Lions Give Audiometer To Local Schools

Presentation to Be Made
At Home & School
Tuesday

The Lions Club of Swarthmore has purchased, for presentation to the Swarthmore Schools, a Maico Pure-Tone Audiometer, for testing of children's hearing. The presentation will be made at the Home and School meeting next Tuesday night in the high school Auditorium, by Dr. John Wigton, member of the Lion's Club, and school medical examiner.

This refined and delicate instrument will replace the multiple-audiometer heretofore borrowed a few weeks at a time from the County Superintendent's office at Media. The new machine will be used only with individual children, first, to screen the hard of hearing at the usual tone frequency levels, and second, at a range of frequencies to determine hearing thresholds.

The testing will be done by Mrs. Edith Kenney, school nurse, in the new soundproof booth recently installed in the nurses' suite at the high school. All pupils will be tested here until the new medical suite is completed in the Rutgers Avenue School addition. Mrs. Kenney has completed a course at the Naval Hospital center in audiometric work. She is enthusiastic about the potentialities of this machine in finding children whose hearing loss may be such as to cause them to be handicapped in their classwork.

The audiometer is now on display in Catherman's window.

Library Board Studies Survey

Concentrated Preview
Tuesday Night

The Board of Directors of the Swarthmore Public Library gave close study Tuesday night to the three-page basic statistics report of the comparative study of eight public libraries in the Philadelphia suburban area compiled by the Library Practices committee, Dr. Robert E. Spiller chairman.

Libraries studied included Lansdowne, Narberth, West Chester, Radnor, Ardmore, Bala, Bryn Mawr, and Swarthmore. Mrs. T. K. Brown, Jr., and Philip H. Jewett worked on the survey.

In presenting the report Mr. Spiller stated that his committee made no formal recommendations. Informally, he pointed out that the study showed the local ratio of circulation to population to be three times higher than others studied; that the local library spends twice as much for books as other libraries tabulated, is open fewer hours, has a salary schedule relatively in line with the others but spends it on quality rather than quantity, having a small but trained staff.

Librarian Bettina Hunter listed the circulation for September and October at 9,394 (6038 adult, 3356 juvenile); new members added during the period at 134 (84 adult, 50 juvenile); 25 non-resident paying members; and 431 new books accessioned (228 adults, 203 juveniles).

Miss Hunter reported the Home and School Parents' Shelf ready for circulation with the aid of Mrs. Bess Lane, Mrs. Edward Cratsley and Robert Brodhead, Mrs. Lane having loaned approximately 50 books, many of them dealing with child guidance and psychology. The provision of police protection for school children at the Dartmouth-Princeton avenue crossing used by all children south of the railroad underpass who now attend the College Avenue School; the improvement of traffic signs in front of schools and at school crossings at Chester road, Swarthmore and Yale avenues with possible traffic standards placed in street centers at dismissal and convening hours, or pavement lettering; the enforcement of speed laws by every available means (Continued on Page 6)

The Swarthmore Property Owners Association proposed that parking be limited to one side of all streets except Park and Yale avenues as a safety measure.

Council approved a new garbage collection contract with the present collector, Stanley Dandurski, at a cost of $8,000, an increase of $3,500 due, according to Dandurski, to the cost of cooking the garbage under new state regulations. The only other bid submitted was for $600.

Possible relief for crowded parking on the north side of the railroad station was indicated by Council's approval of the Pennsylvania Railroad's plan to double the parking space if the contemplated land swap between the railroad and Swarthmore College goes through.

Council was requested by residents of South Harvard avenue, between Chester road and Mt. Holyoke place, to improve the street surfacing without laying curbstones or sidewalks.

Eighteen members of Mrs. Harry Seymour's ninth grade Civics class attended the Council session.

The annual observance of Book Week, November 15 to 21 by the Library is in preparation.

The balance of the meeting which was attended by all nine directors with the President Dr. J. Alfred Calhoun in the chair was devoted to serious preliminary discussion of the budget with the problem of acquiring increased help to handle the heavy circulation an evident necessity and the foreseeable income not equal to the task. This finance committee will present the budget at the next meeting of the Board on December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Miller and children, Paul and Christina, are residing in their newly built home at 551 Marjetta avenue.

THE CASE OF THEWHINING PUPPY

Dinky, the puppy, is whining beside Teddy's tricycle. This is the third day that Teddy hasn't romped with him and thrown him a ball to catch. Dinky is lonesome. He can't understand why the house is so quiet... why Teddy's mother keeps crying... why Teddy's father looks so sad and tight-lipped.

No, Dinky doesn't understand. And neither do we. Why should a little boy be killed by a usually kind-hearted man who wouldn't deliberately hurt a child? It doesn't make sense.

Yet this is not an isolated case. It happened 1720 times last year. This is the number of children under 15 years of age who were listed in pedestrian traffic deaths... killed by usually kind-hearted men who made the fatal mistake of driving too fast—of not watching carefully for the unexpected where children were playing. Children do the unexpected: Dart after a ball rolling in the street... run from between parked cars... cross a road without looking both ways. You—the driver of the car—must be doubly careful to avoid such accidents. Slow down in districts where children play and go to school.

Whether or not you get into an accident or are caught violating a traffic rule—you know you are on the wrong side of safety when you take a chance. Stay on the right side. Be a good driver.

Swarthmore's Hallowe'en ActivitiesDiminutive Conclave Haunts Field House

In answer to the dual call issued by the Swarthmore Business Association and the Mothers Club, a host of diminutive spooks converged on the Field House Friday night to celebrate an early Hallowe'en.

Although the traditional witching hour is midnight, close to 350 goblins aged two to eight years turned up at 7 p.m. to transform the ring ordinarily used for college trackmen to a happy haunting ground for the varied assortment of ghosts, fairies, pixies and the more gruesome creatures that tend to emerge at the close of October.

Following the march twice around the ring before parents and other devoted members of the family assembled for the occasion, each parader was rewarded with a bag of favors, before going off the other haunts — or to bed.

Mrs. Joseph Hildrenbrand was general chairman of the event. She was assisted by Mrs. E. H. Lee Bauer, Mrs. Charles Grier, Mrs. Edmund Jones, Mrs. John B. Roxby, Mrs. Henry J. Roth, Mrs. G. Alex Mills, Mrs. Raymond F. Winch, Mrs. H. Leonard Clifford, Mrs. George Dunn, Mrs. Leo C. Marshall and Mrs. Paul E. Zecher, president of the Mothers Club.

TAKE THE TRAIN TO TOWN! PENNSYLVANIA RAILROADBusiness Name Winners in Outdoor Parade Friday

A large and motley crew of youthful and adult members gathered at the borough's park at Kenyon and Rutgers avenue last Friday night to march in the Swarthmore Business Association's well-organized parade.

Siphoned off to their proper divisions by helpful Lions (the service club variety), participants were soon hoofing it down Rutgers avenue to the marches provided by the Swarthmore College and High School Bands, cheered on by the onlookers that lined the sidewalks. Members of the auxiliary and regular police forces protected them from unsuspecting motorists, while searchlights, posted on the Fire Company's engines and placed at strategic points not only illuminated their pathway but brightened the judges' problem of picking the winners.

Prize Winners

The 27 cash winners — $5 for firsts, $3 for seconds and $1 each for thirds, were selected as follows:

In the individual division under comic, Sunny Decker was first; Marty Franck second, and William Maddox third; under fancy dress, Charlotte Brodhead took the first, Lois McLaughlin the second and Raymond Pope third. For the most original West Cochrane won first place, Frances Pearson and Barbara Kent second, and Stevie Jacob third.

Comic winners under the group division were Jay and Chris Sipler and Dawn Boyer, first; Henry and Molly Bunker second, and David Shute and Jeb Turner third. Nelson Schock placed first in the fancy dress, Kathe Bodley second, and Betsy Hicks and Judy Coles third. The prizes for the most original, went to Karen Schlessner and Susan Allen, first; Jimmy and Ann Gearhart second, and Susan Gowling and Susan Bruce third.

Under the division of floats, prize winners for the comic section were Nina Kapp and Marian Detweiler first, Antonica Fairbanks and Addis Gillilan second and Christie Decker third. For the fancy dress section the prize was divided among Sara and Laura Stein, Joann and Carol Espen-schade, Mark Good, Carol Morgan, Bill Gill and Ford Kieger. Most Original winners were, first,

Posters Add Spice to Borough Hallowe'en

Posters conceived and created by pupils in the Swarthmore Schools added October spice to store windows throughout the village and set the stage for the Hallowe'en weekend. They also presented a few problems for Winifred Rumble, Mrs. Howard Sipler and Nancy Sylvanus, judges of the concert sponsored by the Swarthmore Business Association.

But, over keen competition and after due deliberation, the following artists were chosen the winners:

In the eighth grade, Edward Payne first, Peter Campbell second, Sally Ficcard third; Mary Jane Schroder honorable mention.

In the seventh grade Elizabeth Gillilan first, Spencer Carroll and Hank Valentine second, Susan Seely and Sally Huse third; John Thurman, Mary Jane Haseltine, Edward Hunt, and Mike Becker honorable mention.

In the sixth grade Marty Franck first, Donnie Smith and Susan Hayward second, Martha Miller and Susan Campbell third; Susan Whicher, Robby Jarratt, Shirley Little, and Tom Huber honorable mention.

In the fifth grade Sondra Skoglund first, Susan Wright second, Jean Patterson third; Josie Lange honorable mention.

In the fourth grade Harriet Hudgins first, Bruce Cratsley second.

Prize winning posters are now on exhibit in Borough Hall. Claudia Hancock and Ann Jane Cleaver were the faculty advisors for the project.

Susan Williams and Lee Ann Bauer; second, Ann, Jean, Juanita, Joan and Charles Paul, and Ruth and Les Ann Kurtzthal; third, Karen and Richard Peterson.

Charles Grier, general chairman and Barton Calvert, co-chairman of the parade, enjoyed the able assistance of Thomas Conway and James Duhn for the lighting and the public address system; L. C. Hastings and Mr. Conway, masters of ceremonies, Thomas V. Bateman, police chief Charles Lukens, in charge of the auxiliary police, Bill Shirley, Ed Noyes, John Michael and Norman Weinstein Ned Pyle, Horace Passmore and Mrs. Wesley Simon were the judges; Al Carney is president of the sponsoring association.

Home & School Gets Lions' Audiometer Varied School Areas Reviewed Tuesday Night

An audiometer described by School Physician Dr. John H. Wigton as the "finest precision instrument available today for testing hearing" was presented to the local school district at the opening of Tuesday evening's Home and School session. Dr. Wigton made the presentation on behalf of the Swarthmore Lions Club, donor of the apparatus. Mrs. Mary Spiller, School Board chairman of instruction, received the gift and turned it over to the care of Mrs. Edith Kenney, school nurse, who stated the new equipment will be invaluable in detecting hearing troubles in the very earliest grades. Herebefore the school has had to depend upon the limited use of a testing machine lent by the County. The former machine's efficiency was impaired by its transportation from place to place, and by its type being usable only on children beyond primary grades. Supervising Principal Frank R. Morey reminded parents that "A School District is an arm of the State and controlled by laws made by the State". Citizens directly have very little control over schools, he continued. Their control is in the ballot box, through electing legislators who will enact proper school laws on the State level, and, by putting good local School Board members into service. Describing Swarthmore High School as "essentially a college preparatory school" which sends 80% of its pupils on to higher education, Morey cited the entire school system's concentration on the individual child's interests and needs. He pointed out the extra enrichment such as dancing and music instruction which the school makes available to local children through contributing use of its buildings in order that such outside instruction may be given at reduced rates. The big role the school's aid in instrumental music instruction plays in lives of children above third grade was later enlarged upon by Music Director Robert Holm and by Herbert Huse, representing the Band and Orchestra Parents Associations. Bettejo Goodall, new teacher in charge of vocal music, was introduced to the audience and the school's activities in this field reviewed.

High School Principal William Bush skimmed quickly through commendations and recommendations made by the visiting evaluators who completed a survey of the local high school last month. These findings will be published and copies made available to interested parents in the very near future.

New Elementary School Principal Thomas Boyle was introduced and pointed out a district "can never have the best high school with out the best elementary school".

Jozyelle Peck, guidance counselor, another newcomer to the faculty, stated a guidance program must be flexible, changing with needs of students, if it is to be effective. Outlining her work she said the main object is to prevent undesirable things happening, by trying to anticipate them before they become a real threat. Most time should be spent in pointing out opportunities and challenging students to think in terms of themselves in today and the future. Miss Peck complimented Swarthmore on the way new children are welcomed by present students.

Mrs. Robert Gillfillan in tracing the history and function of the Grade Parents Council of which she is president, referred to the group as the "wheel horse of the Home and School". She said the current campaign to increase safety of pupils is an example of conquering problems through joint interest and action of school staff and parents. Mrs. Gillfillan said that as well as meeting as a whole the Council, composed of chairman of all grade mothers' groups, now separates for further meetings in order that elementary school principal on elementary problems and the high school concern itself with matters distinctly its own.

Mrs. Roy McCorkle, retiring chairman of the Health Advisory Committee, traced the benefits derived from this group's dental clinic, camping scholarships, and mental health movies. She said Mrs. Louis N. Robinson, new chairman, planned to include a family program with marriage counseling in the Committee's offerings.

R. F. Kroon having looked into the extra expenses involved in a student's public school career decided they were "more than I thought they were but an awful lot less than they might be". Regarding elementary dribbles as "small in comparison to those in the high school" he listed incidental expenses which must be met in the latter as totaling $15 to $30 a year, while optional ones could run an additional $5 to $15 in junior high and $10 to $30 in senior high.

The next scheduled meeting of the Home and School Association is scheduled for Tuesday, January 26.

Girl Scout Leaders Set up Workshop

A workshop for Girl Scout leaders in the Baltimore Pike District will be held Thursday, November 19, from 10 to 3 in the Loeffler Wing of the Swarthmore Presbyterian Church.

The morning program will consist of a workshop for the making of simple looms and suggestions for their use in troops of all age levels. There will also be a demonstration of tin can craft featuring items which can be made indoors and used later in outdoor camping.

The afternoon program will be composed of a demonstration of flag ceremonies, some suggestions for paper bag dramatics and a discussion of the new Girl Scout Handbook. Each leader should

ON LAFAYETTE ELEVEN

BOB McCOWAN Lafayette Guard

One of the stalwarts of Lafayette's forward wall this season is Bob McCowan, 210 - pound guard from Swarthmore.

Transferring to Lafayette last fall from the U.S. Naval Academy where he played on the Navy football team in 1951, McCowan was ineligible for competition last year.

This year, however, he was welcomed to the squad by Steve Hokuf, Lafayette coach, and had little difficulty making the first team. He transferred to Lafayette because he wanted to study administrative engineering.

Hokuf's only regret is that this is McCowan's first and last year at Lafayette. He will receive his sheepskin next June.

RECEIVES B.A. DEGREE

A bachelor of arts degree was awarded November 1, to Elinor Karns, Wellesley road, the second student to complete the Mount Holyoke five-year nursing program given in coordination with Hartford Hospital. The awarding of degrees was part of the annual Founder's Day service.

Under the program, Miss Karns spent her first three years at Mount Holyoke, completing a major in zoology. During this period, she spent six weeks of each summer at the Hartford Hospital School on courses in the theory and practice of nursing.

The last two years she attended classes and gained supervised clinical experience at the hospital and its out-patient department.

Miss Karns plans to go into Public Health Nursing under the Visiting Nurses Association in January.

Garnet Faces Parkers Saturday at 2:15 P.M.

Postponed Yeardon Game Will Be Played Next Fri.

The Yeardon-Swarthmore football game scheduled for last Saturday, was snowed out and will be played at 2 p.m. Friday, November 20 at Yeardon. This was somewhat of a disappointment to Garnet players as they felt they were in a winning groove after their 35-0 shellacking of Glen-Nor. But the delay may be profitable as they are gaining momentum and improving with every day of practice.

The Garnet will travel to Prospect Park tomorrow to meet an undefeated Prospecter clan. This is the sort of a game that could be labeled as "sleeper" because regardless of their winless record, they have given stiff competition to good teams and in addition possess one of the finest backs in the county in the person of Eddie Morell, Jr. Swarthmore will not be able to win if they cannot tie-up this fast, shifty halfback and break up the Blue and Gold short passing attack.

In an effort to strengthen the team the Garnet Mentors have made some personnel changes. Marnold Much, who has been alling all season has been moved to guard where he should strengthen the line immeasurably. Terry Delmuth has been shifted to full-back permanently after his fine showing in the Glen-Nor game. It is hoped Rob Wright can hold down the right half-back position and if not John Coleman is ready to step in. It also appears that Cal Coleman will take Bob Clothier's place at defensive right halfback.

The team is working to develop a potent attack that will bring them a winning season come Thanksgiving Day.

Water Pipe Makes Fountain of Fountain

A water pipe on South Chester road, burst its seams in the dead of night Monday, making the "Fountain" disturbingly realistic to proprietors Bob and Betty Hopkins.

Although all seemed well at the close of business at 11:30 Monday night, the cellar at 3 South Chester road where the Hopkins operate their ice cream "parlor" was covered with three feet of water at the dead of night, at 5:15 Tuesday morning when the janitor arrived on the premises.

The furnace which heats the drug store as well as the apartments above, had given up, but the new refrigerating units were operating briskly despite the flood.

Needless to say, repairs began immediately. The fire company brought its biggest pumper, to ball out the basement; official permission to tear up the borough's public sidewalk was graciously given by the borough secretary, and the investigation of the offending pipe began, with a water company official and numerous kitchen standing by to help; electricians tore down the machinery, dried it out and put it back together again — so that by 4:30 that afternoon the Hopkins were in business again.

What is a Quaker?

Dear Editor,
If you have not attended Friends Meeting and if you are curious about the Quaker Faith, the Quaker practice and peculiarities, you will find the answers to many of your questions in the current number of "Look" magazine, dated December 1.

It is shorter than the "Post" articles of a year ago and couched in simpler language than most religious writing. Richmond P. Miller, an alumnus of Swarthmore College and of Overbrook, has set up in "Look" a series of pertinent and searching questions which he proceeds to answer in a forthright manner. Several Swarthmore Friends have read the article and commend it to their neighbors.

Club Speaker Points Out Growing Frontiers

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, for 17 years staff speaker of the National Association of Manufacturers, addressed the Woman's Club of Swarthmore at the Tuesday meeting on the subject, "Building a Better America."

In a speech full of informality, humor, and sound philosophy, Dr. Stockdale presented the problems of the present day, and with his inimitable optimism made the audience feel that these problems can be solved and the world made better by God and "his cooperating children."

"We must not tell youth that the best has happened, and that the frontiers are gone," said Dr. Stockdale. "There are still frontiers just as real and challenging as ever. If God had finished your world, He would have spoiled it for you; He has left many things to be done by you."

Quoting frequently, "It is the glory of God to conceal things; it is the right of kings to search out a matter," the speaker emphasized that Communism says "No" to such a search, but in America searching and questioning are encouraged.

By many apt illustrations Dr. Stockdale pointed out the ever widening frontiers. In his youth appendicitis was not correctly diagnosed or treated; now a man may be back at work three weeks after an operation. The Wright brothers' first flight was 120 feet in 12 seconds; today just the wing span of a giant plane is longer than that. At a New York fashion show everything the models wore was made of coal, air, or sour milk. We have not begun to touch the resources of this world, he said.

"Ours is an intriguing world," he continued, "because it is unfinished. The great things of the world are, according to Carlyle, those which seem impossible. Work is not a menace; it is satisfying. The good things do not come naturally. You have to work for them. Fritz Kreisler spent two years just on finger exercises, and you pay not to hear the finger exercises but the wonderful results.

Dr. Stockdale mentioned some of the realistic problems that confront us. In 1975 the estimated population will be 160 million with a work force of 83.6 million, instead of our present 63 million. By 1960 there will be eight million new applicants for jobs. The average cost to make every industrial job is $12,000. As the people in Franklin County, Idaho built their own check dam, we too can accomplish the seemingly impossible by initiative and cooperation. "We certainly can take care of our expanding population and work force," was his assurance.

Another problem is the need for more school rooms and teachers. This must be faced and will be worked out so as to give our young people an adequate education and raise the profession of teaching to the dignity it deserves.

A third problem is the language barrier in our country. The enemies of America are spreading vicious philosophies by means of many languages. We must put the message of our country in every tongue. We criticize the newcomers to our land for what we consider irrelevance for our institutions, but have we found out how much is really understood? He explained how a factory engaged in a hazardous occupation won a safety plaque through its plan of making the rules of safety understood in the various languages of the workers. We must promote a better under-

Birthday Hostess

Sarah K. Nus, formerly a member of Trinity Church, Swarthmore, and now a resident of Christ Church Hospital, Fairmount Park, served as one of the 60 hostesses representing 38 different parishes at the 181st Birthday Party held at the Home on Thursday, November 19.

ELLIOTT RICHARDSON TO TALK TO LWV GROUP

Elliott Richardson, secretary of the borough, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Swarthmore League of Women Voters local tax study group Monday evening, November 30, at 8 at the home of Mrs. Helen Goodwin, 510 Walnut Lane.

Mr. Richardson will talk about some of the fiscal problems that borough council is now dealing with, and will lead the discussion, answering any questions that may arise. All members of the community are invited to attend the meeting. Mrs. John M. Moore is chairman of the committee on local taxation.

standing of what America really is.

"This is no time to get blue," concluded Dr. Stockdale, "It is time to get busy, to venture, and not be afraid of ourselves. Through education, religion, community living, and the sense of humor needed to live in this complicated, twisting world, we can build a better America. Let's do it."

ing role in "Father Unknown" his freshman year and in "Dog Beneath the Skin" the following year. Cooper was the recipient of the Maxwell Award for outstanding play in the Swarthmore-Haverford football game in 1952.

Julie Lange, a transfer from Oberlin as a sophomore and a mainstay of the hockey team since attending Swarthmore, is the daughter of Barbara Lange. She had a part in "Dog Beneath the Skin" last year.

Charles Torey, a steady performer in L.T.C. plays, had parts in "Child's Play", "Dog Beneath the Skin", and "Othello".

The Little Theater Club departs from its classic tradition to produce one of the newest and best of modern American plays by a current playwright. "All My Sons" is the first of a trio of successes including "Death of a Salesman" and "Crucible" by Miller, and as such is important in the history of the American Theater.

Yeadon Downs Garnet For 26 to 6 Victory

The Yeadon Eagles took to the air in convincing style, Friday afternoon to score three of their four touchdowns on forward pass plays; and turn back the Swarthmore High School footballers 26 to 6.

Although Yeadon was the pregame favorite, the first few minutes of the ball game looked as though Swarthmore was going to spring an upset. Receiving the kick-off they drove to the Yeadon 10 yard line before the Eagles took over on a pass interception. The first two hard charging carried the ball the hard charging Garnet wall pushed them back to the 5 yard line. On the third play, Yeadon's star ball carrier, after being trapped by a host of Garnet tacklers on the goal line, squirmed and wormed his way out to the 30 yard line.

At this point, the locals held and forced Yeadon to punt. Neither team was able to set up a scoring threat in the first quarter.

It was not until midway in the second quarter that Yeadon, after finding the Swarthmore line too rugged to pierce, resorted to a passing attack. Two touchdowns were scored in rapid succession as the Eagles hit the mark when their ends got downfield behind Garnet halfbacks.

Soon after the third quarter started, another Yeadon pass found its mark and Yeadon took a commanding 19 to 0 lead. Here the Garnet warriors dug in and pushed Yeadon back to their own 5 yard line. On the second play the Eagles shot a pass into the flat which was intercepted by the alert Rob Wright who carried to the 3 yard line. On the first play, Allen Baughman substituting for the injured Terry Delmuth, scored Swarthmore's lone touchdown through a huge hole provided by Rog Zensen and Captain George Allison.

Possibly one of the finest bits of defensive play was put on by the losers when they held Yeadon for three downs on the 2 yard line—and this occurred when many a team would have cared little if one or two more touchdowns had been scored. Swarthmore fumbling hurt greatly as they were not able to cope with Yeadon's ball stealing tactics. There were some bruises but all boys came out of the game in good shape.

Yvisaker Looks At Bill of Rights

"Freedom of speech carries with it the obligation of use" according to Dr. Paul M. Yvisaker, associate professor of political science at Swarthmore College, who addressed an open meeting of the Swarthmore League of Women Voters in Whittier House Monday on "Our American Heritage: The Bill of Rights".

Replying to a question from a local high school teacher in regard to the legality of the use of the Fifth Amendment by Philadelphia school teachers under recent questioning by the House Un-American Activities Committee, Yvisaker said personally he'd probably answer such queries but care should be exercised in judging others who call upon the Amendment, as there are many reasons why they might feel justified in doing so.

Although he recognized Communism as the worst threat to American Democracy, at least since the Civil War, Yvisaker sees Congressional Investigating Committees doing little if anything to uncover that threat. They have only publicized information already secured by Federal agencies like the FBI, he stated.

The Bill of Rights is a paradox, taken too automatically on one hand and resulting in fear and insecurity on the other, he declared. Most Americans are even ignorant of what it is. Yet it is a tribute to a people that over a long period of time it has effectively allowed the expansion of the Bill of Rights as originally given—this in spite of periodic repressions.

The Bill of Rights is not the tool it was expected to be since it has not been revised to allow social and economic rights such as have some states' bills of rights, or to include collective bargaining or end discrimination. It is limited if not inadequate in that it applies to government, not to groups. Dr. Yvisaker also sees a tendency today to reverse the concepts that a person is innocent until proven guilty and thinks much of present investigations are venting of "little hatreds". The attitude seems to be that the Bill of Rights—a lump contribution from the past was given to use to preserve at all costs, when actually it must expand to live or it will lose its character and die in the preserving. "It has become too respectable a symbol of majority will when historically it should be a symbol of the minority or unpopular."

Today's attitude of complacency is dangerous, Yvisaker feels. Possibly a new Constitutional Convention should be held since the current era differs greatly from 1779 or even 1929. However redoing the Bill and adding social and economic rights might but continue the old illusion that "listing rights is having the rights themselves", he fears.

The real solution, Dr. Yvisaker prescribes, lies in developing a social consciousness and working attitude toward such rights, a new way of looking at rights, through: effort of rational thought; inconvenience of becoming active politically; and regaining America's lost ability to argue with friendship, tolerance, dignity and mutual respect.

Oh, for a Second Chance

November 19
To The Editor:
One week ago today I locked myself in my grandmommy's bathroom. I tried very hard to unlock it, but as I'm only two years old I just couldn't do it. My grandmother (Mrs. Stanley L. MacMillan, Vassar avenue) called the police and they came right away. They were very nice but they couldn't get me out either, so they called the fire department.

Oh boy! That was really swell! A real fireman came on a real fire engine and climbed up a ladder to the window. I was glad to get out.

My mommy is writing this for me, because I can't write yet, and she says I'm to thank the Swarthmore police department and also the firemen too.

You know what? If I had a chance to do it again... Oh Boy!!

Local Boys Assist in College-Haverford Win

Sports Editor Commends Rivals' Athletic Policy

Swarthmore College defeated Haverford College 20-7 last Saturday in a hard fought game at Alumni Field on the College campus. Outstanding in this contest were a number of local boys.

Co-Captain Bill Jones of Vassar avenue started at Quarterback and ran the team well until forced to leave the game due to an injury in the second quarter.

Tom Simkin of Wallingford, six foot, 206 pound full back on the Garnet team scored the first touchdown and was called upon repeatedly during the afternoon when yardage was needed to make a first down and keep the Swarthmore attack rolling.

A key factor in the line for the local school was Dick Burtis of South Chester road. The entire Swarthmore forward wall deserves a great deal of credit for the fine job of stopping a heavier Haverford line in its attempt to spring backs loose for long runs.

Bill Bruce, Magill road, went into the game when Jones was injured and turned in a very creditable performance at wing back.

This game received a great deal of attention in the Philadelphia papers for two reasons:

One, the long rivalry between the two schools involving their common Quaker background and attitude toward football and other sports; and two, the Albert L. Hood trophy.

Leo Riordan, executive sports editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, in his address at the annual pre-game joint Alumni Luncheon of the two colleges, stated that the ideals that colleges such as Haverford and Swarthmore hold with regard to a well rounded sports program as part of the over-all educational picture, are very important in keeping the game of football alive in the colleges of this country.

He stressed the influence of the Hood trophy in taking the pressure off football and making all sports an equal factor in the competition between the two colleges. He suggested that other colleges might well take a clue from this policy and revise their own programs in a more realistic light.
