68 VIEW FILMS IN FINAL STORY HOUR

Approximately 68 children and some adults viewed the series of films presented Thursday of last week at the Public Library's final story hour for the summer.

The program, held in the Woman's Club, was opened by Mrs. Henry I. Hoot, club president, and included films secured from the Free Philadelphia Library.

E. P. Cheslock, of the engineering research and development division of E. W. Bliss Company, 101 South Chester road, showed the films on his own projector. An industrial designer familiar with film-making, Mr. Cheslock himself considered the films "tops."

Among those enjoying the presentation were a grandmother and her two grandchildren from Newtown Square, who had read of the presentation, and members of the Library staff and board of directors.

Also concluded last Thursday was the seminar conducted by Mrs. Barbara Gates. In all, an average of 21 attended this five-week discussion series which considered the treatment of women as set forth in major 19th Century novels.

At the story hours held on July 18, 17 children in third grade and over were held spellbound in the American Legion Room by the tales told by Mrs. Hoot and Mrs. Roland G. E. Ullman. Mrs. Grace Pesique captivated 32 of the younger group in the session held concurrently in the clubhouse.

Two burglaries were reported each involving only the loss of several bottles of liquor. Seven bicycles were missing of which five have been recovered.

In the traffic category - eleven summonses were issued covering six for speeding, two for reckless driving, and three for going through red lights. Five auto accidents occurred with no serious injuries or damage.

A total of 241 phone and radio calls were handled - six of these resulted in the breaking up of gang rowdiness and loitering - two downtown and four elsewhere in the Borough.

Informal Concert Ends Summer Music

The Swarthmore Summer music program concluded this past weekend with an informal outdoor concert attended by all participants in the recreation program and a number of interested parents.

As an experiment, the 40 piece Summer Band was set up in the covered bus-loading area beneath the Elementary School Library. This not only provided a cool and shady area for listening but the acoustical properties proved to be surprisingly good.

At the conclusion of the half hour musical performance, refreshments provided by high school bandmen Pam Larson, Dory Piccard, Nona Reinhardt and Pam Nelson, were served to all the performing musicians.

Summer Clubbers Review 6-Week Program Ending August Second

The entire Swarthmore Recreation Association Summer Club program closed for the 1968 season last week. For Jeremy Klotz, Evan McCarthy, Jessica Reading and Weller Small of the three-year-olds, Field Day was highlight of the season. For Adrienne Slinenoff, David Tracy, Robin Ziegenfus, Cynthia Pappas and Jimmy McGarry the train ride to Wawa the week before, was the highlight.

Gretchen Nickels, Joan Saunders, Carole Lee Stimmel and Stephanie Brodsky found the hot dog roast and painting totem poles the most fun. The pony rides were the all around favorite of the season's special events.

4-year-olds
In the last few weeks, four-year-olds hunted watermelons and collage materials, rode the train to Wawa and heard the band concert. Barbara Fukushima is a superior treasure hunter with Chris and Steve Gaty right on her heels.

Beth Klingler, Jon Larson and Gregory Breslin had a great interest in band rehearsals and the concert. Barbara Chernoff and Jamie Hamilton did a fine job of block printing; Tosca Maestro, Katie Bech, Vicky Foster and Elizabeth Crane have had an imaginative, busy and very damp household going in the doll corner.

Tim Tracy and Sarah Campbell applied themselves to craft projects with fine results and everyone enjoyed making multi-colored play clay to take home. The Wawa and Concordville train trip was a great success, with excellent behavior from all the children.

Kindergarten
Kindergartners spent the last couple of weeks doing many new things and learning many new games and songs. Alan Collins, Jayme Goodale, Raymond Condren, Ritamarie Gross, and Tommy Harry made especially interesting designs with string painting. Everyone helped mix up two big batches of play dough and Jimmy Harris, Fritz Tesserand, Gretchen graders kept themselves, and Klotz and Alfreda Lyons all in the molded their dough into animals and dishes to take home.

The Watermelon Hunt was won Every one did a good job of making Christmas decorations. Kingham, Alex Bowie, Karl for their Christmas in July Oerth, Mike Mudrick, Hobo Day celebration; Howard Hopkins, Katherine Lynn, Richard Hughey, Nahmi Jones, Tommy Rick Shaffer, 3rd Bart Mackey; Ziel, Kim Smith and Kenny Girls - 1st Georgia Pappas, wacha especially enjoyed trim- 2nd Mandy Weir, 3rd Holly ming the paper Christmas tree. Groff.

1st Grade
The First Grade class continued to divide its time between indoor and outdoor activities. Larry Anastasi, Jimmy Foster, Benjie Heck-secker and Tommy Jenkins enjoyed kick baseball and joined in several games with the second and third grade classes. For craft projects the class made kites, twirlers, clocks, pencil and leather comb cases and change purses.

Susan Rose, Betsy Rosenberg and Missy Taylor are several who enjoyed making pudding in class along with Jeff Surrena, Dan Tracy, John Keggi and Kevin Kaiser who helped them.

Thursday, July 25 was Hobo Day. First, second and third places were awarded to Jeff Behr, Ted Weaver and Declan Weir, respectively. Sam Reynolds, Blair Rollin and Debbie Kitt are only a few of the children who have attended class regularly and, have enjoyed the many special events planned for them during the six week program.

2nd Grade
Hobo Day was also one of the big events for the Second Grade with Ned Harvey, Bethany Butterfield, Ted Fry and Linda Barbour winning awards for their costumes. After the children who were not "hobos" chose their favorites, they all went outside to create ice paintings.

Another exciting event was craft projects with Brian Keller and Gigi Mackey, the Fukushima twins and Jimmy Rothschild excelling in running and jumping. The team of Robert Gates and David Lee were expert in the wheelbarrow race.

Sian Gergen and Sandra Linn made interesting objects from salt ceramics, a medium new to most of the children. Debbie Ziegenfus and Anne Bowie enjoyed making vases by covering tin cans with whipped soap. Craft activities for the last especially interesting designs were paper flowers.

Neal Webers Return From Trip to S. A.

Dr. and Mrs. Neal Weber of White Plains returned to South America for three weeks in connection with Dr. Weber's research program that deals with fungus-insect relationships. In Rio de Janeiro he attended the concluding session of the third Brazilian Congress of Zoologists and met with colleagues.

At the second Latin-American Congress on Biology of the Soil held at the University of Santa Maria in Southern Brazil he was an invited speaker on his research. The fungus-growing ants are the chief agents locally in Middle and South America in introducing organic matter into the soil and are significantly involved in the general ecology of the soil. In Brazil they are a major factor in agriculture. Dr. Weber carried on research with Brazilian colleagues in Rio Grande do Sul state.

An extensive entertainment program was included for the women and trips were made to museums, churches, estancias (ranches) and the Sierras.

In Buenos Aires, Argentina the Webers met with friends made while Dr. Weber was the scientific attaché in the U.S. Embassy. He also carried on field work on the pampas with University of Buenos Aires colleagues.

They revisited their former home and many other places of interest. Stops in Panama and St. Augustine, Trinidad were also made for research purposes, including the terminal part of a three-year program on the campus of the University of the West Indies. Several trips to the famous beaches and mountains were included.

The Webers arrived home Tuesday.

Cushing stated the property could be purchased by the borough with no loss to the present owners, the Rumble house resale would bring back $80,000 of which the Borough's half could be paid by a one-mill tax for five years. He said that discussions with directors of Delaware County and Springfield Township Park Commissions indicated the proposed Swarthmore park could be maintained for $3000 a year.

Councilman Henry McCorkle said this would be the borough's first application for State aid, and its first levy for recreational purposes. The proposed park according to his estimate would only cost $3 to $10 per taxpaying family per year to acquire and maintain.

Councilman Lucian Burnett declared the purchase would be one of the wisest investments the borough ever made for the future, and that if at any time Council wanted to abandon park and recreational use of the tract it could sell it if the State's investment were repaid with interest.

Elrney K. Morse, acting chairman of Swarthmore Planning Commission and an ex-president of Council, said the Commission favors obtaining the tract.

Mrs. David Field, president of Swarthmore League of Women Voters, read a statement favoring public acquisition of such land as "not a luxury but a necessity in terms of livability."

Council Debates Buying 4 1/2 Acres

Postpones Decision On Titus-Rumble Property

Borough Council Monday night debated for an hour in executive session and another hour in public discussion as to whether it will purchase quickly to retain for public use a four-and-a-half acre tract running from the rear of the Borough lot on Cresson lane to Yale avenue.

The land belongs to the August Titus and Walter Rumble families and lies behind their homes on Swarthmore avenue. The Rumble property is under agreement of sale to Francis G. and Sandra P. Cannon of Folsom who propose to erect seven houses on 70-foot-wide lots.

Councilman John Cushing said it would be an "absolute crime and a travesty on our esthetic values" to permit this sole remaining natural open area in the borough to be destroyed. "You can't swap green acres for green dollars," he said after A. Sidney Johnson, Jr., a North Chester road citizen voiced opposition to the borough's spending money to buy the land and thus removing it as a source of tax income.

Cushing stated the property could be purchased by the borough with no loss to the present owners, the Rumble house resale would bring back $80,000 of which the Borough's half could be paid by a one-mill tax for five years. He said that discussions with directors of Delaware County and Springfield Township Park Commissions indicated the proposed Swarthmore park could be maintained for $3000 a year.

African Studies Topic For Intensive Course

Ernest C. Falcone, instructor of economics and government at Swarthmore High School, completes today an intensive six-weeks course in African studies at Haverford College.

Falcone is one of seven area high school teachers taking the course; the others coming from Springfield, Beverly Hills, Fennerest, Haverford, Cardinal O'Hara, Kennett Square.

The participants studied African history, politics, international relations and culture. They also studied methods of teaching African subjects to high school students. In addition to classroom instruction, the participants practiced teaching African subjects to counselors at the annual Serendipity Day Camp on the Haverford campus.

Five visiting lecturers, including the ambassador from Ghana and James Farmer, Congressional candidate and former director of CORE, widened the scope of the institute by lecturing on subjects ranging from contemporary political issues to African folk music.

The institute is supported by a $43,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education.

The television appearance is an encore for Dr. Logue who discussed the Republican National Convention on the program on August 2nd. Logue will be questioned by the program's moderator, Tom Snyder, as well as by viewers who call in.

New Appointments To College Faculty

Two new members will be added to the philosophy department at the college this fall. Edwin Allaire comes from the University of Iowa where he was professor of philosophy and chairman of the department. He holds the B.A. from Drew University and the M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Iowa. He has been a visiting lecturer at Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Taylor of College Avenue recently attended a three-week Choral Workshop for high school students at Temple University. Some 48 top piano and vocal students from all over the country attended the workshop held at the university's Ambler campus. The group performed with the Pennsylvania Ballet Company's performance of Carmina Burana at Temple's Music Festival. Miriam will be in the 11th grade in the fall.

Kathy and Doug Hughes are here this week visiting their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Myers of Dickinson Avenue. Their mother Mrs. James A. Hughes arrived yesterday, to remain until Monday when the three of them will return to their home in South Miami, Fla.

Mrs. A. M. H. Sheldon of the Swarthmore Apartments is spending a week in Toronto, Canada, as the guest of Mrs. William H. Brown, former resident of Riverview Road.

Dr. Ruth C. Webb and Mrs. Frances Lohr will arrive today to be the guests of Dr. Webb's mother Mrs. William H. Webb of South Chester Road.

Elizabeth and Ann Martha Logue, Yale and Rutgers alumnae, left Saturday to visit their uncles and aunts Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Logue, Merion, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Logue, Boston, at their summer homes on Martha's Vineyard.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Welland of South Chester Road had as their guests last week Mr. and Mrs. Parks Carpenter and their daughters Jody and Janet from St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Carpenter, a nephew of Mrs. Welland, came to Philadelphia to attend the American Bar Association Convention. David Flink of Washington, Mo., was also a guest of the Wellands last week. He visited with them for a few days enroute home after flying back from Europe where he and a group of students had been touring for seven weeks. He is a grandson of Mrs. Welland.

Every 10 years you double the amount of electricity you use. So, for the next five years, we're doubling our spending for growing, stepping it up to a billion dollars.

Near Peach Bottom atomic power station, we're building two nuclear giants with more than 2,000,000 kilowatts generating capacity. Both will be on the line in '73. By '73, we'll share another million kilowatts from a Salem, New Jersey atomic power plant. All "clean" electric energy generation.

We are now receiving our portion of 1,800,000 kilowatts from Keystone in Western Pennsylvania, with equal capacity in the future from Muddy Run plant. And these far-away installations keep our air cleaner here.

Our billion dollar build-up should line up the power you'll want.

'Crash' Essay Wins Rotary Safety Prize

Winners in the recent Safe Driving Week Essay and Project Contest were announced recently. The best essay was written by senior Edward Corae, the title of which was "Crash."

Runner-up recognition was awarded to Arthur Johnson for his essay "Other Drivers." The Essays appear below:

CRASH
By Ed Corae

CRASH, that's an all too familiar sound. It's a sound that claims the lives of 50,000 Americans every year. Most of the people who are killed are between the ages of 18 and 24, the years when life should just be getting under way, not ending in a pile of twisted steel.

There is only one way to avoid this waste: ban the auto. Without cars, those 50,000 a year would still be around. But - the automobile is an essential part of our society.

The driver is the one who tells the car what to do. The car is just a machine; it can't think; if the driver doesn't know what to do or is unable to function properly, then real trouble begins. The best cure is getting to the driver.

O.K., now all we have to do is train the drivers in the proper operation of a car; that should fix the whole mess, right? Wrong, most drivers between 18 and 24 already know how to drive and probably quite well, so training won't do much good in their cases.

What is the problem? A good question. The problem is common sense, a precious element found only in the darkest part of the human mind. Common sense in driving is one factor that is essential for survival.

Common sense tells a person to look out for the other guy, stay at a safe speed, watch for hidden stop signs (not that they are prevalent, but neither are earthquakes).

Using common sense may not seem like much of a chore for an intelligent individual like you, but think back and recall how many close calls you've had. Maybe it was a patch of ice or a sharp curve you didn't judge correctly. When you're behind the wheel, the odds are against you, and it's up to you to call their bluff. Good common sense will usually mark the right path, the path to safer driving.

Now that we have solved the problem, everything should be jim-dandy. Only one problem remains. Common sense has a powerful enemy that seems to find its way into many situations; it is easy to spot because it goes in through the front door; alcohol.

Alcohol kills common sense and almost everything a driver has which helps keep him on the road. Alcohol numbs the senses, all six, and when that happens the safe driver turns into a happy monster that kills. A little firewater will go a long way to help stop the population explosion with another kind of explosion; CRASH!

OTHER DRIVERS
By Arthur Johnson

"You're a rotten driver," I protested, "either you ought to be more careful, or you oughtn't to drive at all."

"I am careful!"
"No, you're not!"
"Well, other people are," she said lightly.

"What's that got to do with it?"
"They'll keep out of my way," she insisted. "It takes two to make an accident."

"Suppose you meet somebody just as careless as yourself?"
"I hope I never will," she answered.

The above passage is from "The Great Gatsby" by F. Scott Fitzgerald, a book written in 1925, a time when the automobile was just beginning to appear on the American scene. Yet the time in which it was written does not detract from the basic truth contained in that passage: it is a mistake to think that other people will look out for you, if you don't look out for yourself and them.

It is a natural human impulse to "let the other fellow do it" (perhaps even a great American tradition). Perhaps Jordan Baker (the woman driver in the above passage) could have gotten away with that philosophy in 1925, when 35 m.p.h. was the very fastest speed that any normal person could justify traveling. But on today's roads, where such speeds as 70 m.p.h. and even higher are becoming commonplace, such a philosophy will inevitably lead to tragedy.

Right now, imagine that you are driving on the Los Angeles Freeway, or some other comparable place, traveling 70 miles per hour in incredibly close traffic conditions. Every second, you are traveling a distance equal to more than one third of a football field, approximately 103 feet. Going this fast, even if he was trying to look out for you, the "other driver" could not possibly be able to avoid an accident with you if you were the slightest bit careless.

Of course, one might say "I don't travel on the L.A. Freeway; the fastest road I go on is the Baltimore Pike." This can afford you little comfort. The Baltimore Pike has a speed limit fast enough to kill instantly anyone involved in a head-on collision. Also, it has the added danger of stoplights and intersections, which more than make up for the lesser speed.

Next, let us take a look at who the "other drivers" are. The chances are just about even that this other driver is less careful than you are. He could be a hot-rodder, a drunk, a businessman thinking about his business instead of the road, or any number of "nice people" who are dangerous with a steering wheel in their hands. He is definitely not a person to whom you pledge your blind faith, your car, and your life.

"The Great Gatsby" marked the first time in American literature in which a car was the instrument of tragedy. Any person with Jordan Baker's outlook on driving (and life) should not feel safe from becoming the latest victim.

Archaeologists At Nagadeh Watch Preparations for Visit From Newly Crowned Iranian Empress

The account below is the second this summer from Mary Virginia Harris who is currently in Iran with the University of Pennsylvania Museum's archaeological expedition in Nagadeh. Her particular task with the expedition is to record all objects found in the "dig." As can be seen from Miss Harris' report below, there is far more than excavating to keep an archaeologist intrigued.

The flat roofs of the village houses are already heaped high with hay for the cattle, geese, donkeys and other animals (who share the house at night and in winter) to feed on when the cold weather comes.

"For the last week the entire area has been preparing for a visit tomorrow by the newly crowned Iranian Empress Fara, the first such visit ever made here. In the little town of Nagadeh six miles away, the only town of any size in our area, a new square with a statue of the Shah has been created, paved and planted in less than 10 days. Banners span every inch of the main street and a new sidewalk has been laid leading to the town water faucet; however old habits are hard to break so everyone still walks in the old dirt path. Every store front is gay with flags and new merchandise has suddenly appeared on the ground before the shops, phonographs or sewing machines made in Japan. The only bridge over the Gadar River has been arched with wire and a tunnel of flowers made for her to drive through.

"A mile from our mound on the Nagadeh-Istehard road, normally a track of stones, pot holes and chalk-white dust - a road scraper has smoothed some of the deepest ruts and our village has erected an arch for her car to pass under. Long strips of print cloth, all different colors, cover the wooden frame, all the village rugs have been thrown over the top, and on the very peak is a large crown, originally decorated by the expedition members with flowers made from various colored facial tissues in honor of the birthday last Friday of the Expedition (Continued on Page 7)

Uganda Safari' Color Film Sun. Fred Wilsons To Show 7:30 Movie, Library

A stampede of nearly 500 hippos is described as the highlight of the color movie film, "Uganda Safari," to be shown Sunday night, beginning at 7:30 in the Public Library, Borough Hall. The program, which lasts approximately an hour, is presented by The Friends of the Swarthmore Public Library.

The film was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Wilson, Walnut Lane, while they were on a 22-day safari through three Ugandan national parks in March of 1967. The pictures include shots of lions, leopards, an elephant herd of about 100, a view of some 300 to 400 cape buffalo as well as glimpses of nearly 50 African birds.

The Wilsons, with another couple, flew from Entebbe on Lake Victoria to Kidepo where they met their hunter-guide, and the 12 "boys," natives who prepared and served the food and handled camp duties.

They traveled in a self-contained safari car and two five-ton trucks, lived in tents and moved from park to park over roads that made 15 miles per hour seem like a good clip.

Their route took them from Kidepo, on the Sudan-Abyssinian border to Murchison Falls National Park, and from there to the Queen Elizabeth Park. "Hunting" took place from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, with time out for a trip back to camp for lunch.

"Uganda Safari" is the second African trip for the Wilsons. Their first was in 1964 to Kenya and Tanganyika, now Tanzania. Swarthmoreans enjoyed viewing the photographic results of this trip in the film entitled "On Safari with Sid Downey."

The Library Friends issue a cordial invitation to all, but especially to library members, to join them at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Swarthmore Borough residents' requests for blood may be made to Mrs. Johan Natvig, Red Cross Chairman of Blood, KI 3-0324, or to her co-chairman Mrs. George Stauffer, KI 3-3861.

LABOR DAY, Oh Labor Day!
You come but once a year;
Just as Summer's started
Now you're almost here.

This, we know, will never wind up in a book of the best poems of 1968 - but it might bring your attention to the fact that many of you do not do your serious vacationing until after Labor Day. The beautiful days and cooler nights attract many travelers to the roads.

If you are one of the many who do your vacationing now - remember to get plenty of film before you go. - Some resorts let their supplies dwindle at the season's end.

Police and Fire News

Swarthmore and Springfield police and Swarthmore's First Assistant Fire Chief Joseph Delozier spent two hours searching Crum Woods for a five-year-old red-haired boy who became lost while walking with his grandfather there Sunday afternoon.

When the boy was finally located at 1:50 p.m. walking up the hill behind Delozier's house at 10 Crum ledge, the grandfather couldn't be found. However, the latter returned from his own search 15 minutes later and all got together at his car table model parked at the driveway leading to the meadow.

A burglary took place in the home of Horace Renshaw, 301 Cornell avenue between the time the family left on Wednesday, August 14 and their return on August 17 at approximately 8:30 p.m. They found the front door standing open, mail lying inside on the living room floor.

A dining room cabinet was standing open and various articles were on the floor including monogrammed glasses that were neatly stacked up as if to go, and by the door was a bathroom scale. Taken were: a blue electric typewriter, a E. Toaster-Oven and an RCA black table model radio, total value approximately $225.

Swarthmore firemen were called at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday to a house fire in Morton, two doors from the Morton Fire House on Woodland avenue. Every piece of Swarthmore's apparatus went to the fire, and the borough itself was covered by two trucks sent from Woodlyn. Rutledge and Springfield Fire Companies also were called to the fire which virtually destroyed the house. No injuries were reported, although several of the men were affected by the combined heat of the fire and weather. Local firemen began returning about 5 p.m.

Swarthmore's Patrolman John Wesley was also at the fire as assistant chief and vice president of the Springfield Fire Company.

Swarthmore will be celebrated at 8 a.m. Sunday. Morning Prayer and Baptism will be held at 10.
Mid-week Holy Communion will be held at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The opinions expressed below are those of the individual writers. All letters to The Swarthmorean must be signed. Pseudonyms may be used if the writer is known to the Editor. Letters will be published only at the discretion of the Editor.

Involuntary Contribution

A copy of the following letter to Borough Council was delivered to The Swarthmorean for publication:
Hon. Harry Grayson Smith, President Swarthmore Borough Council
Borough Hall
Swarthmore, Penna. 19081

Dear President Smith:

There seems to be an effort to have the Borough purchase for public use some four and one-half acres of ground. This ground is referred to as the tract running from the rear of the Borough lot on Cresson lane to Yale avenue. It is stated in the report in the Swarthmorean that the proposed purchase is for public use, or as someone is reported to have said "for esthetic values."

It is suggested that the Council may not wish to consider the use of public funds for the purchase of ground merely to remove it from private use or for esthetic values. Rather, it would seem that any who are so interested should put their interest in, purchase the ground and donate it to the Borough. They should not attempt to shift their charitable urge to require the imposition of an involuntary contribution by the tax paying members of the community.

It is hoped that the Council will exercise restraint in not acceding to the request to incur this unnecessary obligation.

Sincerely yours,
George W. McKeag
645 Parrish Road.

Supports Purchase

To the Editor:
On the basis of studies conducted earlier in the '60's by members of the League of Women Voters of Swarthmore, resulting in consensus favoring the preservation of open space within the Boro and public support for a well-balanced, year-round recreation program for residents of all ages, the League urges the acquisition of the Rumble property for public use.

There is very little open land left in the Boro. A healthy balance between open land and population is cited by the National Recreation Association as ten acres per 1000 population. At present Delaware County provides about half this amount. Taking this into account, for Swarthmore with a population (1960 Census) of 5723, the ideal amount of open space would be at least thirty acres. At present the Borough has less than five acres allotted to public land.

While it is true that public purchase of land means expenditure of public funds, and removes that property from the tax rolls, it also relieves the Boro of the necessity of providing services to tenants who would otherwise require them at no small cost to the taxpayer. It is also true that we are at present fortunate to be able to use so much of the college land, but no one can guarantee that this generous policy will remain unchanged. Therefore, in order to assure the availability of park lands and/or organized recreational facilities to the residents of Swarthmore, the League of Women Voters strongly supports purchase of the Rumble property by the Boro.

Mrs. David M. Field, President
League of Women Voters

Green Acres
Borough Council
Borough Hall

Gentlemen:
I concur with the sentiments of Councilman John Cushing, as reported in the Swarthmorean of August 16, with regard to the need of "green acres" for our community. No community can live in the past or only for the present; we must plan ahead for the future.

The lack of open area for recreational purposes is becoming more and more of a problem, Swarthmore is no longer a rural area. It is, today, a suburb in the full sense of the word. Tomorrow, perhaps, Swarthmore will be part of a megalopolis. Will it be a livable part, or will it be a true bedroom community? The answer to that question rests with the wisdom of our community planners of today.

The decision as to whether the Borough should purchase the 4 1/2 acres of land should not be based upon the negative attitude that taxes will go up, but rather upon the good this purchase will do for the community. Complain all you will about taxes -- they still will go up. At least let us spend our tax dollars where we can demonstrate value received for the expenditure.

The purchase of "green acres" for our community is as necessary as any other community service; perhaps more so. Now is the time to make the investment for the future of Swarthmore.

Very truly yours,
Bernard Morrill

County Schools Receive $130,000 Federal Grant Aids Special Education

The Delaware County Board of School Directors has been awarded a $130,000 grant by the U. S. Office of Education to continue for a second year a special education program designed to train teachers to work with children who have perceptual problems or are emotionally disturbed.

Prior to the initial funding of the program in 1967 under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1963, children with learning disabilities were often placed in special classes for the feeble-minded or in homebound instruction or permitted to remain in regular classrooms.

The special education program is designed to help alleviate this situation through the training program for interested teachers, and the immediate operation of classes for children with learning disabilities.

Trained Teachers It is hoped the teacher training program will provide trained teachers for future needs in the special education field. The teachers in the program attend summer school classes and classes during the regular school year at the Graduate School of Education, Temple University, on scholarships provided by the program.

Consultants of national prominence and expertise in the area of learning disabilities are employed to supplement the course work of the program teachers and also to speak to other educators in the County interested in special education.

The teacher education program also provides in-service training, teaching materials, and demonstrations for helping selected kindergarten and first grade teachers to identify and give proper training to these children in their regular classrooms.

Nineteen special classes for children who have perceptual problems or are emotionally disturbed have been established under the program. In each class, a teacher and aide work with approximately eight children, offering individual attention to help them overcome their particular disabilities. The children enrolled in the program at the Harvard Avenue School, Swarthmore, are referred by local school principals or supervisors or County or district psychologists. They are accepted only after careful evaluation. Not all children referred can be accepted. It is hoped that children in the program may eventually return to their regular classrooms.

Set Tennis Finals The Swarthmore Tennis Club will hold its Tournament Finals next weekend. Mixed Doubles will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, August 31, Senior Men's Singles will be held at 3 p.m.

Director, Dr. Dyson. "All week on every hill top two mounted cavalrymen have been silhouetted; their long rifles pointing high. The Empress is scheduled to pass under "our" arch about 11 a.m. and we will go out and join the villagers to sit on the wheat stubble and eat Persian melons while waiting to see her and her entourage sweep across the plain.

"The expedition has achieved part of its aim. We have excavated down to and revealed several of the small houses and the hearths of the Hajji Firuz culture dating to approximately 5300-5500 BC. One can stand on the banks the excavators leave between their sections and look down into those ancient homes. They seem very small, yet their utensils and cooking pots are very large. One jar still embedded in the earthen floor, is large enough for a 13-year-old girl to crouch down in while cleaning it out. In the corner of one room alone over a dozen biconical spindle whorls were preserved and more than 65 have been found in the excavations. How we would like to know what type of cloth those ancient women wore.

"We have many shards of decorated pottery. Two particularly unusual ones are red with large round cream color polka dots. We all spend many late hours trying to fit the thousands of broken pot shards together in order to learn the shapes those early potters created. For those interested in archaeology what we have reconstructed very definitely associates the Hajji Firuz culture to the Hassuna Neolithic wares.

"It is sad for me to realize that our time to leave is approaching. How I will miss my six-foot, bearded, graduate students who work so steadily in the hot sun and constant dust from 6 to 6 every day. Yet they can dance and sing and joke with me as we relax by the light of our kerosene lamp after our evening meal of kebab and rice and melon or a rare treat of Fossagnin made with goose meat and pomegranate juice."

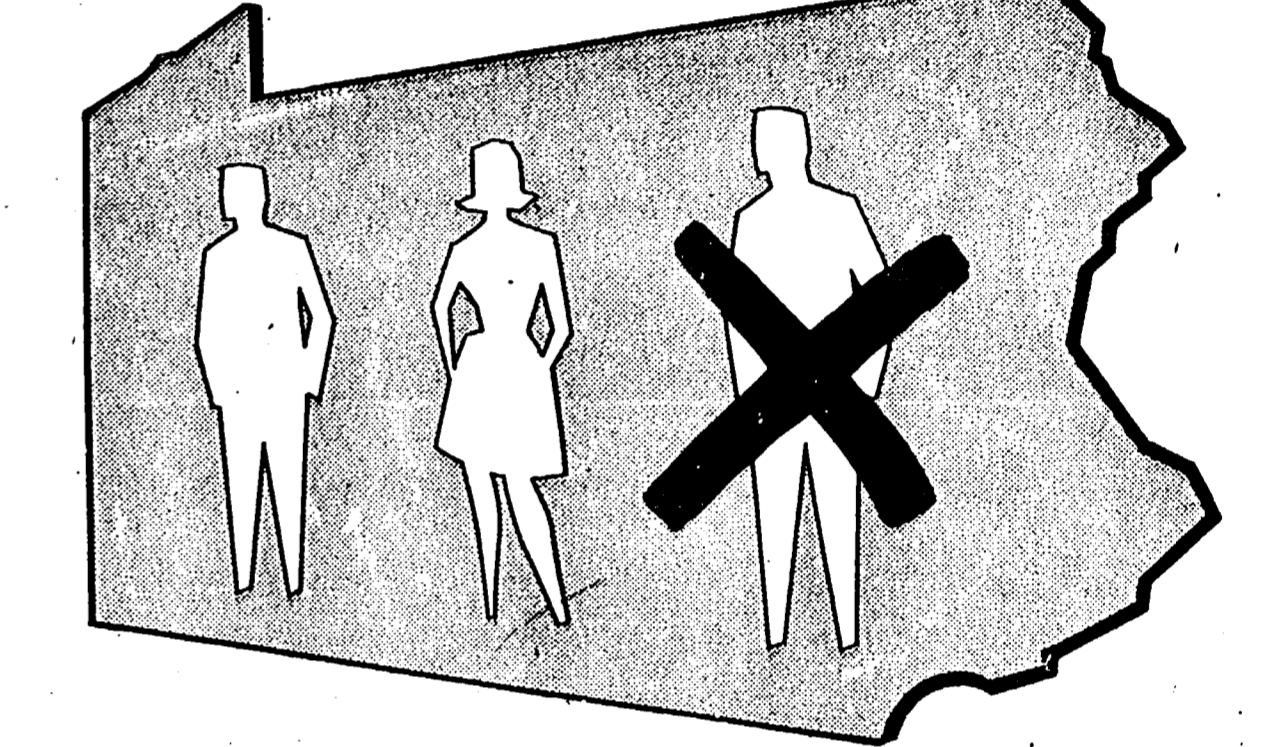

Under date of August 9, Miss Harris wrote, "I had typed the enclosed before we went out to see the Empress pass by and I must add an addenda. We were all comfortably seated and eating our melon when a truckload of gendarmes came by, stopped, held a conference and then told us we could not

FAREWELL BRUNCH HONORS THE MILLS

Dr. and Mrs. G. Alex Mills of Walnut lane were entertained at a farewell brunch given Sunday by Dr. and Mrs. Walter N. Moir of South Chester road.

The Mills will move to Bethesda, Md., shortly as the result of Dr. Mills's appointment as assistant director of coal research, U.S. Bureau of Mines, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Mills resigned as director of research of the Houdry Process Co., Linwood, to accept the Washington appointment. He is president of the Friends of the Swarthmore Public Library. Mrs. Mills resigned recently as associate librarian of the Public Library. Dr. Mills was associated with boy scouting in Swarthmore for a number of years and was one of the early officers of the Swarthmore Swim Club.

Other guests at the brunch in the Moir home were:

Mrs. Harlan R. Jessup of Frederick, Md., daughter-in-law of Mrs. J.H. Jessup of Haverford avenue; Dr. and Mrs. Hallock Campbell of Wallingford; Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Beckmann, Capt. and Mrs. Hubert Tibbetts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Zecher, all of Swarthmore.

The Mills' daughter Janice will leave shortly for Wittenberg University, Springfield, O., where she is enrolled as a freshman.

William W. Shugarts, III, Dickinson avenue, has graduated from the United States Army Engineer Officer Candidate School at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, and has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Transportation Corps.

The 23-week course is designed to provide the U.S. Army with qualified transportation platoon leaders.

Attends Convention

Alex Cox of Elm avenue flew to Chicago from the San Antonio Hemis-Fair Saturday to participate in Democratic Convention activities outside the amphitheater. He worked as a volunteer for the Texas delegation challenging Governor Connally, assisted the Committee of Returned Volunteers (veterans of workcamps, Peace Corps, VISTA, etc.) in their endeavors to have their position on Vietnam incorporated into the Democratic Platform.

Mr. Cox joined volunteer efforts for McCarthy's nomination, and as he put it, "attempted to understand what students were saying through their demonstrations." He reported that he enjoyed getting together with stimulating, dedicated people of varied ages from all over the country.

Sr. Girl Scouts In OFF Project

"Operation Fun and Friendship" was the title of the summer project in Chester during two two-week periods in July and August.

Senior Girl Scouts, volunteers and adults participated in bringing girl scouting to girls aged 7 - 11 in four different areas of the city. The scouts, in full charge of the program, offered a variety of dancing, arts and crafts and outdoor skills. The personal attention, understanding and flair for organization resulted, it is reported, in a warm response from the children and a successful project.

A group of young boys appeared at one area and were welcomed by the advisor, Mrs. John Trevaskis. This area, the Fair Grounds, is where her troop meets regularly and she reported that some of these boys had been wanting to be Girl Scouts for a long time.

She recruited her son John and some of his friends, John McWilliams, Albert Miller and Arthur Nowell who took charge of the boys and gave them their own program.

Each area had from 40 - 50 children and was staffed by 12 girl scouts from Delaware County and two adults.

Those from Swarthmore Troop 16 included Linda Chansky, Marje Forrest, Laura Goldberg, Jane Good, Helen Hasbrouck, Peggy Hart, Cordelia Hebble, Vanessa Lin, Betty Smolin, Miriam Taylor, Laura Wray and Ellen Wrege. Vanessa Lin worked in both the July and August programs.

Adults from Swarthmore included Mrs. John Spencer, Mrs. Trevaskis and Mrs. Grant Hebble.
