Civil Defense Plans Household Register

One-Night School Set For Wardens, Public On Jan. 7

"Warden, where do I put my mother-in-law in an air-raid?" Most citizens have more urgent questions than this on Civil Defense problems, to ask the wardens who will call, during the week of January 12, to compile a Household Register. Each warden will list the people in his or her area, also any special equipment or resources. The warden must know the area and the people thoroughly, to help them in an emergency, or call for their help if need be. In getting acquainted, he or she will gladly answer questions, and give advice on self-protection, shelter, fires, or other C.D. problems.

Questions will be relayed back to the Defense Council for consideration. To keep the warden from being stumped too often, a panel discussion will be held in the small auditorium of the Martin Building at the College, Wednesday, January 7, at 7:30 p.m. This is a unique chance to short-circuit the chain of instruction by meeting the Pennsylvania State Training Director, Col. E. H. Feather, in charge of the C.D. Training School at Ogontz Center, and probably Maj. O. P. Beeman, Special Advisor to the State Council, who went through the real thing in England and is in close touch with current C.D. in Britain. Maj. Beeman also instructs Wardens and Rescue Teams at the Ogontz School.

These men know the real problems of Warden and household, and will not take refuge in generalities. The local Council will be represented by Charles Russell, Burgess and Director, Charles Fischer and Wayne Garrett.

Primarily the panel will answer questions. To guide the discussion, some written questions have been submitted by senior wardens and others, but everyone present is expected to ask his own. Though the panel will keep in mind primarily the Warden and household, all C.D. personnel are cordially invited. Every Warden should come, and bring a recruit or two. Women are needed as urgently as men. The Council stresses the facts that not only are more Wardens needed now, for the Registration and other immediate tasks, and also that it will not be easy to secure again two outside advisors of equal competence.

Piasecki Names New President

Don R. Berlin, an aircraft engineer and executive of more than 30 years experience, will become president of Piasecki Helicopter Corporation, Morton, on January 1. A native of Indiana, Mr. Berlin comes to Piasecki from a position as Vice President and General Manager of McDonnell Aircraft Corporation, St. Louis.

C. Hart Miller, former president of the helicopter firm, remains with the company as Executive Vice-President and General Manager.

Returns From Germany

Lt. Col. C. M. Rumsey and Mrs. Rumsey of Weisbaden, Germany are visiting relatives and friends in Swarthmore. Col. Rumsey is home on a 30-day leave.

Junior Woman's Club

The Junior Club suggests that the date of January sixth be circled on local calendars for an evening out at the Woman's clubhouse on Park avenue.

A program presented by the Health and Welfare Committee will feature as speaker Mrs. Robert Waelder of Haverford who will comment and show a film on "Volunteer Work."

The subject, especially timely now as civil defense pleas for volunteers in the community should prove to be of utmost interest to everyone.

Mrs. Howard Wilhoyte will act as hostess for the evening and serve refreshments.

In an early issue, a complete calendar of Junior Club meetings will appear in The Swarthmorean.

McKinley to Speak at Mothers Club Dinner

Committees Prepared for Event Honoring Fathers

A humorous pianologue "Did Milk Make Padarewki?" or "What Can Happen to a Musician and Vitamin C" will be presented by Robert C. McKinley, director of public relations for the Dairy Council, who will be the guest speaker at the annual Father's Night dinner to be given by members of the Mother's club Thursday evening, January 8, at 6:30 at the Swarthmore Woman's Club.

McKinley has devoted the last 18 years to making health a pleasant subject for both children and adults. In his unique presentation before the Mother's club he will draw an amusing analogy between health and music with piano interpolations to illustrate his talk. During his many years of association with the Dairy Council, McKinley has appeared successfully before college, high school and adult club audiences.

In addition to serving as a liaison between various segments of the dairy industry it has been his responsibility to create much of the educational material which is distributed either in printed or oral form by the Dairy Council. Mrs. Paul E. Zecher, vice-president of the club, will introduce the speaker.

Mrs. Alfred Mangels, chairman of the dinner, has announced the committee chairmen and members who will assist in the preparations for the dinner. They are as follows:

Decorations—Mrs. John H. Williams, chairman, Mrs. John S. McKinnon, Mrs. David Morrison.

Memorial Services Held for R. B. Miller

Annapolis Graduate Dies At Cornell Avenue Home

Memorial services were held at 11:30 a. m. Saturday at Oliver Blair's, Philadelphia, for R. Bruce Miller, who died suddenly Christmas evening at his home on Cornell avenue. He was 53, and apparently had been in good health.

A native of New York City, Mr. Miller was graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1922. Associated with the Insurance Company of North America since 1924, he was a vice-president of the company at the time of his death. He was an authority on marine insurance and cargo-loss prevention, and had written extensively on these topics.

Mr. Miller served with the U. S. Navy as a commander during World War II, and was connected with the New York Port Director's Office during formation of convoys. His first wife died in 1942. He married Hope Batchelor of Rhode Island at the end of the war, and moved to Swarthmore in 1945.

In addition to membership in the U. S. Naval Academy Alumni Association, he was a member of several professional maritime associations. He took an active part in local civic affairs. He was an amateur painter and a sailing enthusiast.

Mrs. Miller and two sons, Thomas eight and Jack, six, survive him.

Bertha S. Roche

Bertha Stevenson Roche (Mrs. Edmund J.), formerly of Swarthmore, was instantly killed by a bus on December 22 in San Diego, Calif., where she had been living for the past six months with her son Preston Roche.

In addition to her son, Mrs. Roche is survived by her daughter Mrs. Fleetwood Smith of Philadelphia, and granddaughter Bonnie Ryan, formerly of Swarthmore. Funeral services were held Wednesday, December 24, at San Diego.

Presbyterian Creche Wins First in Contest

Nasons, Jones Also Place In Borough Lighting Displays

Touring Swarthmore sometime during the dark hours between 7 and 10:30 on some unspecified evening of this past week four intrepid judges undertook the difficult task of determining the prize winners in the annual Christmas Lighting contest. Residents who took time off during this busy season to view the displays will appreciate the problems confronting the judges.

The first prize, the judges reported no qualms in awarding to the Young Adults of the Presbyterian Church for their lighted creche on Harvard avenue. The life size figures of Mary and Joseph, and one of the three kings in the manger, a sheep, donkey and Arabian camel, made a scene considered extremely pleasing to the eye and particularly appropriate to the season.

Santa Claus in his sleigh and his reindeer looking very much as though they had been surprised on the lawn in front of the W. H. Nasons at 323 Cornell avenue, won second prize.

Third prize went to the Donald P. Jones at 407 North Swarthmore avenue for their blue-lighted tree and the blue outline of the house.

The anxious judges must have lamented their restriction to only three prizes, for they turned in two honorable mentions, the real, live, decorated Christmas tree on the door of the A. Sidney Johnson, Jr., at 620 North Chester road, and the colorful display arranged by the William W. Rumsfords, 620 Magill road.

Then, apparently worried that some excellent decorations might be missed they added another list of those "not to be missed." Included on this list was the Stamford's tree and star at 506 Strath Haven avenue; the R. Chester Spencer's indoor-outdoor lighted Christmas tree combination at 330 North Swarthmore avenue; the Henry Peirson's second floor nativity panorama at 219 Lafayette avenue and the Frank Bromley's red and blue overall display at 750 Harvard avenue, all three winners in past contests.

Finally, they appended a last recommendation that Swarthmoreans make a tour of their own, adding only that a vote of thanks should go to all who gave their labor and time to brightening up the neighborhood for Christmas. The contest is sponsored jointly by The Swarthmorean and the Swarthmore Business Association.

Since 1931

Because Mr. Harris, proprietor of Harris and Company, has been in poor health, his Christmas Eve open house was not held this season for the first time in 21 years.

H. S. Garnet Whips Lansdowne, 63-44

The Garnet won their first game of the season by whipping the Lords of Lansdowne, 63-44. The Lords took an early lead in the game retaining a 6-11 edge at the end of the first period of play. Swarthmore caught up in the final minutes of the half and found themselves out in front 25-23 as the half ended. Bill Ziegenfus made the tie-breaking goal.

From this point onward the game was all Swarthmore's. Sparked by Howard Shearer, who scored 21 points, the Garnet soared and the excellent ball handling and inspiring team play displayed by Bill Hoot, who had 12 points, was an unbeatable combination. Also adding to Swarthmore's strength were the 20 points piled equally by Don MacElwee and Don Stromberg. The Garnet led 42-29 going into the final period and were never seriously threatened for the remainder of the contest.

Wallops Media

The Garnet outplayed Media in every minute of another fast-moving fray last Tuesday. After jumping to an early lead, the Garnet stretched it further and further. They led 21-8, 39-18 at the half, 55-27, and, with the second string playing out the final period, won by the convincing score of 71-37.

High scorer for Swarthmore with 20 points was Lee Swan who played an inspiring game. Bill Hoot, displaying his usual talents, had 15 points. Other mentionable scoring for the Garnet was made by Howard Shearer with 13 and Don MacElwee with 10.

With a taste of two victories after the initial heartbreakers with Springfield and Darby, the team expects an exciting season. The next home game will be with Prospect Park on Friday night, January 9.

Geography a Basic Study Smith Tells Club

The Woman's Club was very fortunate in having Dr. J. Russell Smith as the speaker for the meeting of January 6. His subject was "Geography - Swarthmore and Elsewhere."

Dr. Smith, impressing on his audience the various kinds of geography and the broad applications of the subject, stated that more than half of the world's population lives in a relatively small area — part of India, China, and nearby countries — since these are particularly fine spots for living.

In the Sahara Desert, said Dr. Smith, there are small patches extremely fertile. The price of such desirable land can be as much as $5000 an acre. In these oases the Arabs settle and acquire property. In contrast, the Bedouins wander about in the desert proper. They cannot plant and must have property that can be moved. The raid has come from the Bedouin morals as applied to property. Naturally one tribe will raid to get the necessities for its own people. "Mossadegh," said the speaker, "comes of 1000 years of raiding psychology."

"My subject," continued Dr. Smith, "was 'Geography-Swarthmore and Elsewhere.' Now I'll talk about geography in Swarthmore." The Germans visiting the local high school were shocked that geography was not taught. The situation here as well as elsewhere, has come about from an economic reason. Geographers are not guaranteed jobs, yet geography is basic to the study of history, economics, politics, and sociology.

Dr. Smith explained that many workers in the Point Four program blunder because they know nothing of the country to which they go. Modern education has combined a smattering of geography, history, and other branches into what is called "social studies" and the status of geography prevents the full benefits that might be gained from its adequate study.

Before the talk, Christoph Cornaro of Vienna, who is studying international relations at Swarthmore College, delighted the audience with his group of Beethoven and Schubert numbers.

Panel to Discuss Lawyer Reference Here January 14th

John Donaldson of Media, representing the Lawyer Reference Service of the Delaware County Bar Association, will moderate a panel discussion on the Lawyer Reference Service, and on the Courts and Their Jurisdiction at 3 p.m. January 14 at Whittier House, Swarthmore College.

"Meeting Legal Needs" will be the subject of a panel discussion for the benefit of newly appointed staff members, executives, board members and volunteers associated with health and welfare agencies holding membership in the Delaware County District of the Health and Welfare Council, a Red Feather Service of the recent Community Chest Campaign.

Donaldson explained that the Lawyer Reference Service had been established on April 1, 1952 modeled after American Bar Association plans, and that a recent survey had revealed that its use for welfare purposes had far exceeded anticipation. He also pointed out that the service had been originally patterned on metropolitan lines and that the current problem was to adapt this pattern to small local communities.

In addition to Donaldson the panel will include Vincent LaBrasca and John Cramp, Chester attorneys who will present facts on the Lawyer Reference Service. John R. Graham, assistant District Attorney of Delaware County will discuss The Courts and Their Jurisdictions. Mr. Graham will cover in his topic the workings of the Common Pleas, Quarter Session, Juvenile and Orphans Courts; also the Peace, Oyer and Terminer Courts showing how cases are assigned for trial or hearing. The second of the series of conferences will be held January 28 and the final one February 11 at the same hour at Whittier House. The January 28 meeting will be a shift depicting resources in family services and on February 11 Elizabeth Goddard, consultant of the Children's Division of the Health and Welfare Council, will head a panel on child care. The public is welcome to attend all sessions.

A PROGRESS REPORT FROM PHILADELPHIA SUBURBAN WATER COMPANY

You'll see this sign at the right along highways and streets throughout Suburban Philadelphia. It is the sign of a job that never ends... because the need for Pure Springfield Water not only never ends but constantly increases. Philadelphia Suburban Water Company began this job more than 25 years ago. Since then, the Company never has ceased building for tomorrow; advancing its improvement projects to assure a steadily growing population the comfort and convenience of a superior water-supply... to help safeguard community health... to help provide fire-protection for homes, schools, hospitals and apartment, office, mercantile and industrial buildings. Because this is a continuous job—continually in the process of fulfillment—pinpointing its progress on a given date is difficult. Something new is added almost daily.

However, the development of the intricate pipeline system, the expansion of purification facilities, the installation of fire hydrants, the increase in pumping capacity—the growth of the entire Water Company plant—have gone ahead at a record rate since shortly after the cease-fire of World War II when the pinch on war-critical materials began easing.

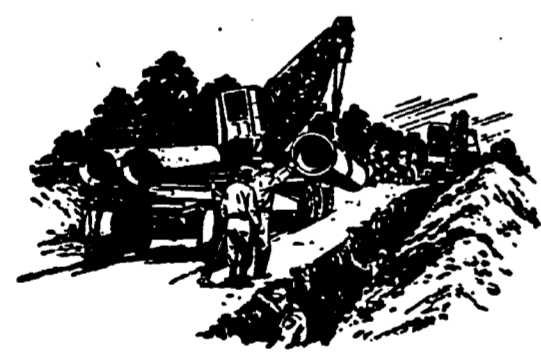

For example: Between January 1,

1946 and last June 30, the job required more than $14,000,000 with an additional $5,000,000 earmarked for expenditure before the end of 1953. Here are some of the projects, building for tomorrow, which are scheduled for completion during this coming year.

BUILDING NEW PIPELINES FOR TOMORROW.
There are 9 major transmission mains under construction or under contract and scheduled for completion by May 31. The network of Water Company pipe then in service will measure 1,570 miles and include the first leg of a 42-inch transmission main for serving the residents of Suburban Philadelphia with additional water from the proposed Perkiomen Reservoir near Green Lane.

BUILDING NEW PUMPING CAPACITY FOR TOMORROW. As the Water Company's network of pipeline expands, more pumping equipment is needed to deliver Springfield Water to its farthest ends. There are 7 auxiliary pumping stations and more than 20 new pump-installations under construction or under contract and scheduled for completion in 1953. There then will be 5 main pumping stations and 24 auxiliary stations in service.

BUILDING NEW STANDPIPES FOR TOMORROW. A growing population not only needs more water but more stored water to meet each day's peak-hour demands. The Water Company now maintains 21 standpipes and distribution reservoirs with a capacity of 32,000,000 gallons. These are being augmented with 3 additional standpipes. Upon the completion of this project, the Company's water-storage facilities will be increased by 14,000,000 gallons.

BUILDING NEW WATER SUPPLIES FOR TOMORROW

Water Company customers now use daily an average of 37,000,000 gallons of Pure Springfield Water—and the demand has been increasing daily, each year, by approximately 2,000,000 gallons. In accordance with its policy of building for tomorrow, the Company applied—3 years ago—for an additional 16,500,000 gallons per day from Perkiomen Creek. The State Water and Power Resources Board granted its permission on January 11, 1951, but a small group of individuals has succeeded in delaying the advancement of the Perkiomen Project. Meanwhile, however, the Company has proceeded with preliminary work on the new dam-site in order that construction can be started immediately, pending the approval of the design of the proposed dam by the State Board.

Russian Artists to Perform at College

Program by Russian Singer Will Conclude Cooper Foundation Series

Maria Kurenko, soprano, and Vsevolod Pastukhoff, pianist, will present an unusual program of Russian songs, Thursday, January 15 in Clothier Memorial at 8:15 p.m., in a concert sponsored by the Cooper Foundation and the Music Department of Swarthmore College.

A wide selection of Russian songs form their program, covering the period from 1840 until 1917. Art sons of Glinka, Moussorgsky, Rimsky-Korsakov, Rachmaninoff, Medner, Prokofiev and Tchaikovsky will be featured.

Born in Moscow, Maria Kurenko graduated from that capital's music conservatory with honors. Extensive concertizing within her native country was followed by appearances in the greatest opera houses and concert halls on the Continent.

Since coming to the United States, Mme. Kurenko has sung with major symphonies, chamber groups, and ensembles. She appeared for two years as soloist on the Columbia Broadcasting System network show, "Invitation to Music", and has been guest on other top radio programs. She has also recorded several albums of songs of Russian composers.

Mme. Kurenko is ranked as the outstanding Russian singer of our era. At present she teaches voice at the Juillard School of Music. Vsevolod Pastukhoff, also born in Russia, graduated from the St. Petersburg Conservatory and is well known in Europe as a top ranking contemporary pianist. Having toured the Continent many times, he has had many musical pieces dedicated to him. He is especially admired in Latvia where he was once a professor in the University of Riga and a music critic there. At present he is much in demand as a teacher.

This concert is the third in a series sponsored by the Cooper Foundation to present a full cycle of Russian music in all its aspects. Previously, Alexander Barofsky and Russian Cathedral Choir have performed at Swarthmore in this current series.

car, maybe she'll have on her "dun-garees", etc., send the men in the audience into near hysterics, but it is partly due to the faith and naivete with which Mr. Clark identifies himself with his ilk.

Among the male stars in the cast must be listed Luren Dickinson in his first appearance for the Club, playmng the bride's young brother Tommy (which he is in actuality) with complete insouciance and charm. He is certainly one of the factors which make "Father of the Bride" such a happy experience.

Mary Ann Dickinson as the about-to-be married daughter, Kay Banks, is lovely to look at and adept in her role. The rapport between Kay and her mother Ellen Banks as played by Catherine Gayle Hodge is successfully established and pleasantly maintained.

Mrs. Hodge is charming and at ease in the family group which also includes elder brother Ben (Eric Lawrence) whose understanding with Peggy Swift (Barbara S. Thorbahn) adds glamor and light to the play. Both Mr. Lawrence and Miss Thorbahn contribute variety and apt characterizations to the production.

Almost in the family are Della, interestingly and consistently interpreted by Mary Helen Danforth in her first stage experience and Miss Bellamy (Sally McFadden) whose trouble with the lists is the core of one of the problems. Miss McFadden always tucks her roles away with crispness and dispatch, and finds a warm welcome among Players Club audiences.

Briefer but effective roles are carried by Marie G. Donnelly, Richard Foltz, Irma Keighton, James F. Robinson, Mildred Blingham, Leo Quinlan, and W. H. Roberts. On Monday night Mrs. Donnelly was suffering from laryngitis but played her role, in keeping with the good trouper tradition, establishing an excellent characterization as Mrs. Massola head of the catering firm which handles the wedding. Richard Foltz strikes the sardonic note as her assistant, James F. Robinson is an adequate Buzz.

Don't miss the play tonight and tomorrow night because you saw the movie. The comparison is fun and the Players Club production very pleasing and enjoyable in its own right.

Rev. Lawrence Whittemore gave the Christmas greeting to the group this year, on the subject "The Spirit of Christmas." Visitors included Georgene E. Bowen, director of recreation for older age of the Philadelphia Health and Welfare Council, who expressed the opinion that the meeting room at the Presbyterian Church is ideal for the group, and also complimented Swarthmore on the progress made in this activity.

Other highlights of the program included a talk given by one of the members of the Group, Lillian Clark, who as a retired teacher of art, spoke on the various uses and training which can be given students in this field. Various examples were shown, and some of Miss Clark's interesting paintings were on exhibit. Mrs. Pitman gave to the Group, Four Points of

A request from Fair Acres County Home was received by the Committee, to send a representative to observe a meeting of the Friendly Open House. Members have been busy knitting squares for afghans used by the Red Cross, and while some wool for this purpose has been given them, more is needed. Mrs. John H. Pitman, leader of the group, reported that for the last three meetings, there has been an average attendance of 24 members, with an average of 13 volunteer helpers for each meeting.

Rev. Lawrence Whittemore gave the Christmas greeting to the group this year, on the subject "The Spirit of Christmas." Visitors included Georgene E. Bowen, director of recreation for older age of the Philadelphia Health and Welfare Council, who expressed the opinion that the meeting room at the Presbyterian Church is ideal for the group, and also complimented Swarthmore on the progress made in this activity.

Other highlights of the program included a talk given by one of the members of the Group, Lillian Clark, who as a retired teacher of art, spoke on the various uses and training which can be given students in this field. Various examples were shown, and some of Miss Clark's interesting paintings were on exhibit. Mrs. Pitman gave to the Group, Four Points of

Shay to Plan New Elementary School Board Files Jury Petition, Looks Into New Operational Tax

School Board passed a resolution Wednesday evening naming Howell Lewis Shay architect for the proposed Rutgers avenue elementary school extension. The Philadelphia firm of which Mr. Shay, Sr. of Cornell avenue and Mr. Shay, Jr., of Walnut lane are members, was used when the present school was built in 1930.

Moving further toward realization of the additional facility the Board asked Finance Chairman Donald P. Jones to prepare estimates of income from an additional millage levy which is considered necessary for operation of the increased plant when completed, whether the building itself is financed by an Authority or by a bond issue within the School District's own borrowing capacity.

The present maximum of 35 mills now being levied covers current expenses only. In the hope that the State will declare Swarthmore a financially distressed district, or the 1953 Legislature will reclassify it third class, Mr. Jones was asked to determine what operational increases could be borne by an additional five mills, and a ten mill increase.

Another step taken Wednesday night toward the expansion project was the signing of the petition for a jury of view to establish a price for the Rutgers avenue land on which the building will be erected. It is expected the Delaware County Court will appoint the jurors within a fortnight.

Complicating decision on the number of new rooms needed to accommodate present and predicted population in the 1954-60 period, is the newly proposed Dartmouth avenue apartment units. President Carroll P. Streeter pointed out these building might raise the pupil total already forecast by last year's survey. This could be caused by children moving into homes vacated by people without school children transferring to the apartments, as well as by families with children renting some of the 72 apartments.

Informal Dance Tomorrow For 11th and 12th Grades

The eleventh and twelfth grades of the Swarthmore Junior Assemblies will have an informal dance tomorrow evening, January 24, from 8:30 to 1:30 at the Woman's Club on Park avenue.

Internat'l Friendship Bridge Set for Feb. 3

The International friendship department of the Woman's Club, Mrs. S. Milton Bryant chairman, will give a benefit dessert bridge at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, February 3 at the club house. Table prizes and unusual door prizes are promised. The decorations will carry out the international theme.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs has pledged 150,000 CARE packages for the women and children of Korea, and the benefit bridge is one of the ways by which the local club is raising money for a goal of $500 as its share in this project. Mrs. William W. Turner is in charge of the department. Recently the department received a prize of $15 dollars for second place in the Felse soap contest. By means of this money and part of the bridge profits the committee hopes to be able to contribute $120 to support a Korean war orphan for one year. Mrs. Robert B. Clothier is chairman of this project.

Thomas A. Bradshaw, who is a member of the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and American Bar Associations, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Phi and the Racquet Club, now heads a Company which has paid more than a billion dollars in benefits, since its organization.

Surprise! Surprise!!

Wednesday was a blue day for five astonished motorists. With no more warning than the usual frustrated signs, which have been wearily proclaiming the two-hour parking limit for lo these many years along South Chester road, Park avenue and Dartmouth, and the limited section of the new parking lot, Borough Authority suddenly enforced the parking ordinance in the heart of the village, and tagged the five for violation of the law. Perhaps the other four (although this has not been verified) were chronic offenders, but one gentleman, a man of medical learning, was one who until Wednesday—a rainy day—hadn't used his car for three weeks.

through THICK and THIN

Through the thick of a winter snowstorm—or over thin glare ice...

Over thick slush—or through the thin, sharp light of sun on snow-banked roads...

Winter driving has special hazards that demand special caution on the part of the motorist.

The Commonwealth tries to do its share toward safety. Main roads are kept clear of snow, grades and curves are cindered. But quick freezes and thaws cannot be controlled.

You, the driver, must provide most of your own safety. Chains give you better traction to help prevent skidding, and so do special treads on your tires. But nothing takes the place of slower speed and greater alertness.

Utilize these two factors to get you through the thick and thin of winter driving without accidents.

LWV Concentrates On Schools, Public Health

Four members of the Swarthmore League of Women Voters will participate in local radio programs next week dealing with public school finances and the part property assessments play in helping to provide good public educational systems.

On Tuesday, February 3, Mrs. John Seybold, education committee chairman; Mrs. Frank C. Pierson, chairman of the membership committee, and Mrs. Daniel Goldwater will take part in a skit during Marian Pedlow's show over WPA from 9 to 10 A.M. Mrs. Oliver Rodgers will be interviewed Friday, the 6th, on the Elsie Jones program at 2 p.m. from WVCH.

Mrs. C. Weir Wylam, Monday evening, laid the task of educating the public to the advantages of securing a good public health program for Pennsylvania, right in the lap of the League of Women Voters.

Speaking to the local branch, at the Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Wylam who is the State League's public health chairman, stated "Pennsylvania had a good health department for 55 years. It began as one of the best in the nation but gradually lost its lead until a 1947 survey revealed it 43rd of the entire 48 states." Mrs. Wylam said new legislation gained by the League and the other 46 organizations comprising the Pennsylvania Health Council had already run into political snags.

Advocating that schools, judgeships, and public health be exempt from political patronage practices Mrs. Wylam remarked, "Though basically a state problem, a proper public health program for Pennsylvania can only be secured by each of us doing a missionary job through his own family, and organization—educating the public in the philosophy of public health. The general public and some members of the medical profession mistakenly confuse the proposal with socialized medicine, national health insurance or free medical clinics, Mrs. Wylam said. These notions must be dispelled, she continued, people must be made aware that the Pennsylvania Medical Society and some County Societies favor reform with milk and water control; pre-natal care for those who cannot afford it, improved epidemic control and handling of statistics.

Pennsylvanians working under the slogan "Better Health for the Commonwealth" aim to decentralize a complicated duplication of services by establishing county health units and putting all public health personnel under a merit system.
