage, Dave Hutchison, Andy Robinson, Alfie Haig, and Newell West have been asked to report for Army and Navy physical exams the first week in July and may be called shortly thereafter. Bob Stein and Dan Kirk await call for the Army 12 program through which they hope to be sent to college. Two others, Dick Cordray and Walt Patterson, expect to be called late in the fall and Steen Meryweather may go with the E. R. C. in August.

"Our Fathers Built This City" Counting one's blessings has an old-time, evangelical connotation as outmoded as peace today. Yet a community's "golden anniversary" tempts even the most casual citizen to count cherished community privileges — and what are they but blessings? Whether one chose Swarthmore as his home for its educational advantages or because it offered room for his dog to run (both have been offered publicly in all seriousness) or whether one is a Swarthmorean by accident of birth or whimsy of business transfer, this is a good time to join your neighbors in a community appreciation and "count your blessings, name them one by one". Swarthmore's natural beauty will be included somewhere in every citizen's "count"; that beauty which every visitor remarks and every resident cherishes; that beauty which on a moonlit night weaves its magic of surcease and calm, or on a snow feathered winter scene catches the most unaware into awe, and wonder, and faith in the ultimate good. For the founders of this borough had an appreciation of physical beauty which has laid its gentle touch on every fortunate person who has resided here. On that listing we shall all agree — Swarthmore's physical beauty is a blessing. It does not compare, however, with the spiritual heritage which has shaped the community life. Swarthmore College, now in its seventy-fifth year, antedated the borough by a quarter of a century. Founded in 1864 by members of the religious Society of Friends its emphasis, in accordance with Friendly traditions, has been laid on "the training of disciplined intelligence, the discovery of individual capacities, and the establishment of a sense of social responsibility". Among the borough's founders Friends were, quite naturally, in the majority. Their Meeting House on the campus was here before the borough's birth and for several years afterwards its only church. The emphasis on the inner light, the quiet, steady working of good has wrought no man can tell what heaven in these 50 years. No resident, no matter what his worship, is without recognition of that blessing; nor will omit it from his "count". Throughout this country and the literate world this community stands for a liberal education. Leaders have gone from here into the world. Each resident's definition of liberal will differ, but the call to be awake to learning and culture is surely heard by all Swarthmoreans who take advantage of the many cultural advantages freely offered them by the borough's educational institutions. This must have been counted a blessing during these 50 years, but in this last winter when there was only cold and dread, the college's Cooper Foundation unrolled new worlds of science, of art and music, of family enjoyment of movies — side by side with neighbors who had trudged from every corner of the borough come rain or snow to laugh together, to grow together as they watched America grow with Abraham Lincoln. In the changes as yet not foreseen in their entirety the war will impose, Swarthmore must still stand for liberal education. To that end every resident, realizing his debt, must be loyal to the educational institutions which bear now the burden of suspense, of change, of faith. "Another count" which all who have spent their youth here must itemize is Swarthmore's pleasure in its children, its anxiety that their lives be free, happy; and that their potentialities given full chance for development. Poignantly this anniversary finds Swarthmore's youth absent to fight a war. That was true at the twenty-fifth anniversary also. But Swarthmore cherishes its youth enough to believe that no good cause can "either be lost or stayed" and so dedicates itself to achievement of a just and durable peace. Freedom of worship, freedom of expression, freedom of opportunity, yes, even freedom from want — these we have had. Our "count" will grow longer. Those lines from the Hebrew singer have served fortunate people in many places and many times; you will echo them, too. "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; Yea, I have a goodly heritage."

ONE TOUCH OF NATURE But since my encounter with really brave birds, I have lost a part of my own boldness. I watch the adults a long time, trying to appreciate them, before turning my back to the sky and working over the young ones. Every time I hear that scream and then the swift descent behind me, I have a feeling of vague terms, but which is best and most honestly summed up by the word, "fear". I now prefer to find nests that are not too far above the ground. More-over the ideal lower stratum, in case one were knocked out of the tree, is that of soft swampland. A few such situations of Fish Crows breed there regularly, raiding a few herons' nests each season just to remind the community that crows will be crows, even if they are Fish Crows. Ospreys command the largest Cedar trees, building their nests at the guard-rod tops — in this case only twelve to eighteen feet above the ground. I have often climbed into old deserted nests and studied the events of the marsh for hours from such an excellent point of vantage. The nests are comfortably large and soft; one may bring one's lunch and spend the day there; a breeze sways the nest slightly, bringing peace to the soul; the atmosphere is and hives flies that swarm below make only rare sallies into this higher agitated layer of air. Fifty Year Record of Borough Government Shows Wise Rule

On March 24, 1893 Burgess-Elect E. Irvin Scott presided over the first meeting of the Swarthmore Council of which Richard T. Ogden, Fred M. Simmons, Charles Parker, John A. Cass, Sylvester Garrett, Edward Sellers were elected members. Two rules of order adopted at a later meeting on March 30 by this first Council bear repeating:

Rule IV—"Any member desiring to present a matter for the consideration of the Council shall rise in his place and address the Chairman, and after due recognition by that officer shall, while standing, proceed to state what he has in mind. No notice shall be taken by the Chair, or by others, of any statement made by a member while seated, except when a member from his chair responds to a question put by the chairman. While a member has the floor no communication shall be allowed between the members or between a member and the chairman or clerk."

Rule V—"Either the Burgess or clerk may speak on a subject pending when invited to do so by the Council." A minute recorded on January 14, 2 years later reflects the temper of the early community: "Resolved that council request the directors of the Swarthmore Hall Association to join with it in prohibiting smoking in this room."

Behind all available physical records of 50 years' life in any community are the intangible benefices of growth of the spirit, of neighborliness, of democratic sharing which defy recording. Certain physical growths however illuminate the steps by which this borough grew. In March 1896 for instance Borough Council's committee on lights reported with the public improvement society of Swarthmore for 16 candle power lights, the company to furnish wire shade lamps, service, and light from sunsets to sunrises at $15 per light, a borough light bill of $240.00. In 1910 the borough budget provided for 142 electric lights at an estimated cost of $1700.00. In 1942 the borough lighting bill was $5,704.92.

The community's fire fighting apparatus is another measurement of growth. In the fall of 1893 Burgess Scott and Councilman Parker returned $630.00 collected from residents to buy fire hose and carriage providing the borough pay for water plugs. Eleven fire plugs were installed and serviced by the Springfield Water Company at a cost of $135.00. Today the borough has 55 fire plugs for which the sum of $2,090.00 was paid in 1942. In January 1904 Council provided funds for harness for horses taken from the nearest available source (the owners were compensated for their use) to draw fire apparatus. In 1908 two thousand dollars was spent for fire protection. In 1917 Council authorized the purchase of a motor driven hook and ladder truck at a cost of $6,000.00 for which voters approved a loan of $5,000.00 at the November election. Since then the growth of the borough has necessitated new fire equipment at a total cost of $23,100.00 of which part was paid by the volunteer fire company.

The borough's police force reflects the 50 years of Swarthmore's growth. In the borough's first years the Burgess was authorized in case of break and entry to offer a reward for the arrest and conviction of the culprit. William Place was the local constable and keeper of the dog pound. In 1911 a detail of the state constabulary was quartered in Borough Hall. In 1912 Council employed a uniformed policeman with pay and swore in 10 members of the Fire and Protective Association to police without pay. This number of volunteer policemen had increased to 21 by 1914. By October 1930 the police force had grown to five. Today the force consists of six men.

A police radio was installed in July 1933 and at present the local station WPFQ is the "nerve center" of Media, Parkside, Rose Valley, Ridley Township, Springfield, Upper Providence, Nether Providence, and Marple, with contact with the Pennsylvania Highway Patrol. In 1935 the first police school in the country for small municipalities was organized here by John A. Detlefsen and J. Paul Brown and held at Swarthmore college.

Fifty years ago borough sidewalks were plank walks in varied condition. The problems of the highway committee over the 50 years included their replacement, the opening and paving of new streets (Howard B. Green laid out the south side of the railroad between Chester road, Harvard, and Princeton avenues in 1902 while a student at the college). Other complications were the laying of durable streets; the agreements with trolley companies in regard to tracks laid on the Swarthmore side of Baltimore Pike in 1894 and on Yale avenue in 1901; and the replacement of the grade crossing of the railroad at Chester road which resulted in 1916 in a foot tunnel at Princeton avenue and in 1931 in the formal opening of the underpass.

For the first 15 years the borough rented official quarters, but a special election on April 21, 1908 carried a bond issue of $25,000 to buy a lot and erect a building known as Borough Hall with 66 affirmative votes, 52 opposed. Swarthmore Hall was purchased for $13,500, $3,000 was spent for the ladder truck and $700 for 15 feet of the land fronting on Park avenue south of Borough Hill. Borough Hall has housed many public organizations, including the Swarthmore Public Library since 1929.

Among the problems which confronted the early citizens to whose vision this borough owes the well ordered and notably beautiful residential community which has emerged from the farm land of half a century ago were sewers and building control. Both have concerned Borough Councils throughout the years.

Early residents dumped sewage into Crum Creek. A warm day and a west wind played havoc with the boasted Swarthmore atmosphere. In 1896 the new borough began, under pressure from the State Board of Health, its consultation with its neighbor Ridley Park which finally culminated in the Central Delaware County Sewer Authority in 1935 to which Swarthmore now pays a charge based on population and area.

The present zoning Ordinance had its forerunner in an action by Borough Council in 1895 prohibiting the erection of tables and out-buildings. The School Board's wooden shed to protect bicycles was declared a violation but finally allowed to stand. In 1913 Council ruled that building plans must be submitted with each application for a building permit. In 1928 the Zoning Ordinance was passed and in 1936 the Board of Adjustment was appointed by Council.

During the 50 years the Burgess, councilmen, and citizens serving on community boards have worked without compensation. They have reflected the honest differences of opinions existing in the community and have served it honorably and well.

Following Burgess Scott as head of the borough's government were George D. Gideon—1897, H. H. Tomlinson—1900, Fred M. Simmons—1903, John W. Graham (Acting)—1906, Shade E. Simmons—1909, Thomas E. Boland (Acting), J. A. Perry—1914, V. S. Pownall (resigned)—1919, E. M. Bassett—1919, J. Dillwyn Durnall—1922, Carroll E. Thayer—1922, William R. Landis—1930, and John H. Pitman—1934.

RECREATION ENROLLMENT HIGH

Topnotch Faculty Proves Instruction Can Be Fun Without Competition

All who have come in contact with the 110 children enrolled in the preschool group of the summer recreation program and the 56 members of the association's departmental group speak of the particularly happy and enthusiastic spirit which prevails during all its sessions. The aim of the program is to give each individual enrolled without comparison or competition pervades the entire project.

Additional members of the faculty who have not yet been announced are Robert Anthony, Yale graduate and teacher of mathematics at the Rose Valley school, who is instructor in shop and home repair and "Pookie" Kniskern just graduated from Sweet Briar College is instructor of canoeing which is proving very popular. Joan Frange and Jessie Gilbert are capably handling the switchboard and office work for the summer school. Alice Hornaday plays the piano for the nursery group, pre-kindergarten, and the pre-first grade at the College Avenue School and is commended for a grand job.

In two weeks' observation it is evident that the skillfully varied program of girl sports under Gertrud Rath's leadership is drawing enthusiastic participation. Craft work in metals, paint, modeling, and woodwork is more popular than ever this year.

Mrs. Daniel Kenny's group enjoyed a picnic at the college outdoor theater last week. Mrs. William Ashton's class also went on a picnic during the first week and has held a second one this week. A group project which will recall youthful experiences to all was the formal funeral service conducted for a dead bird. Miss Faye Fluck's group pilgrimage to the David McCahan's, Cornell and Strath Haven avenues, to see the 24 guinea pigs receiving scientific upbringing there.

Bob Stein son of Dr. and Mrs. Luther Stein of Cornell avenue returned home Wednesday after a visit of several weeks at his former home in California. He spent some time with his sister and friends in Pasadena and southern California and later stayed for two weeks at Lake Tahoe on the border between California and Nevada where the Steins have a summer cottage.

★ Swarthmore's ★ Oldest Established Business ★

This office was founded in the 70's by Henry S. Kent. In 1902 E. Clayton Walton took it over and conducted it until his retirement in 1936. Since then another early firm, that of Charles Parker, has been combined to make this office the largest Real Estate and Insurance business in the Borough.

Many of Swarthmore's residents came to the Borough through our efforts and we welcome the opportunity to share with Swarthmore its future.

Library Board in Quarterly Meeting Lays Plans for Members to Man Desk in August

Circulation of the Swarthmore Public Library for March, April and May was listed at 8,535 by Librarian Bettina Hunter at the quarterly meeting of the library board Monday evening. This figure exceeds by 512 the circulation for the same period in 1942. During the three months the library has added 559 new volumes and 95 new readers.

Report was made by S. S. Rutherford property chairman on the new shelving which is under construction to relieve the present crowding of books. Mrs. Harold G. Griffin reported the acquisition of many attractive new titles and Mrs. Peter E. Told discussed the children's book exhibit May 24 to 29 in the library. Mrs. Griffin reminded the board that "Adam of the Road" by Elizabeth Janet Gray who spoke here at the library's children book week celebration in November, 1941, had very recently received the American Library Association's Newbery award. President Charles Shaw reported the receipt of a gracious letter of appreciation from Barbara Griffith winner of the library award in English at the high school commencement.

Dates were assigned to women members of the board for volunteer service at the library desk during the librarian's vacation throughout the month of August. Announcement was made that the library would be closed all day on July 5, the Fourth of July holiday.

The report of Mrs. Franklin S. Gillespie secretary was read and approved and that of Mrs. H. I. Hooper treasurer heard and filed for audit. After animated discussion of library problems the board adjourned until its September meeting.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Lena Bell, three daughters Mrs. Edith Yelton of York, Pa., Mrs. Ruth Pace of Swarthmore, Mrs. Pearl Aley of Prospect Park, and three sons, Paul, Timothy, and Andrew Bell, all of Ridley Township.

Services will be held today at 2 o'clock at the White's Funeral Home, Chester, with burial in Lawn Croft Cemetery, Chester. The Rev. O. R. Palmer, pastor, will have charge of the services.

Draft Old Records For Men Overseas

The Harold Ainsworth Post of the American Legion and its Auxiliary ask Swarthmoreans to share on July Fourth their campaign for money for cigarettes and old victrola records, both to be used to provide men in overseas service with relaxation and music.

Legionnaires understand well from past experience the pleasant importance a cigarette can have to a man in a foxhole, or a swamp, or battle line. They ask each resident to aid them in their drive to raise adequate funds to supply them. One dollar will buy 20 packs. Change may be deposited in American Legion banks which will be collected by the Legion and Auxiliary on July 4 for this purpose. Checks are to be drawn to the American Legion Overseas Cigarette Fund. Old phonograph records must be collected if new records can go to men of the Army and Navy throughout the world. Radio can not be used in many stations and American men in overseas service ask again and again for new records for their phonographs.

Record manufacturers deprived of their regular supply of shellac will depend on old records for the only source from which new records are made. The Legion and Auxiliary ask every Swarthmorean to search his house for old records, take them to the High School or Borough Hall on the Borough Fourth celebration.

The Music Box joins the campaign by assuring all who have brought old records to it for sale, that the amount collected by the Legion and Auxiliary will swell its quota of new records also. Old records are of little value to their present owners but they will give joy beyond imagining to American men in African deserts, Iceland cold, or Alaskan fog and ice. Let's draft every old record in Swarthmore and send it off to war.

Praises Boro Plane

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and the Swarthmore Business Association for sending me "The Swarthmorean." I have been receiving it regularly for some time now and I certainly do appreciate those news notes from home.

On the front page of the June 18th issue, is pictured a pursuit plane named "The Swarthmore." The people of Swarthmore would probably like to know that the plane is a P-47 "Thunderbolt" built by Republic Aircraft Corporation. Incidentally, it is one of the Army's newest, best and fastest fighters.

Very truly yours,
A/C H. John Lumsden.

Blue Crab

To crawl along a trailless muddy path; To loaf to ease with mud on john and shell; Unswimming in a sickly seaweed dell; For swimming in the circum-global bath;

What soldier, hard to fox-holes, bids for place?

What sailor fails to quit his submarine? What creature finds its lovely love unclear, Or seeks the foremost, fondest dirty face?

This struggling thing amid the tidal dung;

This liquid swish that slithers in the gloom; This harvester and banqueter of doom, That lifts an eye where bones of Earth are flung;

The last to curse a world for being drab;

The first to laud the ghost of every crab.

Give Yourself a Chance!

By Louise Redfield Peattie

ONE of my friends, an engineer in middle life, took on a super-human job in defense work last year. There were three telephones on his desk, four stenographers popping in and out of his office, and outside it a waiting room crowded three deep. Lunch came in on a tray, and the lights burned behind the dimmed-out windows till twelve or past, every night. On Sundays, when the rest of the building was empty, the halls echoed to his hurrying footsteps. His was a key position; he was irreplaceable, and the production of which he was in charge was essential to one branch of the fighting services. "A day off?" he echoed his wife's plea, shrugging into his overcoat. "Woman, this is war."

And so one day they found him slumped across his desk, just as dead as if a Jap bullet had pierced the heart that had failed him. Call him a hero. He gave all he had. But in Washington, so I heard, wiser heads shook regretfully. A man like that was ill-spurred. His death would slow production, hinder the war effort he worked so desperately to help. True that he died in the line of duty, but the one duty he had neglected was a wisely-used furlough. For he was a civilian, not a soldier, and Uncle Sam asks all civilians not to die for their country but to live for it.

THIS is an all-out war, and it can't be won by all-in people. Few of us are working too hard in it, but a lot of us are wasting or mis-using strength that should go into the war effort. We have found that we must carefully allocate production materials and frugally ration essential foods. We have learned to use the limited gas in our automobile tanks with forethought. The energy in our minds and bodies is also limited, and should be consumed to a purpose. For only a strong and steady people can see through to its end a long hard war, and then consummate a just peace.

Tension is the enemy of endurance. We civilians haven't got a right to indulge in it, for it's dangerous to the war effort. Even the bravest men in the service are afraid of it. Yesterday I visited a gallant young friend of mine, a fighter pilot, in a military hospital, and found him pretty grave. He had just got word that his best friend had crashed, and with him the crew of one of our newest bombers. It wasn't in action that it happened; the enemy was what the flyers call "pilot fatigue."

"I'm sure of it," said my friend with conviction, "because when Jack visited me a few days ago he showed every sign of that. A flyer sometimes gets too tense, so that when he goes on leave he can't relax and may do a lot of crazy things that don't rest him at all. So when he flies next day, it's liable to be just too bad."

THAT'S war, but not the civilian's part. Nobody's asking you and me to take a great ship up, day after day, with the lives of everyone in it depending on us. Yet all of us together are guiding the course of America's destiny, and we had better keep clear heads and steady hearts to steer that course true. Even as we fight, we must fight weariness too. That weakening reaction was one reason why the world lost the last peace. So, without shirking an hour's work, every thinking civilian should now and then take a furlough from the war.

Yet this is a war too terrible and too crucial to put out of mind, unless it is to give peace an ordinary health measure; we need those recreations that really make us over into better Americans. For only better Americans than we have ever been will know what to do with victory when we get it, and have strength of purpose enough to do it. And only those who from time to time lift up their eyes to those hills whence cometh our strength will be ready for whatever grief and struggle war may bring.

There are many paths to those heights of the human spirit. You will go your own, when you take a deserved furlough from war. It may be your church that brings you to peace, Sunday after Sunday when the kind bells peal. It may be music, great music, that carries you away to the regions where goodness and beauty triumph eternally; then switch off the newscast and listen to the symphony instead. If the war seems more than you can face tonight, forget the newspaper for once and find a book to lift your heart. A brief furlough among noble and happy thoughts will make the next letter to that serviceman overseas more worthy of him and maybe more interesting.

Or perhaps it is in nature that you find new strength and faith; then when you set forth in fields or woods put the thought of war behind you, as a soldier does when he goes on leave. I heard an acquaintance fulminate the other day because a Washington bird-study club had invited war workers to join its Sunday walks. "So that's the way they fight the war in Washington!" he cried bitterly. Brother, look out for the civilian version of "pilot's fatigue," which brings the illusion that war worry is as useful as war work.

It's not only useless, it's destructive. I'm sometimes as guilty of it as anyone; I'll tune in on the eleven p.m. news, and if it's bad I may lie awake over it so that I'm fuzzy-minded and discouraged in the morning. All that time while I tossed on my pillow wanting to annihilate Nazis and Japs by the thousands, I didn't kill one, or help to.

BUT, sometimes it is the complete absence of news, the dreadful silence of weeks, that makes the war so crushing to a civilian. More and more people in this nation, as the war goes on, will shoulder that burden of personal anxiety. It is a burden that we as a nation must carry through to the end, and we shall not be able to do it unless each of us lays it down for a moment, to take a deeper breath. Any earnestly serving civilian has earned such a furlough now and then. You'll find the pass for it, signed by Uncle Sam, on the copper penny in your pocket. "In God We Trust."

SUMMER SCHOOL IN FULL SWING

Statistics Show Demand of Industry Has Cut Enrollment But Serious Work by Pupils Marks Sessions

The regular Swarthmore Summer School completed the second week of its six week session today. 294 pupils are enrolled in either the elementary classes, junior-senior high school, or the shop. The majority of the pupils are Swarthmore High School students, however Chester, Glen-Nor, Prospect Park, Ridley Park, Ridley Township, Springfield, Smedley Junior High, Clinton, and St. James have each sent a number of pupils. There are also a few private school pupils attending. 230 pupils are enrolled in the junior-senior High School, 46 in Elementary Classes, while 18 are doing work in the Summer Shop.

It is quite apparent that the demands for workers in industry, on farms, and by merchants have met with a big response as fewer older pupils are attending the summer session than has been true in the past. A number of the students are attending the summer school and filling a job at the same time. Teachers report that pupils are quite serious about their work and apparently not just attending summer school because they were advised to do so. The excellent attitude of students and teachers is a guarantee that it will be possible to secure excellent results and the pupils attending will be much better prepared for their next year's work.

Marion MacWilliams, a graduate of Drexel Institute, has charge of the Commercial classes. Miss MacWilliams has replaced Marie Bader of the High School faculty who is now in training for an officer's commission in the WAVES. Mary Armstrong is supervising and assisting the English teachers. Eugene Diffican is doing the same work in the fields of Mathematics and Science, in addition to teaching classes in Plane Geometry and Advanced Algebra. Mr. Duncan agreed to take the extra work when it was found impossible to secure sufficient teachers from West Chester State Teachers College. Adeline Strouse is supervising the work of the Language teachers. Robert Sauter has charge of the Summer Shop program. Nell Wiseman and Theresa Young have charge of the Elementary School Classes.

In spite of the difficulties brought on by the war, West Chester State Teachers College has succeeded in furnishing the school with an exceptionally fine faculty. All but one of the teachers are women, and all are well qualified to instruct the classes to which they are assigned. Dr. Chatterton, of the college faculty, is supervising the work of the teachers. Mary Clingman, West Chester State Teachers College is teaching Junior High School English. Dorothy Kinka, of the same college, is teaching classes in French and Health. Nancy Logan of Wilson College is teaching classes in History and Mathematics. James McHugh, a graduate of Bloomsburg, with many years of experience is teaching the Science classes. Margaret Neary of West Chester State Teachers College is teaching classes in Elementary Algebra and Junior High School Mathematics. Frances Smith graduate of Radcliffe College is teaching classes in Latin and Junior High School English. Mary Snyder of West Chester State Teachers College is teaching classes in Social Studies and Junior High School Mathematics. Edna Taylor also of West Chester State Teachers College is teaching Junior and Senior High School English classes.

excite the envy of all older persons on the playground. Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Alden who have supervised the pony rides with signal success for the past several years will do so again with the assistance of Nancy Peel and Patsy McCahan. A brand new excitement on this 50th anniversary Fourth will be the presence of Andrew Simpson's popular Sicilian burro Fanny and her offspring Derriere led by Jock and Cynthia Homire. William A. Clark's two ponies will also be on hand to carry young riders.

Games for 7-9 year-olds — Gertrud Rath whose sports program for the summer recreation is arousing widespread favorable comment will direct games for girls of this age and John C. Moore whose enthusiastic work with boys has reinvigorated the Cub program here will lead the boys' sports for this age. All children 7-9 are therefore asked to bring their 7-9 or Mr. Moore on their arrival at the school grounds.

Older boys' games will be led by Charles Davison whose prowess demonstrated over years of scouting is promise of the lively program he will have set up for these boys who are well qualified to take it.

Games for girls 10-12 will be planned by Mrs. Peter E. Told with the assistance of June Ullman, Elinor Smith, Ginny Peel, and Nancy Van Alen.

Thirteen- to 15-year-old girls will remember the lively program planned for them last year by Mrs. Frank G. Keenen and Mrs. Charles Israel and look forward to Mrs. Keenen's direction again this year when she will have the assistance of Shirley Shaw.

Games for grown-ups while the youngsters are well occupied have for years introduced neighbors to each other in a new light. You never know until you see them what expert nail drivers, bottle throwers, male seamstresses hide their lights under the community's bushel. Burgess Pitman has led these games for many years, but classes at the college will occupy his time on Monday morning and C. McDowell who has had long, successful experience in game programs has volunteered to pinch hit for him.

2 p.m.—A soft ball game on the high school grounds will cause excitement aplenty. Edward L. Noyes is in charge of this event.

2 p.m.—Canoe races and tilting contests at the canoe house on Crum Creek. This has been Burgess Pitman's baby for several years and he will be directing again this year. Separate races for boys and girls arranged in age groups are scheduled. Father and son will contest the issue; mixed couples will prove their claim to superiority; father and daughter groups will provide some of the most exciting moments of the afternoon if other years set a precedent. Tilting contests by age groups will wind up the afternoon in such excitement that the crowds thronging the banks will stay until every last boy has been ducked.

All canoes are to take their places promptly on the starting line and to return to the dock immediately at the close of the race. Those failing to do so will be disqualified from further participation.

6 p.m.—Picnic Supper at the high school grounds. In spite of food shortage Swarthmore housewives (Red Cross Cantenters' families are lucky) will proudly open picnic baskets to rival the old time American Fourth. All having costumes of the gay nineties are requested to wear them or if girths forbid to loan them to the younger generation.

7:15 p.m.—Before their well-fed neighbors gathered on the high school grounds Company H will drill to astonish them by its prowess.

7:45 p.m.—The Swarthmore Fire Company and various defense units will appear in a demonstration.

8:15 p.m.—Retreat in front of the high school.

8:30 p.m.—50th anniversary program will occur in the high school auditorium. E. Clayton Walton will present borough pictures "Many Long Years Ago" and Edward A. Jenkins will discuss "As You Were". Mrs. Laurence Stabler will lead community singing with Mrs. Everett L. Hunt at the piano. A double quartet will spark the singing. Old timers and present and former borough and school officials are requested to take the front seats.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stockwell and their son Lt. Robert Enders Stockwell of San Bernardino, Calif., will spend a short time this week-end with Mrs. Stockwell's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Robert K. Enders of Elm avenue, while traveling east on a business trip. Mr. Enders' aunt, Mrs. Harry Whitmoyer of Harrisburg also plans to spend the week-end with the Enders.

Burial was made in East Lawn cemetery in Ridley Township.

SET NEW CANNING REGULATIONS

Community Canners Clarify Rules After Consultation With District Head

The Swarthmore canning committee and its helpers assembled at the home of Mrs. J. V. S. Bishop Friday to meet Mrs. Ruth K. Strawbridge chairman of the Food Conservation Committee of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Strawbridge discussed the present food situation, stressing the vital importance of conserving every item of food produced this summer, and answered questions on which the committee wished information.

A business meeting was then held in which it was decided that the rates for canning at the community center should be revised in order to benefit the most people in the vicinity. Therefore, despite previous announcements, the following regulations will prevail at the center this season:

- 1) No canned food will be sold. Points would have to be surrendered in buying such products, and the committee does not wish to become involved in the red tape which this would entail. Therefore, all canned goods accumulated by the center will be donated to institutions and organizations needing such food.
- 2) Anyone can do her own canning at the center under expert supervision. Such persons must furnish their own jars and will be asked to pay a nominal charge for the use of the equipment and services at the center. This charge will amount to 50c for each day of canning, unless the work extends over a half a day, in which case the rate will be 75c.
- 3) Anyone can bring raw products to the center and have all the canning done by expert canners. For this service, the charge is as follows:
 - a) One-half of the finished product will be donated to the center. (In this case, the owner furnishes only the jars needed for her own use.)
 - b) The owner may receive all the finished product if she pays the 50c minimum charge (or 75c if the work requires more than half a day) plus a charge of 15c a quart or 10c a pint for the canning service itself.

In order to make arrangements for the use of the center, persons should contact Mrs. J. V. S. Bishop (Sw. 0627-J) or Mrs. Rex Gary (Sw. 1698) at least a day in advance. The committee will be glad to do all it can to help people wishing assistance in food conservation. No food need be wasted for lack of knowledge or equipment for canning.

MUSIC CLUB TO ELECT

A special meeting of the Swarthmore Music Club will be held in the Library of the Bartol Foundation Building on Wednesday July 14 at 8:30 to elect officers for next year and to discuss changes of policy.

Schuman's Quintet in E flat Opus 44 will be played by string quartet and piano as the musical part of the evening.

SEEK PIANO, VICTROLA

A group of local women is anxious to assist residents of the neighbor Trailer Camp to secure recreational equipment. A small fund is available to pay for it and persons are asked to call Mrs. Edward T. Moore, Media 2477, if they have available a piano or a portable victrola. Both are to make possible community sings and dances for children and grown-ups.

Mrs. Frank Reynolds and Mrs. Stuart Smith are also interested in this work which has already drawn women from many different local groups into its membership. They have arranged a story-telling hour each week which is in operation and for which they welcome volunteers.

They wish to make clear the fact that this is not charity but a sharing between neighborhoods of talents and privileges from which all profit. They are enthusiastic in their reports of the work of USO executive Helen Foley who heads the interlocking activities and of the adequate health supervision by the American Red Cross.

SPROUT OBSERVATORY OPEN

The Sproul Observatory on the college campus will be open to the public from 9 to 10 p. m. on July 13 and on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month during the summer term at the college.

Hours for August, September and October will be announced later.

Consumer Information

Beef is up 1 point per pound on most cuts. A few cuts of veal, lamb, and mutton also have slightly higher point values. Pork is mostly unchanged. Lard and margarine are down one point per pound.

Cheese — Groups I and II — such as cream cheese, Swiss, Edam, cottage, etc., are down one point. Cheddar remains unchanged. Canned Fish is up 4 points a pound, including tuna, sardines, salmon, and shrimp. Oysters are up 2 points.

Twelve increases and five decreases appear on the new official table of point values for processed foods. The reductions are confined to the group "canned or bottled vegetables", such as shelled beans — reduced from 19 points to 11 for No. 2 can — green or waxed beans reduced from 14 to 11 points for No. 2 can, tomato pulp or puree, tomato sauces containing over 5% dry tomato solids and tomato sauce in combination package with cheese. No. 1 tall cans of these products have been reduced from 10 points per can to 4 points.

In addition, and in order to stimulate the sale of this size container, the weight bracket "over 7 ounces including 10 ounces" is reduced from 2 to 1 points for all juices except pineapple. Point increases on five canned and bottled fruits: Apples, No. 2 can increased from 5 to 7 points, apricots and fruit cocktail No. 2 can from 19 to 23 points, peaches No. 2 1/2 can from 21 to 23 points, pears No. 2 1/2 can from 13 to 15 points.

Point increases on seven vegetables: fresh lima beans from 19 to 20 for No. 2 can, vacuum packed whole kernel corn No. 2 can from 19 to 20 points, other canned corn, No. 2 can from 14 to 16 points, peas No. 2 can from 16 to 18 points, tomatoes No. 2 can from 16 to 18 points, tomato catsup or chili sauce No. 1 tall can from 13 to 20 points, and tomato paste No. 1 picnic can from 15 to 18 points.

The price per dozen of eggs will rise approximately one cent a week during July. This slight rise simply reflects the seasonal factors of lowered supplies and heavier hazards of spoilage during the summer months.

Ends Washington Work

Dr. Waldo E. Fisher has returned to Swarthmore to resume his teaching at the University of Pennsylvania. Since last February he has been Consultant to the National War Labor Board in Anthracite and Bituminous Coal and was in charge of the preparation of the basic reports in these industries.

He was also referee for the Fluorspar Industry in which capacity he settled the strike in the Illinois-Kentucky area. He established job classifications and standard wage rates which were later approved by the National War Labor Board and the Office of Economic Stabilization.

Kirks Win Track Honors

Jeff Kirk, son of Mrs. Howard Kirk of South Chester road became Middle Atlantic States champion when he won the quarter mile at Philadelphia's "Stay at Home" celebration track meet Monday afternoon at Franklin Field. Representing the Collegiate Track and Field Club he ran the 440 in 48.8 seconds.

Dan Kirk running for the same club placed fourth in the mile race and tied Jeff for second place in the half mile at the Monday meet.

Swarthmore spectators at the meet included Mrs. Kirk and her daughter Marion, Betty Morse, Mary Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Bair of Cornell avenue and their son Robert.

MRS. E. L. TURNER

Mrs. Edward L. Turner died Thursday July 1 at the Swarthmore Apartments after a brief illness. She had visited her daughter Mrs. Willard Tomlinson annually in the 25 years since she came to Swarthmore as a bride and had made warm friends in the community.

Mrs. Turner had maintained her residence in Woods Hole, Mass., for the past 28 years but had been unable to return to it for some time because of failing health. Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson and their son Jack accompanied her body there where services were held Saturday noon in the Church of the Messiah followed by burial.

In addition to Mrs. Tomlinson another daughter Mrs. Walter O. Luscombe, Jr., of Fitchburg, Mass., survives her, as well as five grandchildren of whom Mrs. Marjorie Tomlinson Bird and Jack Tomlinson are of Swarthmore, and two great granddaughters.

Mrs. George W. Wellburn of Rutgers avenue went to Quatico June 30 for the graduation of her son J. Henry Wellburn who received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Many See Parade

Spectators for the annual children's parade which led off the program at 9:30 in the morning included not only fond parents and family friends but a group of old timers who have been friends of Swarthmore youth for 50 years. As announced there were no prizes, yet costumes and floats showed the same ingenuity and labor as in former years.

The all night downpour had obviously affected the number of paraders but in very good order 150 costumed paraders filed past the interested spectators. The tricycle section, it is true, had developed considerable speed so that parade marshal Roy W. Delaplaine had to sprint to stop it for inspection by old timers.

By 10:30 when games for everyone in the community began with commendable promptness on the high school grounds the promise of sunshine had drawn out a normal Fourth crowd. The line of small children up through 6-year-olds which waited eagerly to ride the promised steeds was temporarily baffled by the appearance of only one burro, popular Sicilian Fanny who under the guidance of Cynthia Homire and Lois Linton cheerfully carried

Community Canners Clarify Rules After Consultation With District Head

The Swarthmore canning committee and its helpers assembled at the home of Mrs. J. V. S. Bishop Friday to meet Mrs. Ruth K. Strawbridge chairman of the Food Conservation Committee of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Strawbridge discussed the present food situation, stressing the vital importance of conserving every item of food produced this summer, and answered questions on which the committee wished information.

A business meeting was then held in which it was decided that the rates for canning at the community center should be revised in order to benefit the most people in the vicinity. Therefore, despite previous announcements, the following regulations will prevail at the center this season:

1) No canned food will be sold. Points would have to be surrendered in buying such products, and the committee does not wish to become involved in the red tape which this would entail. Therefore, all canned goods accumulated by the center will be donated to institutions and organizations needing such food.

2) Anyone can do her own canning at the center under expert supervision. Such persons must furnish their own jars and will be asked to pay a nominal charge for the use of the equipment and services at the center. This charge will amount to 50c for each day of canning, unless the work extends over a half a day, in which case the rate will be 75c.

3) Anyone can bring raw products to the center and have all the canning done by expert canners. For this service, the charge is as follows:

a) One-half of the finished product will be donated to the center. (In this case, the owner furnishes only the jars needed for her share.)

b) The owner may receive all the finished product if she pays the 50c minimum charge (or 75c if the work requires more than half a day) plus a charge of 15c a quart or 10c a pint for the canning service itself.

In order to make arrangements for the use of the center, persons should contact Mrs. J. V. S. Bishop (Sw. 0627-J) or Mrs. Rex Gary (Sw. 1008) at least a day in advance. The committee will be glad to do all it can to help people wishing assistance in food conservation. No food need be wasted for lack of knowledge or equipment for canning.

MUSIC CLUB TO ELECT

A special meeting of the Swarthmore Music Club will be held in the Library of the Bartol Foundation Building on Wednesday July 14 at 8:30 to elect officers for next year and to discuss changes of policy. The program will be played by string quartet and piano as the musical part of the evening.

Consumer Information
A few cuts of veal, lamb, and mutton also have slightly higher point values. Pork is mostly unchanged. Lard and margarine are down one point per pound.

Cheese — Groups I and II — such as cream cheese, Swiss, Edam, cottage, etc., are down one point. Cheddar remains unchanged. Canned Fish is up 4 points a pound, including tuna, sardines, salmon, and shrimp. Oysters are up 2 points.

Twelve increases and five decreases appear on the new official table of point values for processed foods. The reductions are confined to the group "canned or bottled vegetables", such as shelled beans — reduced from 19 points to 11 for No. 2 can — green or waxed beans reduced from 14 to 11 points for No. 2 can, tomato pulp or puree, tomato sauces containing over 5% dry tomato solids and tomato sauce in combination package with cheese, No. 1 tall cans of these products have been reduced from 10 points per can to 4 points.

In addition, and in order to stimulate the sale of this size container, the weight bracket "over 7 ounces including 10 ounces" is reduced from 2 to 1 points for all juices except pineapple. Point increases on five canned and bottled fruits: Apples, No. 2 can increased from 5 to 7 points, apricots and fruit cocktail No. 2 can from 19 to 23 points, peaches No. 2 can from 21 to 23 points, pears No. 2 can from 13 to 15 points.

Point increases on seven vegetables: fresh lima beans from 19 to 20 for No. 2 can, vacuum packed whole kernel corn No. 2 can from 19 to 20 points, other canned corn, No. 2 can from 14 to 16 points, peas No. 2 can from 16 to 18 points, tomatoes No. 2 can from 16 to 18 points, tomato catsup or chili sauce No. 1 tall can from 13 to 20 points, and tomato paste No. 1 picnic can from 15 to 18 points.

The price per dozen of eggs will rise approximately one cent a week during July. This slight rise simply reflects the seasonal factors of lowered supplies and higher hazards of spoilage during the summer months.

SEEK PIANO, VICTROLA

A group of local women is anxious to assist residents of the neighbor Trailer Camp to secure recreational equipment. A small fund is available to pay for it and persons are asked to call Mrs. Edward T. Moore, Media 2477, if they have available a piano or a portable victrola. Both are to make possible community sings and dances for children and grown-ups.

Mrs. Frank Reynolds and Mrs. Stuart Smith are also interested in this work which has already drawn women from many different local groups into its membership. They have arranged a story-telling hour each week which is in operation and for which they welcome volunteers.

They wish to make clear the fact that this is not charity but a sharing between neighborhoods of talents and privileges from which all profit. They are enthusiastic in their reports of the work of USO executive Helen Foley who heads the interlocking activities and of the adequate health supervision by the American Red Cross.

Sproul Observatory Open

The Sproul Observatory on the college campus will be open to the public from 9 to 10 p. m. on July 13 and 27 and on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month during the summer term at the college.

Hours for August, September and October will be announced later.

Fourth Celebrants Carry On Despite Weather's Vagaries

All Day Schedule Furnishes Lively Day for All Who Defy Threatening Skies to Join Games and Wind Up at Fiftieth Anniversary Old-timers' Meet

Early Swarthmoreans furnished Monday night's program which marked the 50th anniversary of the borough they helped to found. E. Clayton Walton who came here in 1890 three years before the borough's incorporation recollected the simplicity of the early borough changing real estate values in Delaware County in this period, paid tribute to the Swarthmore Building Association which did more in his opinion to develop Swarthmore than any other organization.

Old-timer Walton delighted school children present when he declared his pride in Swarthmore High's good sportsmanship and told them that he had seen Jeff and Dan Kirk carry off honors at Franklin Field that afternoon.

Edward A. Jenkins commented upon slides of early Swarthmore which were shown by Dr. Samuel C. Palmer. The slides were furnished by Mrs. George A. Hoadley. Mr. Jenkins' comments were informal and the spontaneous information furnished by contemporaries seated in the front of the auditorium testified to their interest. Group singing led contagiously by Mrs. Laurence Stahler to the accompaniment of Mrs. Everett L. Hunt capped the program which concluded with the Scout Flag Ceremony.

The 50th anniversary program arranged and chaired by Burgess John Pitman climaxed the day-long Fourth of July activities which had proceeded according to schedule in spite of rain and threat of electrical storm.

Many See Parade
Spectators for the annual children's parade which led off the program at 9:30 in the morning included not only fond parents and family friends but a group of old timers who have been friends of Swarthmore youth for 50 years. As announced there were no prizes, yet costumes and floats showed the same ingenuity and labor as in former years.

The all night downpour had obviously affected the number of paraders but in very good order 150 costumed paraders filed past the interested spectators. The tricycle section, it is true, had developed considerable speed so that parade marshal Roy W. Delaplaine had to sprint to stop it for inspection by old timers.

By 10:30 when games for everyone in the community began with commendable promptness on the high school grounds the promise of sunshine had drawn out a normal Fourth crowd. The line of small children up through 6-year-olds which waited eagerly to ride the promised steeds was temporarily baffled by the appearance of only one burro, popular Sicilian Fanny who under the guidance of Cynthia Homre and Lois Linton cheerfully carried

A Link to Future

Dear Editor:

Each week when I read The Swarthmorean I am prompted to write thanking you for your continued service, but my good intentions have been repeatedly drowned by the constant rush of Army duties.

Now I am instructing in the Clerical Section of the Replacement Training Center, trying to make supply clerks out of men from every walk of life, and I have more time to enjoy The Swarthmorean. It is my way of linking the past with the future we are all fighting and praying for.

Very sincerely,
Edmund Jones.

ONE TOUCH OF NATURE

In one such Avalon nest Ozzie was born. I saw him while he was still an egg, lying mutely beside two sibling eggs — all of them beautiful large chocolate-speckled objects, designed by nature to stir the cupidity of any oölogist. But incubation proceeded without interference, and at length the three baby birds hacked their separate ways out of the thick shells.

Spending the summer at Ocean City again, I visited Ozzie's nest not oftener than once a week. When the day for banding the young arrived, I set off with a sense of discouragement born of previous experience. Yes, John Gillespie had already been there — that was to be expected — so I merely made a note of the band numbers and returned home.

A few days later, on August twenty-first, a violent north-east storm shook the New Jersey coast. For three days and two nights it gathered fury, and on the third night it released its full anger on the world. A pier on the Ocean City boardwalk was undermined and crashed into the waves. Streets were flooded by the unshackled tide. Yachts in the bay were torn from their anchors and scattered at random across the meadows.

The morning of the twenty-fourth dawned with the relative calm that follows such outbursts of nature. Though the sky was still overcast and occasional windy gusts rattled amongst the wreckage, the eye and ear had become so accustomed to torrents and gales that these small reminiscent exhibitions were scarcely perceived. Thinking the morning was fine, therefore, I decided to make the rounds of my Osprey nests and see how they had fared in the storm.

Most of the mainland nests were safe, though there was one which was utterly gone. Not a stick or straw was left in that tall pine tip to show where a nest had been. But as the young birds had already made their first flights a week before, my concern was not for this family so much as for others which had laid their eggs a week or a month later.

Arriving in Avalon, I found havoc on the marsh. The whole expanse was still under six inches of water, and looking out toward Ozzie's nest, I saw that the top of the Cedar had snapped off. Without delay I began to wade through the litter of flotsam covering the meadow, falling into many a ditch concealed below the tide.

At the foot of Ozzie's tree lay the nest, upside down. To lift it was impossible, for the six-foot saucer had soaked up so much water that it weighed several hundred pounds. I started to rip the nether foundations apart, from no motive other than to report the deaths of the young birds to the Government, when I came upon a living Osprey's foot. Yes, the toes actually flexed and extended themselves as I continued to free the leg of its overlying tomb, and I shuddered to contemplate the maimed fledgeling that would soon be brought to view.

At last I hauled Ozzie out of the muck. His nest mates were not to be found, nor did parent birds swoop angrily anywhere in the clearing sky. For once I regretted the absence of the old ones, for I felt like lifting Ozzie to their sight and somehow persuading them to come down to rejoice with me in triumphal denial of at least one of the storm's decrees.

I tried to perch Ozzie on a stick which protruded from the fallen nest, but he was too weak to stand up. His feathers — the part of them that had already sprouted from their sheaths — were caked with silt. He could not cry out. But somehow he was whole, and in his eyes there still gleamed something which bespoke the spirit of a hawk.

Gathering him up under my arm, not caring how sopping or dirty he was, I floundered back across the marsh to the car. I put him gently on the floor, and he lay there as if automobiles were part of his daily routine: whatever this was, it could not bring greater agony than the nor'easter had. I think he must have slept all the way to Ocean City.

Except for an inconsequential kitten, which never seemed to develop a normal mentality anyhow, we had no pets in the family that summer, so everyone took an interest in Ozzie, and I had no difficulties in demanding and securing such materials as I needed for his care. The first essentials were a brush and comb, but these produced little change in his appearance. Next came portions of the filet of sole that was to have been our dinner that evening. This was a great success. Luckily Ozzie had enough strength left in him to swallow if I put small pieces of fish in his mouth, and before long his crop bulged in degree sufficient to his own as well as my satisfaction.

Next it was necessary to build him a shelter. I should really call the structure a support, for it had neither roof nor walls. Trying to duplicate the conditions he had become used to in his nest, I thought it expedient to expose him as much as possible to sun, wind and rain, particularly as he might become "spoiled" during his convalescence if I pampered him. Once dependent on real shelter, he might never assume normal wild activities.

I therefore bought only a few six-foot wooden posts and a roll of chicken fencing. First I made a big wire-covered cage. Then inside one corner, about three feet from the ground, I built in a patchwork of sticks upon which I threw various discarded articles of bedding and similar rags. Finally I mowed the grass and made a soft bed of cuttings at the center of the platform.

N. B. — This is the 12th installment of Chapter III "Ozzie" in Captain C. Brooke Worth's unpublished book "A Coastal Migrant".

Osprey who would soon assume the functions for which nature had fashioned him.

My hopes for Ozzie's independent future were entirely altruistic, for much as I loved him, I would have felt like an ally of the northeaster if he had turned, after all, into something less than his parents would have made him.

His flapping exercise began to lift him a few feet into the air. Sometimes it looked as if a breeze would carry him to one side, when he must surely come floundering down into the bush limas, but he always managed - awkwardly to be sure - to make a safe landing back in the nest.

Near the end of the month we realized it would not be long before he made his first real flight. The chances were against our being on the scene when this happened, but luck continued with us, and one afternoon we saw Ozzie flap into the air with the determination really to fly in his wings.

He set his course for the garage roof, but as he crossed the asparagus bed he appeared to realize that he had not gained sufficient elevation. It looked as if he would crash into the side of the building. Flapping frantically, he just managed to bank sharply enough to avoid the collision.

Back across the asparagus he came, made a circle over the flower garden, and disappeared over the house. A moment ago I had never seen our small place so full of sheer birds; now it was empty. Ozzie had gone.

All afternoon and evening I searched for him in the neighborhood. This was a suburb, well built up with houses and shrouded with old shade trees, and Ozzie might easily have perched nearby without being detected. But I sensed that he had glady seen the last of our

He had one trait which I think was individual, though I have not had an opportunity to observe other Ospreys closely enough to know whether they also behave in this fashion. When we approached his cage he lowered his head between his shoulders and wagged it at us. I cannot think of a word more descriptive than "waggle", though I have some doubts as to Mr. Webster's approval of that choice. On second thought, even "waggle" seems not to define Ozzie's motion of his head well enough to leave no doubt as to what he did.

The head having been lowered, he moved it rapidly from side to side in a manner which is beyond the powers of the human neuromuscular system to duplicate. For the head oscillated as if on the circumference of a circle of which the spectator's eye was the center. It seemed that the head was fixed by my own eye, although the head itself was the part of Ozzie that was moving; but the rest of Ozzie appeared to be unrelated by any strong bond to his head, merely following the movement of that independent member in a loose acquiescence.

I have since then tried a reverse sort of experiment on chickens. If one picks up one of these birds and rotates the body in a circle whose plane is parallel to the ground, the chicken will maintain the position of its head at the center of the circle, as if the head were guyed there by unseen wires.

Perhaps Ozzie regarded me as some obscure experimental animal in an Osprey's laboratory. Whenever he "waggled" at me, I felt that he was enjoying greater understanding of my nature than I could ever fathom in his.

On the fifteenth of September we put Ozzie and the cat in cardboard cartons and drove to winter quarters in St. Davids, Pennsylvania. The day was not all presaging of winter - in fact Ozzie almost had heat prostration during the two-and-a-half hour drive. The cat escaped from her box and jumped out of the car somewhere in the Pine Barrens. Altogether it was a discouraging trip.

At home I was able to build a much more elaborate and recognizable nest. Erecting a tall pole in the vegetable garden, I tried to duplicate in miniature the type of structure with which Jersey farmers lure Ospreys to their back yards. Almost our entire compass heap went into construction of the nest proper, and when it was finished, Ozzie took possession eight feet above ground, without a scrap of confining wire-mesh over or around him. The first time he spread his wings to the warming sun he looked truly regal. No longer was he a wait of the marshes or a derelict in the storm; here was an garden, for there could be no environment less congenial to water-loving Ospreys. My only worry was that he could not yet catch fish for himself, even though he flew to the Schuylkill or Delaware marshes, 10 miles distant to the north or south.

N. B. - This is the 13th installment of Chapter III "Ozzie" in Captain G. Brooke World's unpublished book "A Coastal Migrant".

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor: Please excuse the long silence. For some months now I have been intending to write and thank you and the Business Association for that swell paper The Swarthmorean. The first one arrived here in North Africa several days ago, and it was almost as good as a letter from my wife.

I have been wondering if the Fire Company will have the water fight this year—I suppose not because of the water situation. In normal times we would be out practicing about this time—oh well! The war can't last forever. Speaking about the war not lasting forever reminds me to tell you about a bit of German propaganda broadcast I heard last night. The program is conducted by a woman called "Midge". This hour, she says, is dedicated exclusively to the A. E. F. in North Africa. Last night she told us all to go on home because the heat of Africa was too severe for American boys, and besides we had fought for nothing but a lot of sand dunes. It also made her feel badly to think of such nice American boys fighting for nothing but a bunch of Jews. She also told, for the benefit of the colored soldiers, that a race riot had occurred in Detroit killing 600 negroes. There is one nice feature, and that is that they play all the popular American songs—they are mostly chosen with the intent of making all of us homesick.

I would certainly like to be walking down Dartmouth avenue right now, but on the other hand I really feel that I am doing something toward the war effort and wouldn't want to give up at this stage of the game. Again, I want to thank all those responsible for keeping me informed about the best town in the world.

Lt. Dave Rumsey.

Is Regular Reader

Dear Editor: I want to thank the Business Association and you very much for sending The Swarthmorean to me. It has been coming quite regularly and is very much appreciated. First of all I would like to inform you of my new address, and would appreciate it if you would send the paper to me here as I would really hate to miss receiving the hometown news—one thing I am especially interested in now. It's quite a distance from the good little town out here in Arizona, and the best way of getting the latest news from home is via The Swarthmorean. So I don't think I could get along very well without it.

Thank you very much for taking care of this for me.

Sincerely yours, Leonard C. Ashton, Jr.

Everything Changes

Dear Editor: Please accept my sincere thanks for each copy of The Swarthmorean I have received and even for the ones that went astray. Everything changes it seems down here in the tropics, one's viewpoint on life in general, habits, etc. but the old Swarthmorean only seems to change for the better. Please change my address as given and I think I will get each and every copy and more promptly.

Again thanking you and regards to all the staff—until victory.

E. M. Whitecar.

Letters to the Editor

I have enjoyed reading The Swarthmorean in Missouri, and now I am a good long ways from home in Texas in a fine auto school learning to be a machinist. The experience that I have had has been so handy to me, and I will give the credit to Swarthmore High to which I am very grateful.

Would you kindly send the paper to me here in Texas? Thanking you very kindly for the generosity which the paper shows. I would like to tell you all the boys like to read the news of their town. Closing and thanking you for the news.

Yours truly, P. C. Harrison Robinson.

Enjoys His Luck

This is just a note to extend to you and the Business Men's Association a small part of the great amount of enjoyment I have gotten from receiving The Swarthmorean so regularly for the past four and a half months.

After having been in the Chemical Warfare Service I have luckily been sent back to college, and I know as do all the other soldiers here that get their home town newspapers that there is nothing they look forward to more than to receive the news from home.

Thanking you again, I am looking forward to receiving The Swarthmorean at my new address.

Sincerely, Norman Hulme.

SUMMER PLAY GROUPS ACTIVE

Lively Metal Workers Ask Help to Meet Material Shortage for Popular Projects

Rain does not dampen enthusiasm of Summer Recreation groups. The one rainy day so far was a high spot of fun and activity, with games or sports in the gym.

Mr. Anthony's woodwork classes 2 for boys and 2 for girls are actively absorbed in their various creations which included book-cases, stools, bird houses, door stops, knick-knack shelves, model boats and airplanes. Enthusiasm and concentration are so intense that it is hard to heed the signal to put tools away and clear up for the next class.

Art classes under Miss Schwartz have not only done many and varied original drawings, but have made useful posters for the halls.

Ask Jig Saw Loan

Mrs. Wayland Elbrece is anxious to obtain a small table jig saw and scraps of plastic, copper, aluminum or pewter for her metal workers. They are working with any materials available and would be glad to get any additional working stock. Most of the projects have been completed. Original designs worked out in Miss Schwartz' art classes are transferred to metal projects. Some of the older girls are working in silver, making simple rings and pins.

The metal workers are making their own sets of simple designing tools when metal is available for them. Any scrap tool steel or chisels, etc. would be most welcome for this project.

The story telling and dramatic group also works with what is at hand and has none of the usual stage props — costume and scenery. For instance, a tin can has been a doll, a water can, a runaway dog. A piece of chalk has been a candle stick, victory garden seed, and a spoon on a table. The scrap basket has been a washbasin and a sink. Bringing in their own stories and dramatizing them in this simple way has stimulated imagination and originality in action.

Stories dramatized include Ferdinand, Black Sambo, Elephants' Child, Hazel and Gretel, Sleeping Beauty, Cinderella, Beauty and the Beast. Fantomining is also popular with the group, both of familiar tales and original projects suggested on slips of paper such as sawing wood, blind beggar on city street, or taking care of naughty child. Five minute original pantomimes are also given. Next week the group plans to present an informal play for the rest of the camp.

In Crum Creek Fleet Admirals Virginia Rath and Tookie Kniskern of the Crum Creek fleet report that it is following the navy tradition for hard work, and that almost all week sees promotions in rank. So far three boys and one girl have qualified as bos'ns by demonstrating their ability to name the parts of a canoe, properly launch it and take it out of the water, get in and out of it correctly, do straight bow paddling and come into the slip.

Girls outrank the boys in number of ensigns having 8 to the boys' 7. An ensign must do the "A" and the "C" stroke straight in the stern, pull to and push away, change seats properly, paddle 100 yards stern keeping in straight line without changing side of paddle, turn around in place, give instructions to bow paddler, land paddling in straight line.

So far none of the new recruits have qualified as admirals, but several boys hope to soon. In order to achieve this exalted rank they must paddle stern by themselves, make oblique and right angle landings, paddle on either side, do bow rudder and cross bow paddling, do stern Indian stroke and sculling, do hand paddling, land alone, empty and right overturned canoe.

Praises Blood Donors

Red Cross Blood Donor Chairman Mrs. Phelps Soule forwards the following letter from Blood Donor Auxiliary Patsy Griffin, WACS. The letter reflects the interest Swarthmoreans now in the service of their country take in the wartime participation of their home town.

"My dear Mrs. Soule: I have lost my Blood Donor Pin (gold). Could you get me another? I have been wearing it all the time up to last night. I am enclosing a stamp—the pin could be put in an envelope. I see by The Swarthmorean that the blood bank is a great success! I am so glad. I think when more people realize the great thing it is and how little it hurts the donor there will be more. I work in the Post Office sorting the soldiers' mail and am learning how to do the special orders. I like the WACS very much.

Best regards to Mrs. Clayden when you see her. Thank you. Sincerely, (Aux.) Patsy Griffin."

HIS 1943 VACATION...

48 HOURS!

Just as long as a week-end pass.

That's all many of the boys get these days.

Not time enough for a few rounds of golf... or to flock a fly on a trout stream... or to loll on a beach.

For him, all that went out when the war came in.

Now, his vacation can be measured by the tick of a watch... just time enough for one of Mother's dinners... a long chat with Dad... a good night's sleep in his own bed... a glance at the Sunday morning paper... and back to camp.

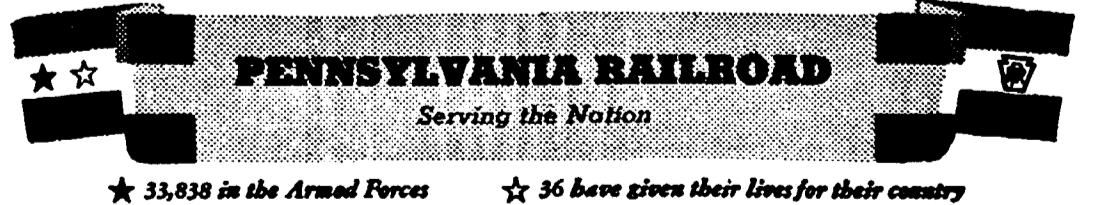

Please think of that young man when you plan YOUR vacation.

If you are going away for two weeks, start your vacation Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, so there will be seats and berths on week-end trains for him and his buddies. Try to time your travel to accommodate him!

You may not realize it, but right now more than 15 per cent of the total passenger traffic on the Pennsylvania Railroad is Service men traveling on leave. And most of it is over week-ends.

So please do your best to time your travel so that it doesn't interfere with theirs!

Cooper Foundation of the College Presents Traveled Englishwoman in Sunday Lecture

Louise Drysdale will speak on "With the American Forces in India, China and Burma" in Friends Meeting House on the college campus Sunday night, July 25 at 8:15. This is the first of the summer semester lectures and concerts offered by the Cooper Foundation. It is open to residents of the village.

Mrs. Drysdale will present in her lecture a first-hand, authentic account of the activities and spirit of the American forces in the Far East. In Rangoon in the summer of 1941 members of the American Volunteer Group — Chennault's "Flying Tigers" — who were training in a remote and lonely spot north of the road to Mandalay made the Drysdale home their weekend goal. Mr. and Mrs. Drysdale came to know them well.

When Mrs. Drysdale was ordered to leave Rangoon in February of 1942 following the Japanese raids on Rangoon, in the first of which 2000 persons were killed within a mile radius of their home and the Christmas Day raid destroyed her home and garden, she was assigned a seat on General Wavell's plane. In India as secretary for six months to General Francis Brady of the United States Army Air Corps Mrs. Drysdale had a ringside seat at the councils of war.

Mrs. Drysdale was born in Calumet, Iowa, of English parents. As a child she lived also in England; in Bombay, where her father was in charge of the American Church; and in New York City, where her father was associate pastor of Calvary Church. She was educated in America, in Florence, Italy, and at Oxford, where she met John Drysdale. He went to Burma as an executive of the Burma Oil Company, and a year later she joined him in Ceylon, where they were married. From 1933 to 1935 they lived in Rangoon; and after traveling in Italy, Switzerland, France and England, they settled down for two years in Assam, India.

On a world tour in 1938 they saw the brutality of the Japanese in China — the bombing of Chapel. They returned to Rangoon, where her husband, as a spare-time job, had charge of radio and propaganda. Later Colonel Drysdale, attached to Army headquarters as Controller of Petroleum for Burma, was missing for six weeks but he and his staff cut their way through mountain jungle to India.

CANNING CENTER ADVICE

During the past week the Community Canning Center has received several requests from Swarthmore women for fresh green beans to be used in canning. Therefore anyone with a current surplus of beans in her garden may receive a fair return for them by communicating with Mrs. J. V. S. Bishop — Swarthmore 0627-J — and thereby contribute to the drive to conserve all the food raised in the borough this season.

However crops must be harvested at the proper time in order to be suitable for canning. Food that comes out of the jars next winter will be no better than that which now goes into them. Old beans which have remained on the vines too long have lost a great deal of flavor and food value. Any food which housewives would not wish to serve fresh to their families should certainly not be canned.

Defense Council Bulletins

The War Production Board has simplified a long list of cotton materials. This simplification consists mainly of a reduction in the thread count materials such as satens, gabardines, broadcloth, poplins, printcloth, and numerous other types. WPB claims this will step up yardage. It also claims that while fabrics will be lighter and less tightly woven, the constructions decided upon have been carefully tested and proven durable. Consumers must watch labels and learn about materials offered.

WPB has reduced the varieties, sizes, and colors of wool, cotton, and rayon blankets to assure greater production of utilitarian blankets. No blanket can exceed 84 inches in length with the exception of white cotton sheet blankets which can be 95 inches long.

Solid color blankets can be made in four colors, rose, blue, green, or cedar, with three stripes. The order also restricts the weight of various types of blankets. Consumers must take care of the blankets they have.

Family, Friends Felicitate Mrs. Mary Dinsmore on 97th Birthday

Today marks a gala anniversary for the Flood household on South Chester road when Mrs. Sarah E. Flood's mother Mrs. Mary E. Dinsmore celebrates her ninety-seventh birthday. Mrs. Dinsmore has made her home here for the past 30 years. She was a very active member of the Methodist Church until bedridden by injuries suffered in a fall three and a half years ago. Although she is frail her mind is clear and active.

Friends will call at her home to felicitate her today as they have in past years and her family now widely scattered will gather in as large numbers as possible to greet her. Her second daughter Mrs. Carroll Snyder and Mr. Snyder of National Park, N. J. are spending the day with her.

Mrs. Dinsmore's grandsons and their families the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Flood and children Janet and Lawrence of Lansdale, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Flood and their son Walter of Springfield will attend the family dinner. John Flood who recently entered the Maritime Service Training School at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., hopes to get home on furlough. Another grandson Mr. George G. Flood and his wife and son George of Los Angeles, Calif., sent their greetings when they found their planned trip impossible. Mr. Flood is a special representative of the Civil Service Commission in Los Angeles. A cousin Mrs. Howard Talley of Westdale avenue and two of Mrs. Dinsmore's close friends Miss Helen Buswell and Miss Kathryn Myers who came from Ocean Grove, N. J., where they are spending the summer will also be guests at the birthday dinner.

The beautifully performed "Quintet in E Flat" by Schuman was greatly enjoyed. Lucius Cole first violin, Mrs. C. Sinburg second violin, Dr. Pepinski viola, Dr. W. F. G. Swann 'cello, and Mrs. Anthony Ventner piano comprised the quintet of instrumentalists.

Pfc. Al Bullard, U.S.M.C. is recuperating in the Naval Hospital at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C., from an operation for appendicitis on July 10.

Bereaved

Mrs. Clare G. Savelli mother of Guido G. Savelli of Drexel Hill died suddenly Wednesday evening July 14 in the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia. She was apparently recovering from an operation performed two weeks earlier. The Rev. David Braun officiated at the Memorial Service which was held on Friday July 9 at Oliver Bair's, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Guido Savelli has resumed her duties as secretary to the Swarthmore Presbyterian Church after illness had necessitated her absence from the office for several weeks.

RECORDS ROLL TO MEN IN SERVICE

Borough Youth Pushes Door to Door Campaign for Old Records Faithfully

Believing their task to be of real importance to every man in the service of this country the younger fry of the borough have spent busy days this week calling upon every householder in their allotted territories to surrender their old records to be made available for distribution to all in the armed forces of this country. 1579 records had been turned in by Thursday morning to the Music Box on Dartmouth avenue, the collection point for all children working in the current drive of the American Legion and its Auxiliary.

The report is far from complete since only a few of the children had completed their task. Mary Corse and Anna Mary Russell lead all with a round-up of 178 records. Neal Bell is runner-up with 102 discs. Next in order of those who have reported are Peggy and Mary Lou Thayer, Patricia Giles and Pauline Benecke, Hattie Turner, Jimmy Streeter and Harold Johnson. The drive has been extended for another week at the request of the collectors themselves.

Timely impetus to the campaign is given in a letter just received from Lt. A. E. Rogers stationed in New Guinea. "Have put in for some leave," he wrote on June 24 although the letter did not reach his family until July 18, but have no idea whether or not it will come through and if so when. One thing I am going to do is look up someone with a good photograph and lots of good records, one at 7:30 and the other about 9:30. While both shows are open to the town, people are asked to come to the second show rather than the first if it is possible for them to do so.

Dear

A message for you...from 1953

(Today, John Jones is just an average American, wrestling with all the doubts and worries and problems that beset every one of us right now. But let's skip ahead 10 years. Let's look at John Jones then—and listen to him . . .)

"SOMETIMES I feel so good it almost scares me.

"This house—I wouldn't swap a shingle off its roof for any other house on earth. This little valley, with the pond down in the hollow at the back, is the spot I like best in all the world.

"And they're mine. I own 'em. Nobody can take 'em away from me.

"I've got a little money coming in, regularly. Not much—but enough. And I tell you, when you can go to bed every night with nothing on your mind except the fun you're going to have tomorrow—that's as near Heaven as a man gets on this earth!

"It wasn't always so. "Back in '43—that was our second year of war, when we were really getting into it—I needed cash. Taxes were tough, and then Ellen got sick. Like most everybody else, I was buying War Bonds through the Payroll Plan—and I figured on cashing some of them in. But sick as she was, it was Ellen who talked me out of it.

"Don't do it, John!" she said. "Please don't! For the first time in our lives, we're really saving money. It's wonderful to know that every single payday we have more money put aside! John, if we can only keep up this saving, think what it can mean! Maybe someday you won't have to work. Maybe we can own a home. And oh, how good it would feel to know that we need never worry about money when we're old!"

"Well, even after she got better, I stayed away from the weekly poker game—quit dropping a little cash at the hot spots now and then—gave up some of the things a man feels he has a right to. We made clothes do—cut out fancy foods. We didn't have as much fun for awhile but we paid our taxes and the doctor and—we didn't touch the War Bonds.

"We didn't touch the War Bonds then, or any other time. And I know this: The world wouldn't be such a swell place today if we had!"

LIKE a black lass over the earth,
Flung by a cowboy hand,
Sound travels through space with a shivery speed
Corraling the sea and the land;
In starlight or sunlight reaching its goal,
Hurling its slippery cords,
Till silence, the ponderous creature, lies
Trapped in a coil of words.

The allied invasion armies must have adequate supplies of food and water in addition to war weapons.

An important part of any military operation is establishing new water supplies destroyed or poisoned by the retreating enemy.

The maintenance of our own home front water supply, despite many restrictions, is vital to the support of war operations.

Use Springfield Water carefully.
